Murphy was slightly under the influence of liquor when he started, and now he has no recollection of where his boarding house is situated. He would not pay much attention to this, however, only for the fact that he has left his valise and overcoat behind him. Murphy is not sure whether the valise and overcoat are at the boarding house or at the liquor store, but would be very much obliged to the party who may return them to him at the Portland police office. Harvest Thanksgiving Services: Harvest Thanksgiving Services were held in St. Mary's and St. Paul's churches ou Sunday last. The chancel of St. Mary's Chapel was very handsomely decorated with grain, fruits and flowers, Over the altar which was vested in white and adorned with a beautiful floral cross and vases of flowers was the text "I am the Bread of Life." The Communion rail was also decorated with grain and flowers and texts "Praise ye the Lord," "Thanks be to God." Upon the Chancel arch and steps, the Prayer desk, lectern and pulpit were arranged fruits, grains, flowers and autumn leaves in various devices. The Services were very hearty and interesting. the Harvest Hymns and the Anthem "O how Manifold," being well sung. The Processional Hymn was "Come ye thankful people, &c" and the CXLVIIth Psalm took the place of the Venite in the Morning Service and the Jubilate that of the Cantaie and Deus Misereatur took the ers' salaries; $160 for rent; $150 as pay place of the Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis | ment on land purchase loan; $30 to janitor

Mr. Cassady's New Factory. Messrs. Geo. Cassady & Co.'s sash and door factory is situated on False Creek, next to Messrs. Leamy & Kyle's new lumber yard, and has a water frontage of about 225 feet; A portion of the plant, which exclusive of buildings, is valued at $10,000, was brought from New Bruns wick, the balance, however, being from the works of Cowan & Co., Galt, Ontario, consists chiefly of 5 circular saws, machines, 2 tenoning ditto, boring machine, wedge cutters, shaping, moulding and morticing machines and in fact a whole sash and door machine outfit. The main factory building is 50x75 and consists of three stories, the office at present being on the second floor, It is intended, however, shortly to move the office into another building now nearing completion on the premises. The number of men employed on an average is 25. The manufacture of shingles is projected, and for that purpose the necessary machinery is coming from Hamilton, Ont., including a bolter and jointer. Capacity 40,000 shingles per day. A 40-horse engine will be used with a 60-horse boiler. Most of the lumber is dried by steam in a drying N. Y. room 30x40. The construction of the factory was commenced about 3rd May
