PERSONAL :- Alderman Jordan of St. John was in town yesterday at the Bowser A BIG POTATOE, the girth of which, the long way, is 21 inches and, the short way, 10 inches, weight 281 oz., is in the AD. WENCE office. It was raised by Mr. Luke Mills in his garden, in Chatham, and we want to know if there is a bigger tuber anywhere around.

Spectacles: - The only true aid to vision are the B. Laurance spectacles and eve glasses. Don't be deceived by similarity in name but get the genuine B. Laurance goods-The store of W. R. Gould, Watch, er, Jeweller and Optician, Chatham, is the only place to get them in that town.

OYSTERS: -The Schr. Carrier Dove owned by Messrs. A.& J. Adams, of Negu ac, and the General Middleton, owned by Messrs. Loggie & Williston, are loading oysters at Bay du Vin for Quebec. Capt. Hugh McGionis is in charge of the Carrier Dove and Capt. F. B. Williston will go in the Middleton on her voyage up the St. Lawrence.

DR. SPROUL, DENTIST, left Chatham last Saturday, to accompany his brother to Baltimore, for the purpose of entering him as a Student at the Dental College in that city. Dr. Sproul will return on the 17th inst., after which date he will pleased to meet his patients as usual at his office, in the Benson Block.

THE ADVOCATE, with its usual regard for grammatical accuracy, said, last week, "The spirit of fair play among the resi-"dents of the town of Newcastle have "always led them," etc. and, in the same article, to show its own spirit of fair play, it said "In Chatham, the three gentlemen mentioned last week are running, Messrs Flanagen, Watt, Troy." It has, doubtless, learned by this time, that there was another candidate, as the returns show.

Schr. "Carrier Dove," owned by Mr. Anthony Adams, Neguac, struck on Tryon Shoals, P. E. I., on the night of 26th ult. at 10.30 while on a voyage from Sydney to Miscou, coal laden. Capt. Jas Green, who commanded the vessel says the blue I ght at Crapaud was changed to a white one, without notice, which misled him and caused the loss of the vessel Capt. Green and his two men got to the shore with great difficulty and were saved. The vessel is a total loss.

LECTURE:-The Rev. Robert Crisp, of Chatham, who is deservedly ranked among the first of provincial lecturers. has consented to lecture in Newcastle on the evening of the 15th October, in the Masonic Hall. Mr. Crisp has always theen received by large and enthusiastic audiences, and the public of Newcastie will be glad to hear him in in his specially popular lecture on "Hash-Husbands, and Hereditary, Tendencies," Lecture to begin at 8 o'clock.

· CANDIDATES' MEETING:-Messrs. Watt Troy called public meetings at Black Brook and Chatham, which addressed by them as Candidates for the Municipal Council. Messrs Flanagan and Smith put in an appearance at both, with bad effect on the alleged temperance Candidates. The Chatham meeting was turned by Mr. Watt into an arena for disputes and disagreements between that gentleman and ex-policemad Riglay, the Matter scoring against his adversiry in lhandsome style. Some of the language iint oluced by Mr. Watt was deprecated by many, even his friends.

ADVANCE remarks:-

Every-Day Goodness. The Advocate referring to the fact that the old Methodist Church, Chatham, has been leased by the proprietor of the

The ADVANCE'S rule of conduct leads t to have due regard for what is right and true at all times and in all places. We have not one code of morals for the newspaper office and another for the church, for we hold that however elevating "the sacred precints of the Metho dist church" may be, the office of a wellconducted public journal should be equally dedicated to the cause of truth and righteousness. It is this idea of a religion for Sundays and the meeting-house, with the rest of the time given to "Old Nick" that has made the name of the Advocate a synonym for what is tricky. balky, unreliable and inconstant, while, on the other hand, the ADVANCE's strong hold upon the confidence and respect of its thousands of readers is mainly due to the fact that its goodness is not of the Sunday-go-to-meeting kind, but a genuine, every-day article that is all wool and a yard wide, will neither rip nor tear, fade nor grow thread-bare, but be against winter's cold and summer's heat -a pleasant thing to see on week-days and good enough for Sundays, even amongst those who, on that day, put on their religion with their good clothes, and have ltttle use for either on weekdays. As for "the older members of the cougregation," we are happy in thought that they hail the prospective occupancy of their old church by the ADVANCE with satisfaction, knowing that it will be a centre from which the most orthodox teachings will go forth to the people. In our own behalf we may say that while certain of the former-if not the older-members of the congregation are credited with having measured the fervency of their attachment to "this former sacred edifice" in proportion as it became a legatee, and profited thereby in a worldly sense, we shall endeavor to make our connection with it one characterised by that fervency in business which

boats one of the participants in it writes: There were three starters in the second class-Mackerel, by Mr. Watt; Lottie, by Mr. Hays, Nelson; and Annie, by Mr. Stewart. Lottie crossed the line promptly, Annie two minutes later, and Mackerel forty seconds later still. Mackerel soon slipped by the others and gradually gained to the turn off Newcastle, when Lottie, which had kept second place, quickly overhauled and past her, finishing with a long lead. Mackerel kept ahead of Annie, but, after working down the North shore, out of the strength of the tide, started across for the stake boat, ran into a flat calm, and drifted back to the Foundry wharf. Annie hugged the shore till she reached the ferry wharf, stood across, tacked, and crawled over the line, 26 minutes behind the leader. The small boats did well to get down at all in the light dead ahead wind against the flood tide. It was no race in this Commodore Miller, while taking the defeat of his boat in true yachtsman's spirit, will, of course, not allow the glory of the Club to be wrested from Millerton by Black Brook without a strong effort to recover it, while, having taken the lead, it is not likely that Mr. Loggie will be outsailed in any weather. without a game and grand struggle, We have to congratulate Mr. Loggie and Black Brook on the distinction of having won the honors of this event, and, if we mistake not, they will be in for first place in the next also.

Letter from Mr. Ramsay.

DEAR SIR .- I wish to communicate through the columns of "The Advance" a few facts to our friends of the Liber al party throughout this County with reference to the result of the election of Councillors in the Parish of Newcastle vesterday. I was induced by some of "the boys" of our party, after 9 o'clock p. m., Monday, 24th ult. to fyle my nomination, which all will adnit was a short time to try the strength of the "Adams party." In this contest only a part of the Liberal party supported me-many of the great champions thereof not even voting, while against me was pitted the heads of the two temperance organizations in our town-men who hold party local politics more, sacred than they do the noble virtue of Temperance and, in lation of the Scott Act and W. Anslow, P. G. W. P. Then I had off the south shore Kilbride took in her against me the the men engaged in the spinnaker and jibed her mainsail off iquor traffic because I would not Douglastown, Blondy and Kittoch followoledge myself to work against the Scott ing the commodore's example. Loggie

I also lost many votes from my refusing to take "plumpers." My reason for refusing to take such votes being that l would much rather be defeated than see Lyons defeated and thus deprive my many friends in the Lower District of the Coun cillor of their choice. Then, last, but not least, the whole force of the "Club" "The Ring of Tyranny"-"The Adams Party"-resorting to all their usual low mean, contemptible tricks, schemes and unfair canvasses, Adams himself the "head centre" of the "Club," making a personal house to house canvass and using or rather abusing the whole power of The Dominion patronage against Mr. Lyons and myself. Hence, in consideration of these odds and united combinations working for Morrison, the 'Club' man, is it not strange that he only led me 63 votes? Yours truly,

C. S. RAMSAY.

Why Northumberland Should Have the Senatorship.

CHATHAM, OCT. 3rd, '88 Editor of the Advance: -1st. She is next St. John, the largest exporting centre n the Province.

inrerests. 4th Results. The claims of the Northern Western, Indiantown Branch and extension to Blackville and all other ailroad interests are suffering for the want of a live man to push the claims, the interests of the fishermen of our beautiful Miramichi are being left to spasmodic and irregular and oftimes inurious regulation, and the fishermen are justly incensed against those in control of the Fishery Department in New Brunswick and cla m that they cannot have the most glaring wrongs redressed, without loss of time and oftimes of money. Witness the smelt regulations of last season. The above two interests giving as they do employment to hundreds of our young men, are I submit being injuriously affected by the want of representation, while our lumbering interests are likewise injured for want of proper dredging, which would admit steamers and sail vessels drawing 24 ft. to enter and clear from the river, and as our agricultural interests depend on all the above for support, I claim that they too demand such representation and will lead to a change for the better. Westmorland, Kent, Gloucester and Restigouche all have representatives at Ottawa fully in accord with the Government and the result is that the just claim upon the Government for Public Works are cheerfully met while the terests of this important County are allowed to languish and Northumberland s going backward in the scale of commercial importance while the others, with thousands of dollars of public monies annually spent amongst the people, are advancing, and the people therein are buoyant and hopeful, while our wage-earners feel depressed and look forward with no I say the press should take hold of this matter and should endeavor (for the reasons above set forth and for other reasons which will appeal to each and every man in the County) to have a person from this County appointed to the seat now vacant, and I hope that this is but the prelude to a general charge all along the lines, until the question is settled by the appointment

THE FISHERIES. The fishing season has ended down here and packers are preparing to move away for another six months. Soon the place that knew us will know us no more until the cold winter has passed away and then, I suppose, if all goes well, some of us will be again found at our old places. ESCUMINAC LIGHTHOUSE now under the control of Mr. H. W Phillips, the late keeper's son, who has been his assistant the past fifteen years and understands the business thoroughly. This is a very important position, as th signal-service and telegraph office have to be attended to as well as the fog-horn and Post office, and the official that attends to all of these duties and gives as much satis faction to mariners and the public as the late keeper and his assistant have done must earn their salaries, and their offices are not by any means sinecures. My opinion is that if the Government want to make a very popular appointment they could not do so better than put Mr. H W. Phillips in the position held by the late keeper. So far as Hardwicke is con cerned no appointment would meet with more general approval. I dare say that there might be a few that would not pleased, but the number could be counted on the fingers of one hand. I think that Hardwicke is entitled to this appointment. LOST IN THE WOODS.

A young Chatham lady, who has been visiting Hardwicke lately, had quite an adventure last Saturday evening. She wanted to see the Hardwicke woods in all their autumn glory, clothed with the rich covering of the red leaf of the maple and gold of the moose wood and the crimson wranberries hanging in clusters. Wishing to visit her favorite haunts, she accompanied a young lad about 10 years of age who was looking for cows. They followed the cows quite a long distance but got no nearer the road. They then left the quadrupeds and made a bee line for the road, but after tramping vigourously about for a couple of hours the truth was most painfully impressed on them that their bed that night would be made of the autumn leaves that looked so fair to the eve, and for their supper the crimson wranberries would have to serve in the place of bread and butter she used to have at the aunt's. In the meantime, word had gone around that lost was the young lady, and the little boy, and a search party has got together, of young men and maidens, old men and children, with lanterns, guns, and horns, determined to get the wanderers back. After searching around for about four hours and a half, they had to give up. Wearied out they laid down, so the young lady said, to die. A lucky thought struk her that she might whoop; and whoop she did both long and loud. She had not shouted many times when a rustic swain heard the cry of distress. The first shout he heard he thought that it was a man-of-war giving notice of her approach, but the second shout convinced him that it was | bruises, burns, scalds, boils, piles, pimfrom the leafy bowers, and the cry was calling him to the rescue. Quickly he buckled on his armour and calling brother to follow, he gave an answering shout and after about an hour's tramp, he had the young lady and her small companion on the highway. It was about Il o'clock at night when the young lady was got out of the woods. About the time that the successful part got to the road the larger party came up and the young lady, seeing so many familiar faces around, quietly fainted away. The joy, I suppose, of knowing that she was safe was too much for her and she took this way of showing it. A young lady school teacher took an active part in the search. Neither the darkness of the night nor the gloomy appearance of the forest deterred | bright and healthy. her from plunging into the depths to rescue a lady friend. The correspondent of the ADVANCE was also one of the searchers, (not the successful one) and he was in a position to give these few facts, He was warned not to send any notes to the ADVANCE of this little bit of excitement. #### Deanery Meeting.

There was a Meeting of the Deanery Chatham at Weldford on Monday of last week, at which there were present Rev. D. Forsyth, Rural Dean, Rev. J. H. S. Sweet, Rev. W. J. Wilkinson, Rev. D. V. Gwilym and Rev. E. Bertram Hooper, Rector of the parish. On Monday evening there was service at St. Mathews', Harcourt, and an address was delivered by Rev. W. J. Wilkinson upon the "History of our Book of Common Prayer. On Wednesday morning there was celebration of the Holy Communion at o'clock, the Rural Dean being celebrant. The Chapter met at 10 o'clock and after the minutes of the last session had been read, it was moved that the rules of order be suspended in order to admit of the following resolution. It was then moved that, at the approaching service of welcome to be held at the Cathedral 27th inst. an address be presented from this Deanery to the Metropolitan, expressive of gratitude to Almighty God for his Lord. ship's safe return to his Diocese. The following address was accordingly drawn up and signed by all the members of the Deanery present:

To the Most Rev. John Medley, D. D. Lord Bishop of Fredericton and Metro politan of Canada.

We the undersigned clergy of the Rural Deanery of Chatham in chapter assembled desire to avail ourselves of the earliest opportunity to extend to your Lordship a hearty and loving welcome back to your Diocese. We are deeply thankful that your Lordship has been enabled to take part in the late Conference of Bishors convened at Lambeth by the Archbishop of Canterbury and to visit the land of dear associations where you have been honoured with such distinguished recognition of your learning, self-denying labors and faithfulness. We refer with pride to your Lordship's noble words at the close of your address to the S. P. G. We pray that God may bless your Lordship with health and happiness so long as in His good Providence He may spare you to be the chief Pastor of His church in this Diocese.

Romans IX was read in the original and discussed. Papers were read by Rev. W. J. Wilkinson upon "the quotations in the chapter, comparing them with the Hebrew and Septuagint" and by Rev. J. No. of votes | H. S. Sweet upon "the disputed passage in the 5th verse.'

On Tuesday evening a rousing missionary meeting was held at the church, where a large and attentive congregation had gathered. Stirring addresses were delivered as follows "the adaptibility of the church to the needs of the people" by Rev. W. J. Wilkinson. "The historical claims of the church" by Rev. D. V. Gwilym. "The progress of the Church in the Diocese" by Rev. J. H. S. Sweet. "The needs of the Diocese," by Rev. D.

Forsyth. On the following morning the members of the Deanery drove to the Parish Church, Weldford, a distance of twelve miles. Here they found a congregation of about one hundred and fifty persons who had assembled for Divine Service at 10 o'clock a. m. The singing and responding were very hearty and the same addresses were delivered as upon the preceding evening at Harcourt. A new organ and carpet for the Chancel have recently been placed in this church, and St. Mathew's has been painted and is much improved in appearance. The brethren expressed themselves suffer by his defeat, and not him.
