A Rift in the Clouds.

'Marian, dear, how is the morning, fair or cloudy?' inquired Ethel Ray, turning on the invalid couch, where she lay day as well as night. Marian swept the scant curtain back from the narrow window of their poor

'Dark and cloudy,' she replied the cold dreariness of the new day striking, a chill to her sensitive, heavily-burdened heart. A tired hopeless look swept over her delicate, noble face, leaving a slight droop at the corners of her mouth, a shadow in her eyes. Ethel saw the change of expression and for a moment her own grew less cheerful and bright.

'Never mind; there will be a rift in the clouds by and by,' she said with renewed

'I am glad you have such faith, pet,' said Marian, still looking out on the street. A poor beggar crept feebly along, his rags fluttering in the bitter wind, and, in pity for a lot sadder than her own the girl lost some of her own discontent. She turned from the window with a brighter strength and wholesomeness. More economica than the ordinary kinds, and cannot be sold i competition with the multitude of low test, short weight, alum or phosphate powders. Sold only in cans. ROYAL BAKING POWDER Co., 106 Wall-st N. Y. expression, and put on her hat and cloak to start out on that weary round of music lessons, which were their support.

'I am sorry to leave you all day Ethel but it will be late before I can get through.' 'Do not fret about me, Marian. Mrs. McNally will come in and give me my lunch and a fresh glass of water, and I have this beautiful lace to mend for Miss Constantine, and that magazine you brought me yesterday to read. Oh, I shall be fully occupied until you return.' ·Well, well, it is comforting to have so brave and busy a little sister at home. I think of it often when I am out, and it gives me courage,' said Marion, bending over the couch with tender misty eyes. The crippled girl clasped the slender hand caressing her hair, and drew it down against her pale cheek.

'Am I a help to you Marian? Oh, that thought makes me happy! I lie here such a helpless useless creature. Sometimes I have feared that I was only a burden to 'Never think that again, dear onenever. If it were not for you—'

She broke off, and stooping, kissed the sweet, pale face resting on the pillow, but when she would have moved away, Ethel held her a moment longer.

'Marian, darling, do not lose your faith and hope. There will be clear sunshine after a while, and all these dark clouds will vanish.'

will vanish.'

'I will try to think so,' she replied, with a smile—a smile that vanished the moment she left her sister's presence, and memory began to bring up one by one the events of the two years passed.

The girls had been left orphans at an early age, but with property sufficient to supply all they could ever need, not only of necessities, but even luxuries. Their guardian controlled and managed the money, and they lived in his house, under the care of his good hearted maiden sister. Ethel had always been lame and delicate, but Marian went out into the world, seeing and enjoying its beauties delicate, but Marian went out into the world, seeing and enjoying its beauties and pleasures.

Walking swiftly along to give her first music lesson, she drew a sharp breath of anguish as memory too faithfully recalled all the glory and happiness of a three month's tour to Europe, with a party of friends, just before the downfall of fortune. At the very outset they met Mark Keller, handsome, travelled, and to the young girl a very king among men. He joined the party, and singled her out as the object of his attentions. The routes they travelled he had been over before, and he could point out all that was beautiful or interesting. It was a golden season, and the girl's heart surrendered in spite of womanly pride and reluctance. But she had no cause to feel shame, or believe her love unsought for. One mellow, moonlight night in an old Italian garden, he stretched out his hand to her with sudden passionate words of love, and so eloquently did he plead for the sweet gift of all her future life, she could not withhold the promise to be his wife.

'You shall never regret it. You shall be happy,' he cried, with a lover's confidence.

'I am happy now.' she whispered, flush-

'I am happy now,' she whispered, flushed and shy, but radiant.

They wandered long among the flowers feeling that heaven lay about them; but the next morning the girl received bad news from home. She only made out clearly that her presence was needed, and with only one regretful sigh for the bright dreams she had cherished, she began preparations for the long journey. Keller earnestly begged to be allowed to accompany her, but she gently refused. He must go on with their friends, and if she needed him she would write for him to come.

A SMELT NET of Large Size was stolen from the Subscriber's Barn in Douglastown on the night of November 16th last. Any infor mation which may lead to its recovery will be gladly received by MRS. A. GUNTER.

'I shall come on in a few weeks whether you send for me or not. We must finish you send for me or not. We must finish this interrupted tour together, Marian.'

'She returned home to find her guardian dead, and their fortune gone, swept away in some ill-devised speculation. The maiden lady sought a home with relatives and Marian Ray found herself among the world's workers, and with a helpless did I invalid to take care of. Helpless, did I say? Nay, she was the only hope and comfort of poor Marian's heart, for her handsome wealthy lover came not, and the letter she wrote to him explaining their reverse of fortune remained un answered. She tried to think of him with contempt; to hold the love that failed in the hour of her bicterest need as valueless, but she only succeeded in tormenting her own faithful, loving heart walueless, but she only succeeded in tormenting her own faithful, loving heart which in spite of pride and reason clung to that short sweet romance, with a hold which death alone could break.

All day she walked from house to house through the bitter cold, while the clouds hung dull and heavy over the city; but when, her day's work ended, are started home in the evening a strip of blue appeared overhead. She lifted her eyes to it, and saw the clouds part wider and wider, until the little rift had become a broad space across the heavens.

Dear Ethel! She would rejoice in that and call it a happy omen, but I cannot, she thought with a tender smile that ended in a sigh.

It was dark when she reached home, and hurrying eagerly up stairs, she pushed open the door, anxious to be with her sister as soon as possible. They were careful with fuel, with everything necessity forced them to study economy, and Marian expected to find the room in darkness, only a scanty handful of coals in the grate. She entered, to find a glowing fire, and the table set with dainties, while the tea-kettle steamed merrily on the hearth.

'Ethel!' she cried, hastily throwing off hat and wraps, and turning toward her 'Oh, Marian, sister!' cried the invalid, in a voice trembling with strange emotion; then Marian felt her heart leap in a suffocating throb of pain and rapture, for out of the semi-darkness of the corner, Mark Keller advanced, with outstretched hands to meet her.

'Marian, have you no welcome for me!'
A chilling remembrance of all his silence and neglect swept over her, and pride

'Certainly, I-I welcome you, Mr. Keller,' she said, stiffly, and stepping

'What?' 'Have you forgotten?' he cried, in keenest disappointment.
'No, sir, it is because I remember that I can give no friendlier greeting. I wonder that you can expect it, after such long neglect and coldness. I cannot pass over such slights.' 'But Marian, he did not get your let-ter and he could not come when he intended for a hurt received among the Alps kept him a prisoner for several weeks, and then he had to search and search, and has just found us,' said Ethel, half raising herself up, the crimson firelight giving even her pale face a roseate tint.

Marian's face changed, and her eyes mutely questioned her lover's.

'It is all true. Could you believe I loved you so lightly?' he murmured; and this time she did not shrink back when he approached but gave him the welcome

'Tis the rift in the clouds. Hope said it would come, and I had faith to believe, thank God.' Ethel fell back among her pilows, her SEEDS CONFECTIONERY, FRUITS ETC.

GILLIE'S FLEXIBLE STEEL and IRON HARROWS. Wisner's Combined Drill and Broadcast SEEDER.

This Seeder is without doubt the best machine of its kind made in Canada at the present time. It will adapt itself to the wants of any farmer. It can be arranged to ow grain in any quantity either broadcast or in drills. It has a separate attachment for sowing hay seed which can be used at the same time the farmer is using the sower for other grain. I have also a large lot of MANN'S BROADCAST SEEDERS, (complete) and ATTACHMENTS FOR HORSE HAY RAKES, which have been extensively used on the North Shore and have given the best of satisfaction. A full stock of PLOW REPAIRS has just been received consisting of EL MOULDBOARDS, STEEL LANDSIDES, SHARES, SOLESHOES. CLEVISES, COLTERS AND BOLTS for "FARMER'S FRIEND," "LOUISE," "SOLID COMFORT," "BONA," WILKINSON'S No. 5 and ONE HORSE, and FROST & WOOD'S No. 5 and 8 PLOWS.

A car load of CARRIAGES from the celebrated Gananoque

who have used the above goods. Geo. Hildebrand, Esq.

DEAR SIR-I purchased from Messrs. Johnson & Co. through you one of Mann's Seeders, which I have used for four years, and I can safely say that I would not be without it for three times the cost, have used for four years, and I can safely say that I would not be without it for three times the cost, have used for four years, and I can safely say that I would not be without it for three times the cost, I could never raise more than 5½ or 6 bus. from one when sown by hand, but now I can raise 8 to 9 from one when sown with the Seeder. A farmer who will sow 70 bushels of grain in one year will. save enough in that time to pay for his Seeder. I also bought one of your first prize steel plows, I had used two of Frost & Wood's Plows before getting one from you, and I could not get more than three or four days in the week with them. My team is very heavy and my farm is very rocky and whenever they would strike a rock they were sure to break, but the one I got from you proved most satisfactory and easy. I also purchased a heavy Iron Harrow from you and have been using it in a very strong soil, and it has given entire satisfaction and stood the test most wonderfully.

I was almost getting discouraged with farm ng before I purchased these im plements, as I was ally visitor to the Blacksmith's during the farming season. Very respectfully,

DANIEL SULLIVAN,

DEAR SIR :- I have purchased through you of the late firm of Johnson & Co., one Iron Harrow and one of Mann's Broadcast Seeders on wheels. The harrow has been used on 'my farm three seasons and I am well satisfied with it. It will do twice the amount of work the old wood frame harrow will do and does it much better, for by means of its narrow sections it adapts itself very nicely to uneven surfaces. I have thoroughly tested it on rough ground and it stood its work first class.

The seed-sower is just what is wanted for putting in grain. I have used it for two seasons, and can sow whatever quantity per acre I wish and do it evenly whether there is a wind or not. I am also convinced that machine sown grain ripens more evenly than hand sown, and that less seed requires to I am, Yours Truly, be put to the acre.
