A Newcastle correspondent mentions that Messrs. H. A. Althouse and J. C. Galusha of Philadelphia are guests of Mr. Jas. Niven of Newcastle.

A NOVEL RAILWAY :- One of the most novel railways in creation is to be seen in operation along the Windsor and Aunapolis railway somewhere above the junction. The rails are trees of about six or eight inches in diameter, laid end to end with the boughs trimmed off. The rolling stock consists of a waggon with large grooved wheels that run easily on the primitive track. The locomotive is a self. and no errors, for it was evident that feeding one of three-horse or two-ox power. as occasion demands, and supplies itself with fuel by nibbling the grass along the

The Lazaretto.

In Dr. G. A. Hetherington's paper 01 Leprosy, read before the late meeting of the N. B. Medical Society, he interestingly described a recent visit to the lazaretto at Tracadie, N. B. "The instituliving in the United States for the past | tion was founded in 1849 by the local government. The building was burned in 1853 by some of the patients who hoped to effect an escape, and was rebuilt soon after. In 1880 the Dominion government assumed the management of the lazaretto, making a yearly grant of $3,000 for its sustentation. The unfortunate inmates, some 19 in number, are cared for solely by Sisters of Charity under the supervision of Mother Doucett, Lady Superioress. Since the founding of the institution there have been 102 patients treated, all supplied from the vicinity of the lazaretto. Of these 75 have died. One was discharged as not being afflicted with the disease, one escaped last year and the rest remain to eke out at best a miserable existence, notwithstanding all that i done for their comfort. It is said that leprosy was introduced into the North Shore by a woman washing the clothes and other property connected with the said of a leprous sailor. This, the doctor railway line: thinks, does not account for the origin of the disease, for laundry women have and description belonging to the said Railway Company and wherever situated, to the Chatham lived in the lazaretto for 30 years and Rai'way Co.« have not contracted the disease. Besides this the late Dr. Nicholson claimed to have had a case of leprosy previous to Caution the landing of the infected sailors. I have good reason, said Dr. Hetherington, in concluding his remarks, to believe that there are several lepers in the northern part of New Brunswick yet at large, and responsible to me for his wages. something ought to be done to force them into the lazaretto.
