Thirty years study and experiment have been given to perfecting the formula for Parsons' Pills, and the universal judgment of the highest medical authorities, scientists, and men of learning, is that our formula is the best yet devised by the brain of man, and should rank with the wonderful discoveries of the world. No family should be without them, for there is no other remedy in the world capable of conferring so much benefit, excepting, possibly Johnson's Anodyne Liniment. The information contained in the wrapper around each box is worth ten times the cost of a box of pills; it shows how to avoid and how to cure all manner of diseases, and how to correctly interpret the symptoms thereof. Sold everywhere, or sent by real for 25 cents in stamps. A valuable illustrated medical book sent free to all who send their address.

Mullins, the Agnostic.

AS TOLD BY DEACON STILLWATER. His name was William Mullins, and He had a sneerin' way Of tu nia' his proboscis up At everything you'd say.
"Wall, now, how do ye know," says he; "Humph. now, how do ye know?"
The way it closed an argument
It wan't by no means slow.

You might be talkin' social like With fellers at the store On war and politics and sich And you might have the floor And be a-gittin' things down fine, Provin' that things were so, When Mullins would stick his long nose in Wish "Humph, now, how do ye know?" I seen that critter set in church And take a sermon in, And turn his nose up in a sneer

At death and grace and sin, With no regard for time and place Or realms of endless woe, He'd rise and bust the hull thing up With "Humph, now, how do ye know." He cut his grass whenever it rained, He shocked his wheat up green, He cut his corn behind the frost,

His hogs were allus lean. He built his stacks the big end up, His corn-cribs big end down; "Crooked as Mullins' roadside fence" Was a proverb in our town. The older he got the wuss he grew, And crookeder day by day; The squint of his eyes would wind a clock,

His toes turned out each way;

The rheumatiz twisted so;

But if you said he didn't look well, He'd growl, "Now, how do ye know?" And that darned grit led to his leath-He was on the railroad track Crossin' a bridge; I heard the train, Ana yelled, "Mullins, come back! The train is round the curve in sight!' Says he, "Humph, how to ye know?" I helped to gather him up in a pail, The engine scatter . min so.

His boots and shoes were both of em' lefts,?

I think it best to have more faith In every day concerns, And not be alius a-scoopin' 'round To get behind the returns. A plain statement will do for me, A hint instid of a blow; A coroner's jury may fetch out facts, But it's rather late to know.

The Highland Schottische. A PICTURESQUE DANCE WHICH IS TO BE

TAUGHT EVERYWHERE THIS WINTER. (From the New York Sun.) Professor Brooks waited an instant for an inspiriting bar of music from the piano and then, gliding gracefully on his toe, took three steps quickly and, lifting a foot from the floor lightly, touched his heel to the calf of his leg. Then he slid sideways, with an impressive glissade movement. The combination was something that eclipsed even the masterly redowa slide of Mr. Arthur Leary in the Charity Ball quadrilles and the fifteen professors who watched the poetry of the motions clapped their hands with delight. They kept on applauding and made the professor do it all over again. "What do you call it?" we asked, trying to make a diagram of the sinuous move-

"That," said the professor, proudly "is the new Highland Schottische, which is to be the society dance of the season this year. It is imported from England and Scotland and will be introduced in all first-class academies as soon as the dancing classes open. Technically it is a combination of the Highland fling and the galop and it has raisedia furore among the Scotch lads and lassies and has also found exceptional favor among the fashionables of London and Liverpool. It is a thing that no description can do justice to. It
