BUYING A GOAT.

BOWSER MAKES AN INVESTMENT. Three or four boys came to the back door the other cay and inquired for Mr Bowser, and as soon as he came up from the office I mentioned the fact and added :

'You are not going to buy another dog I hope?' 'Humph!' he replied as he hung up his hat.

'And I don't want any cats around. 'That's just like you! Its a wonder to me the brute creation doesn't fly when you step out doors. I wouldn't have as hard a heart as you for all the world.'

'And as for pigs, Mr. Bowser, I hope you won't think of 'em. The neighbors haven't yet got over your last adventure in the pig line.'

'My adventure!' he shoated. 'You teased me to buy a pig and build a pen. I wanted to gratify you, pumpkin-head that I was and I bought a pig. What did I have to do with his squealing the whole 24 hours? What did I have to do with his getting out of

'Oh, well, let's not have any more cows or pigs or hens or dogs. We don't seem to understand them.'

the pen a dozen times per day?'

'Don't we! We don't if we don't want to! Some wives are domestic and like to make a home of a home, but others think of nothing but dressing and gadding the streets.'

'If a husband buys a cow which gives two quarts of milk daily, and her feed alone comes to five times the price of her milk, I don't see where the economy comes in.'

He didn't reply to that, and next morning when he opened the back door the same three boys were waiting for Mr. Bowser. They had a William goat with them. The animal was securely tied with ropes, and the boys kept a vigilant eye on him besides. That's what Mr. Bowser was up to, and as I knew he had set his heart on it, I said never a word. He sneaked out to the barn, came to terms with the boys, and the goat was turned into the back yard. When we had finished breakfast Mr. Bowser placidly inquired:

'Mrs. Bowser, do you know that there is money in goats?" 'Hoa?'

They are not only valuable for their wool and meat, but in a sanitary point of view they cannot be equalled. One goat would keep our back yard entirely free from everything offensive.' 'Would he?'

playmate for our child, and doctors tell me that the odor of a goat stimulates a chird's appetite.'

Mr. Bowser. You must know of course. 'Certainly I know. Do not confound the goat with the chamois, Mrs. Bowser. There's a marked difference between them. The chamois is found in Asia, Switzerland, and two or three other countries. The goat is indegenous to every country. The chamois is a very timid animal; the goat is not. It rather seeks the society of man.

'I wish I knew as much as you do,' I said, desiring to mollify him still fur-

'Yes but you never will. You can't expect to. You were not born that way. However, I have a surprise for you and the child, I have just made a purchase of a goat.'

'A real goat?' 'Certainly. Some folks deal in the ever shown in Miramichi. Call and examine. imitation. I never do. Come out into the back yard.'

We went out. William had just finished eating the last of the kitchen towels the girl had on the grass, and he acted like a goat that wanted something more solid to finish upon. Mr. Bowser took baby in his arms and started down the steps, and William lowered his head and struck out with his foot.

'He may be dangerous, Mr. Bowser. 'Dangerous! so is a canary bird. You will see him take to the child like a fly to sugar. See how stately he stands. I'll have a photographer up here this afternoon.'

He was advancing as he talked, and when I saw a streak of goat shooting across the grass. A dull thud followed and baby flew over the clothes line and Mr. Bowser went to grass. How I got the child into the house I can't remember, but I guess the goat was too busy with Mr. Bowser to notice me. They rolled over and over. They rose up and went down again. Sometimes Mr. Bowser was on his hands and knees, and again he was boudled up on the grass. I screamed for the cook, and with great presence of mind she seized a couple of rresh sheets off the clothesbars, and ran out with them as an offering. The goat preferred sheets to Bowser, and as he turned away and began to devour them; my husband crawled up the steps to a place of safety. He had been hit in what they call the 'bread basket,' and in the small of the back and between the shoulders, and indeed, the goat had neglected no opening. He uttered a groan and crept into the house and tumbled on the lounge. It took me an hour to get the grass and sand out of the baby's hair and ears, and I had just finished when Mr. Bowser rolled off the lounge, ran downstairs for the snow-shovel, and a minute fater he appeared in the back yard and made a rush for the goat. He hit the clothes-reel, the barn, the fence and the ash barrel, but he missed the goat.

William ducked and dodged and twisted and had great fun for twenty minutes, then it suddenly struck him that he had an engagement elsewhere, and he went over the fence like a cat and clattered out of sight on the sidewalk.
