Here She Goes, and There She Goes. The following amusing and well-told story was published in one of the city papers of Gotham, about a dozen years a to. It occasioned at that time a good ceal of merriment:-Not long since two stylish-looking persons put up for the night in the upper part of the city. On the morrow, after ordering their bill, they sent for the landlord, who was not long in waiting upon his aristocratic guests.

'I wish to purchase that old clock up stairs-will you sell it?' asked the elder, while the younger cast his eyes over the columns of a newspaper which lay upon the table. The landlord, who had set no great value on the clock, except as an heir-loom, began to suspect it might possess the virtue of Heywood's chair, and filled with coin-and almost involuntarily the three ascended to the room which contained it. 'The fact is,' said the elder, 'I once won twenty pounds with a clock like

'Twenty pounds!' ejaculated the landlord. 'Yes. You see there was one like it in a room down in Essex, and a fellow bet me he could keep his fore finger swinging with the pendulum for an hour, only saying-'Here she goes, there she goes. He couldn't do it. I walked the money out of him in no time.

'You did! You couldn't walk it out me. I will bet you ten pounds I can do it on the spot.'

'Done,' cried the stranger. The clock struck eight, and with his back to the table and door, the landlord popped into a chair. finger waved in curve, his eyes fully fixed on the pendulum. The fellows interrupted-Where's the money? Plank the

The landlord was not to lose in that way. His fore-finger slowly and surely went with the pendulum, and his left hand disengaged his purse from his pocket, which he threw behind him on the table. All was silent; the dapper man at length exclaimed-

'Shall I deposit the money in the hands of the waiter?' 'Here she goes, there she goes!' was the only answer. One of the wags left the room. The landlord heard him go down stairs, but he was not to be disturbed by that trick. Presently the waiter entered and touching him upon the shoulder, asked-'Mr. B ____ are you crazy? What are you doing?' 'Here she goes, there she goes!' he responded, his hand and fore-finger waving as before. - Child KOMI

The waiter rushed down stairs, called one of the neighbors, whom he invited up to see his master. They ascended, and the neighbor, seizing him gently by the shoulder, in an imploring voice, said-'Mr. B-, do not sit here. Come, go down stairs; what can possess you to sit here?'

'Here she goes, there she goes!' was the only reply, and the solemn face and the slowly moving finger settled the matter. 'He is mad,' whispered the friend in a low voice; 'we must go for a doctor.' The landlord was not to be duped, he was not to be deceived, though the whole New Cottons! Cheap! town came to interrupt him.

ed the friend. ed the landlord, and his hand still moved In a moment his wife entered, full of 'You had better call up his wife,' add-

'My dear,' she kindly said, 'look on me, it is your wife who speaks.'

'Here she goes, there she goes!' his hand continued to move, but his wife have ever shown, which is saying a great deal, but it is really the case, and you will find it so. thought she was determined to conspire against him and make him lose the wager. She wept, as she continued-'What cause have you for this? Why do you do so? Has your wife'-'Here she goes, there she goes!' and his finger seemed to be tracing its airy progress, for anything she could ascertain to that the thought of his child, whom he fondly loved, would tend to restore him, 'shall I call up your daughter?'

'Here she goes, there she goes!' the landlord again repeated, his eyes becoming more and more fixed and glazed, from the steadiness of the gaze. A slight smile which had great effect upon the minds of those present, played upon his face, as he thought of the many unsuccessful resorts to win him from his success in baffling them. The physician entered. He stood by the side of the busy man. He looked at him in silence, shook his head and to the anxious inquiry of his wife answered-

'No, madam. The fewer persons here the better. The maid had better stay away; do not let the maid'-'Here she goes, there she goes!' yet in harmony with the waving finger, issued from the lips of the landlord 'A consultation, I think, will be necessary,' said the physician. 'Will you run for Dr. A--? The kind neighbor buttoned up his coa and hurried from the room.

In a few minutes Dr. A--, with another medical gentleman entered. 'This is a sorry sight,' said he to the doctor with him. 'Indeed it is, sir,' was the reply. It is a sudden attack, one of the'-'Here she goes, there she goes!' was the sole reply. The physicians stepped into a corner and consulted together. 'It is advisable, I think that his head should be shaved,' said one of the physicians to the other, who assented, 'and I will despatch a servant for a barber,' which resolution he immediately put into

'Here she goes, there she goes !' almost shouted the landlord, as the minute hand arrived at the desired point. The barber arrived; he was naturally talkative man, and when the doctor made some casual remark, reflecting upon the quality of the instrument he was about to use, he replied-'Ah, ha! Monsieur, you say very bad razor. 'Tes beautiful! Look!-look! Ver gud, isn't he?'

'Here she goes, there she goes!' screamed the landlord, his hand moving on-on his face gathering a smile, and his whole frame in readiness to be convulsed with

The barber was amazed. 'Here she goes, there she goes!' he responded, in the best English he could use. 'Vare, vare shall I begin? Vat is dat he say?' 'Shave his head at once,' interrupted the doctor.

'Here she goes, there she goes!' for the last time, cried the landlord, as the clock struck the hour of nine, and he sprung from his seat in an ecstasy of delight, screaming at the top of his voice, as he skipped around the room-'I've won it! I've won it!'

'What? said the waiter. 'What?' echoed the doctors. 'What!' re-echoed the wife.

'Why, the wager-ten pounds!' But casting his eyes around the room, and missing the young men who had induced him to watch the clock, he asked-'Where are those young men who supped here last night? Eh ? Quick! Where are they?

'They went away in their phaeton nearly an hour ago, sir,' was the reply of the
