Mr. McLellan leaves on Wednesday for Scotland, where he will look after some Clydesdales, and he will afterwards proceed to France to purchase a few Percherons. It is prohable that the animals will be shipped to New Brunswick about the middle of September. The Provincial Secretary hopes

A Parody,

Parodies, as a rule, are not elevating or in good taste and, too often, a travesty of some noble sentiment or instructive thought. The following, which is above this criticism, appeared in an American paper many years ago and is a clever ingenious imitation of Shakespeare. REPORTS from Labrador are to the effect that the codfishery in those waters for 1886 will be short of the average. Herrings are very scarce and very few have up to date been taken. The indications of a good catch are not at all promising. Not more than 5,000 barrels have been yet secured on the whole coast, while at the same time last year no fewer than 40,000 barrels had been taken.
