THE SUDDEN DEATH of Master Clinch son of R. T. Cl neb, E-q., at Woodstock, has evoked general and profound sympathy. The lad was visiting at D . Connell's, when he was seized with inflammation of the bowels. Despite all that lov ing hands could de, his condition gradually grew worse, and this morning he died. His father, who was on a business visit to Nova Scotia, was telegraphed for, and arrived in the city last night. This morning he left in the fast express for Woodstock, but death arrived first, and the sorrowing father reached his destination only to find his son lifeless. SWINDLING COTTON OPERATIVES. - John J. Perkins and Charles Clark, of Boston, were arrested vesterday in Fatterson, N. J., on a charge of having swindled about seventy working people out of a dollar each. Perkins called himself Williams, and pretended to be the manager of the Gibson Cotton Mills, at Marysville, N. B. He and Clark engaged weavers to go to these mills and exacted $1 from each applicant. They agreed to meet the working people at a railroad depot in Patterson this morning, but the police suspected what was going on and arrested both men as they were about to leave the city. They admilted their guilt, and said they had no connection with the mills mentioned. - New York Herald.

Complimentary Excursion.

On Wednesday of last week a large party of gentlemen, friends of John Miller, Esq., who are indebted to him in various ways for courtesies extended in connection with his steamers, took that gentleman as their guest on a complimen tary pic-nic-excursion on the steamer Andover down river. The day pleasant one, though the wind ble strongly. The boat, however, was shelter near Hay Island and the part thoroughly enjoyed themselves. The table set on the lower deck, under the direction of Mr. Keary, would have done credit to a Long Branch caterer, the men being as complete as the means at Mr Millers' friends' disposal could make -which is saying a good deal. Mollie came House, where he almost crawled into a covered buggy, any attempts of friends to assist him only increasing his sufferings. He was driven to his mother's residence by Dr. Smith, where, at last accounts he was suffering very much.

The horses, after injuring Capt. Quigley, rushed down the hill and in their course collided with the street lamp on the corner below the Registry officebreaking the cast iron shaft short off in two places, hurling pieces of the lanternglass as far away as sixty feet and carrying a portion of the lantern-frame along with them in the waggon. They were stopped, without doing further damage, ust beyond the post office, horses and waggon being uninjured.

Capt. Quigley is a well-known citizen and much sympathy is felt for him in his terrible misfortune, as well as for his mother, sister and brothers. He has been poor health for several months, though able to be about out of doors. For a few days before the accideat he seemed to be quite well. He has always been a man of adventurous spirit and daring. What other men would not or could not do seemed to be what he took special pride in attempting and he was often successful. There was no person on the runaway team on Tuesday and few men would have risked their lives to stop it. Ill, as he was, the old spirit of daring or bravado impelled Capt. Quigley forward, as if it was an opportunity too tempting to let pass unimproved. As he realised afterwards, and expressed to the sympathising friends about him, he had done one foolish thing too many and it seemed as if it should be his last. His injuries really seem to be very great, but it is to be hoped they are not so severe as to prove fatal.

A Newcastle telegram of yesterday in formed us that Capt. Quigley was easier and doing well.

The drunkenness and shooting took place quite a distance from the picnic grounds and five or six hours after the picnic was over. It is just as well that these facts should be known, se that the responsibility and odium of the affair may rest where it belongs.

Resisting a Sheriff The Mountain Disappears.

MR. EDITOR, -In referring again to this matter I wish it to be understood that it is not for the purpose of "throwing water on a drowned rat," (to use an old phrase) but as a writer in the Chatham World over the name of "Truth," in criticising my former communication, has will have a chance of winning some of the cast reflections on a whole community- $265,500 to be scattered about, but for public officers included-I ask space for a any information desired, address M.
