ed the situation in its different bearings, unanimously decided that the seat should, pursuant to recognised custom, go to a Roman Catholic and, of several gentlemen whose names had been mentioned, the choice lay between Messrs. R. Flanagan of Chatham and Patk. Hennessy of Newcastle. These gentlemen were waited upon, and while both were willing to further the interests of the Government party as far as possible, Mr. Flanagan intimated that he would prefer some nominee other than himself. The committee were almost evenly divided as between Mesers. Hennessy and Fianagan, but finally agreed to make Mr Hennessy's nomination upanimous, and did so.

the county at this season of the year, to run although he (Mr. Hennessy) would | the voters didn't reach the poll. like to see the seat filled by a gentleman of the same faith as himself. He must, howe 'er, dec'ine the proffered honor.

Mr. Flanagan was again interviewed on the subject, but he adhered to his former determination and it was then decided to ballot on the names of Messrs. John Burchill of Nelson and Thos F Gillispie of Chatham. The delegates pledged themselves, individually, to support whichever -of the two should be chosen, and on the ballot being taken Mr. Burchill was decidedly the favorite and his nomination was made unanimous. It was ten o'clock before the committee's decision was arrived at, and, meantime, so large a number of electers had gathered, awaiting it, that the ratification meeting had to adjourn to the large hall down stairs. Here, the chair was taken by B. Stapledon, Esq., and Messrs. S. Waddleton and D. G. Smith, who were respectively Chairman and Secretary of the nominating Committee, reported the action taken by that body.

The adoption of the Committee's report being moved, Mr. Wm. Troy suggested that there were other Roman Catholics besides the two mentioned to whom the nomination might have been offered.

The meeting divided on the motion to ratifiy the nomination, and it was carried almost unanimonsly, with cheering for Mr. Burchi 1.

brief address, expressing his accord with looking for --- and feeling that he the idea that the party owed the nomination to a gentleman of the same faith as the one who had vacated the position. He said he was sensible of the honor conferred on him and anxious to meet the views of the party. The nomination, however, press have formed an important feature was not expected by him, as he had been in the campaign just ended. His humor should go to a catholic, and such being give is a day or two to consider the

Mr. Hennessy and Mr. Flanagan also spoke briefly, endorsing Mr. Burchill's candidature and hoping that whatever was done, it would tend to unity of action in the party.

Mr. Gillespie also spoke, claiming than he was in as good a position to be the Govern Bent candidate as Mr. Burchill. He some he would-as he had always done-Tepresent all classes and creeds alike He had been beaten in last spring's election and since that time had told many friends all over the County that he would be in the field for the first vacancy, and he would, therefore, run, no matter who else was put in the field. At the same time he was not opposed to a Roman Catholic being nominated.

Mr. James Troy said that had it not been for the course taken by Mr Gillespie, a Roman Catholic would, probably, be declining the nomination, for if Mr Gillesit was not probable that opposition would waning worth a cent." come from any other quarter.

Mr. Burchill again spoke, showing been dealt with by the committee appointed by the party and that the dehad fallen in such a way as to be help- cision of that body should be submitted to by both of them. From the first, he had thought Mr. Gillespie ought to do as he did in the matter, both being in the same position in reference to their claims as supporters of the Goverument, and he would now say that he would stand by the nomination, rather than see Mr. Gillespie take the whole business in his own hands, for the party, and not the man, ought to control the matter. It was clearly the position assumed by Mr. Gillespie that had deterred a Catholic from accepting the nomination and, as Mr. Gillespie now intimated that he was not desirous of preventing a gentleman of that faith from taking the vacant seat he Burchill would make this offer :- If Mr. Gillespie would retire he (Burchill) would also decline this nomination, in order that it might be given to Mr. Hennessy or Mr. Flanagan. applause and cheers. Mr Gillespie said he had promised to run and would not retire. Mr. Burchill then said he would stand by his friends and the party in

The meeting then broke up with three cheers for Mr. Burchill which were given with a will. Mr. Gillespie 43 194 151 also received some cheers.

Shocking Toboggan Accident.

Barrett, a leading member of held at Chatham on 8th inst., met last | the Rutland Bar and son of ex Judge injured. A board that lined the side had became split and loosened and the narrow end projected into the slide, pointing upward. Not knowing this Mr. Barrett, his wife and Mrs. Charles P Harris mounted a toboggan and descended the chute. Mrs. Newcastle: -Jas Troy, Jas Brown, John | Barrett was in front, and passed the splinter unharmed. Mrs. Harris, who was in the centre, came in contact with it, sustaining a long and deep gash on one thigh. It then entered one of Mr. Barrett's thighs on the inside and came out from his back above the hip, having penetrated his abdoman and upturned the intestines. It threw him from the toboggan and he was he'd impaled. He was concious. Medical aid arrived in a few minutes. The board was removed and he was taken Messrs. Wm McCluskey of Ludlow and to his home, where he now lies under R Attridge of Blissfield-which parishes the influence of anæsthetics, and with no were the only ones not represented -re- prospect of recovery. Their eyes met, and in a few minutes the bold Lothario was at her side.

The next moment he popped the question. She blushingly consented to change her name and accompany him to Canton. The aged cousin unexpectedly came forward and in the most forcible mauner, but his appeals were useless. The couple went directly to the Rev. Dr. Bergenmier, on State Street, who fastened the knot. That evening the couple left for the west. The cousin remained behind. Before departing the girl said her cousin wished to marry her himself, but on account of his age she was determined to upset his well laid plans.
