Mrs. Armstrong in a canon. The remains of Mr. Armstrong and his daughter were found some distance below, one in a tree top and the other in some high rocks. The boys have not been discovered. It is surmised that a sudden flood caused by the melting of snow swept away the house and the position of the bodies served to confirm this belief.

A Complicated Case. Harry Ricardo, of Meaford, Ont., testifies that he suffered from rhoumatic gout and chronic trouble of the stomach and liver, which Burdock Blood Bitters effectually cured, after all other tried remedies had failed. "Well, Bartley, are you going to old Hardell's funeral?"

"Oh, I don't know. I'd like to go, but I have hardly the time to spare, Jack," "Oh, well; you had better go. Let's all turn out and give the old man a good send-off. It'll tickle him to death to know he had a big funeral."

Declared Incurable.

E. C. McGovern, of Syracuse, N. Y., who is a well-known resident of that place, was declared incurable by his physician, the disease being a complication of kid-ney and liver complaint. In two days he found relief in Burdock Blood Bitters, and in one month he entirely recovered. A special from Avignon says: A large black mule, bitten a few weeks ago by a mad dog, was seized yesterday morning with rabies, and caused a panic in the city. The beast attacked its owner, biting him on the head and seizing his hand with his teeth, dragged the man 200 yards, until the hand was nearly severed from the arm. The mule then charged through the streets, attacking every person and every object it met. All the inhabitants took to flight, and for half an hour the brute remained complete master of Avignon. Five peasants who tried to escape from the market place were badly bitten in the legs and back. One of them who took refuge on a lamp post had his foot nearly bitten off. A squad of gendarmes finally killed the beast. All the wounded will be sent to Paris to be inoculated by
