Pigs. - Persons wishing spring pigs will do well by inspecting those now at Station Farm, of which there is an advertisement in another column.

THE Snow has disappeared from nearly all the town streets. The sleighing is excellent on the river, however, and a large traffic is carried on by teams moving both up and down the river from Chatham and Newcastle.

OPENED: - Mr. Albert Patterson has opened a very convenient cigar, tobacco And fancy goods store in the Pallen building (the store formerly occupied by the late Mr. Blair) which has been renovated and refitted with new counters, show cases etc., and is lighted by the electric light, making it especially attractive.

BOUND TO HAVE THE BEST: - Messrs. I Harris & Son, of Montreal, in order to meet the requirements of their first-class trade have established a cigar factory principally for the purpose of making the "Otello" brand cigar. It is all of pure tobacco and is pronounced by good judges the best ten cent cigar in the market. Their store at Chatham is supplied with a stock of the "Otello" brand.

DEFERRED: - In order to give our readers as adequate an idea as possible of the business done in the legislature, and at the same time afford reasonable space to Ottawa and general and local news, we are obliged to hold over the report of a part of the proceedings of the House of Assembly until next week. Some local matter is also crowded out, including correspondence which will have attention next week

THE OLD AND RELIABLE: - Mr. James Brown of the People's House, Newcastle, is amongst the foremost dealers of that enterprising town in catering to the requirements of buyers in both town an country. His experience enables him to secure the right kind of goods and sell them at the lowest prices, hence his suc cess in retaining an excellent trade and encommunity.

Sutherland & Creaghan, has returned from and Summer trade. The firm is offering extra inducements calculated to extend at head quarters.

THE "OTELLO:"-Messrs. I. Harris & Son the well-known tobacconists, have recently added the manufacture of cigars to their retail business. They have nice factory on St. Francois Xavier street, employing a number, of hands, and are turning out some excellent cigars. Their "Otello" is bound to enter a first rank with smokers, as it is exceptionally good. They have also some other brands which are sure to meet with favor. Messrs. Harris & Son deserve success for their en'erprise .- Montreal Herald.

DENTISTRY:-Dr. G. J. Sproule, wh graduated recently at Baltimore Dental College with high honors, returned to Chatham this week for the purpose of making arrangements for commencing the practice of his profession. He has taken the offices in the Benson Black now oc cupied by Messrs. G. B. Fraser, and M S. Berson, which will be fitted up and open for work about the 20th May. Sproule, during his stay in Chatham summer, made a good many friends and won the confidence of his patrons, and we have no doubt that as he has determined

THE MORRISSEY MEDAL: The Green point N. Y. Daily Star has quite an inter esting account of a competition in the medal presented by Dr. W. P. Beer under the Scott Act.

Weatherbie vs. Nicholson. - In this case which was an appeal tried before Judge Peters of Georgetown, and judgement rerved. His Lordship to-day delivered his decision, allowing the appeal and quashing the conviction with costs. The facts were that the apellant sold beer, for which sale two magistrates convicted him of a breach of the Scott Act. The defendant appealed and on the appeal it was contended that the beer sold was not intoxicating within the meaning of the Canada Temperance Act.

His Lordship, in delivering judgement to-day, said that it was open to very grave doubt whether or not the Act was not wholly void for not defining what percentage of alcohol must be in liquor before it came within the meaning of the Act. but that was unnecessary to decide, as he was of opinion that neither ale, beer or light wines were intoxicating within the mean ing of the Act; and on that ground the conviction must be quashed. His Lordship stated further that there was a very great distinction between "intoxicating liquor" and "exhilarating fluids," and Bass ale or light wines came under the latter head and their sale was not a breach of the Act. -Globe.

Thos. Bastian's double Crime.

A sickening tragedy was enacted last

Friday at Painsec Junction, 7 miles from

Moncton, on the line of the Intercolonial railway. About two months ago Thomas Bastian, who has for some years kept a house of refreshment opposite the railway station building at the Junction, was fined for a violation of the Canada Temperance Act. He paid the fine, $50 and costs. A fortnight ago Bastian was taken before Justice Abercrombie at Shediac a second time and convicted of a second offence, for which he was fined $100. On Friday Constable James Farrell of Shediac, was a passenger on board the branch train from Shediac, which is due at the Junction at 11 30, and stepping over to Bastian's place entered into conversation with Bastian in regard to the fine. He stated that he had been authorized by the temperance committee at Shediac to accept one half the amount of the fine, which with the costs would amount to $59 and some cents. Bastian said in effect that he did not consider the conviction had been to locate here in, he will be well patron- fairly obtained and that he would pay nothing. Farrell then stated that he had a distress warrant and being informed by He pleaded "like a cripple that he is," Bastian that he owned the house and all its contents, intimated that he would make a seizure. Bastian warned Farrell Grammar School of that place for a gold not to touch anything in the house, saying got a bottle of gin, which was the only with an oath that if he did there would be liquor in the house, gave it to him and he trouble. Farrell notwithstanding started took some. She did not ask for pay nor by the front doors, which were found unforty-four pupils from the four upper for the shop, when Bastian went into his did she receive any, but ten cents was bedroom adjoining, got a revolver and followed Farrell. The latter seeing the weapon made a slight movement towards Bastian, when the latter fired, the ball taking effect in Farre'l's abdomen, very near the groin. Farrell started out of the house, Mrs. Bastian rushed into the room where the shot had been fired, caught her the generosity that prompted Dr. Morrissey husband's arm, when the pistol was discharged a second time, the ball lodging in the wall. Bastian then went into the shop, and no doubt overcome by remorse and passion sent a bullet crashing into his brain. Mr. Geo. W. I am not sure but think these are the words. He never moved or groaned.

Deceased said there is not much: but don't you touch it. Deceased then left his seat, walked through this dining room and into his bed room adjoining; staid a few minutes and came out again with the pistol. Farrell was standing in the shop door. 1 followed deceased out and he at once shot at Farrell. I ran to deceased, caught his arm and said, "Father dear, what are you doing?" He then raised the pistol and fired, the ball entering the wall. He then left the sbop. He fired a third shot and dropped as he fired. I then called the girl. Miss Kirwan said her father had been selling any liquor since his first conviction about two months ago, saving he would go out of the business. They did not have any liquor to speak of, but about three weeks ago an old man a cripple, who was going about the country buying barrels, had called and asked for a drink, her father being sick at the time. She replied that they did not keep anything for sale. said Miss Kirwan, for something warm, saying that if her father were up, he would get it if it were in the house. She then found on the counter after the man went out. Miss Kirwan thought this man's pame was White, but she was not sure. Her father was shortly afterward summoned to appear before Mr. Abercrombie at Shediac and was convicted on the evidence of the man who had got the gin. She did not express an opinion as to this man, but thought the proceeding a very queer one. Her father did not think the conviction fair and had said he would not pay; he would go to jail first. She said her father was a very passionate man and she had several times heard him say that if any person came to disturb his property there would ing the conversation between Farrell and her father, the latter had said the house and all its contents - every nail of it-belonged to him, at the same time warning Farrell not to touch anything. She believes the shooting would not have occurred had Farrell not started to investigate as if to make a seizure of distress. Miss Kirwan is a smart looking young woman: She stated most positively that they had not been selling liquor and that they did not keep it for sale after the first conviction. Those living in the immediate vicinity also say they do not believe that liquor has been sold as a regular thing in the house of late.

THE PRINCIPAL PARTIES TO THE TRAGEDY. Thos. Bastian was 68 years of age on 2nd February last. He had been a resident of Painsec for about 20 years. He went to Painsec from Chatham where he lived and worked as a rigger for some time after arriving here from England. He was section foreman on the I. C. R. at Painsec for a number of years, but gave up his position after having hurt his back while lifting a rail about six years ago. It is about four years since he moved into the house at the junction. Bastian was known as a quick-tempered man, who sometimes did and said things for which he was sorry when explanations were made. He was, however, regarded as a very fair man, and when the first their texts in advance. reports of the tragedy reached Moncton people who were acquainted could not believe that he had been the principal in

The Advocate and one of its discourte ous correspondents are at pains this week to misrepresent what we said in our last in reference to its endorsation of evangelist Moody's uncharitable views on the liquor question. It now pretends, in a half-hearted way, that it believes the liquor business is not such a bad thing, after all, provided it is carried on by cense. If it were not for our having to hold over much matter already in type we might show up the Advocate's inconsistency, but we have room this week only to say that we believe the liquor business a morally injurious one, whether it be li-To a juror: All that Farrell said after | censed or not, and are sorry to find that the Advocate entertains a different view.

An Attractive Entertainment.

St Mary's Sunday School room was 'packed to the doors" on last Thursday evening, when the members of St. Mary's Juvenile Guild, under the efficient training and direction of Mrs. W. B. Howard, gave an entertainment which embraced a great variety of musical and literary numbers that delighted the audience. The President, Rev. D. Forsyth made a few introductory remarks, after which the programme of the evening was carried out as follows latter would then be occupied by the auditor-general and the chief superinten dent of education. The building now occupied by the chief superintendent of education and auditor-general was in a most disgraceful condition-as bad as the present crown laud office.

Hon. Mr. Mitchell described the present condition of the crown land office. The building was old and rotten, and the health of officials was endangered. The maps and charts were most valuable, and at present there was no place for their safe custody. The building, outside and inside, was a disgrace to the province. Every hon, member who had visited the building knew the correctness of his views and that was true of the building occupied by the auditor-general and chief superintendent of education. Dr. Alward regarded this as a matter of provincial importance. It was of vital concern that the original surveys, copies of original grants, etc., in the crown land office should be preserved. It was necessary on that account that a proper building and proper vault should be provided. He regretted that the government had not seen their way clear to grant an additional $2,000 to the St. John public hospital; that institution received patients from all parts of the province. He gave particulars of the working of the hospital and spoke of the ability of its medical staff and of the large number of patients from outside districts that had been treated there every year.

Hon. Mr. Blair said the government had been waited upon by a delegation in reference to increased aid for the St. John public hospital, at the time the grant had been submitted to the legislature, and there was no way of increasing never before heard of in Chatham, of increased aid for the hospital was tayorably considered by the government, and it was proposed in the near future to increase the grant. Mr. Tweedie said the records had not yet been destroyed. The building that was good enough for the province before confederation should be good enough in this day of this one-horse government and one-horse legislature. This expenditure was asked for, for the purpose of building up the attorney-general in his own county, while the finances of the ous condition of the bridge, but no action favor of the principle of the bill. If pro-perly framed a lien bill would be in the nterest of the province. The fact that a great many operators and builders paid their bills was no reason why the bill should not pass. It was intended for sinners and not for saints. A lien law was in force in 23 states of the American union and as far as he knew it operated well, affording protection to poor men, who under it were sure of their wages. Mr. Burchill said he, like a great many others, was committed to the principle of liens: at the same time he did not know how he could support this bill. If it were good why confine it to liens on buildings and lots, on vessels, on logs and lumber and on stone quarries? Why not extend and clerks a lien for money due them?

Mr. Tweedie said the speech of the member for Westmorland (Hanington) the other evening was largely devoted to praising Westmorland. He thought there were as many murders and cases of perjury there as in any other county. Was not Westmorland the home of Annie Parker, and was it not made famous by the Osborne case? The ones was on the opponents of this bill to produce arguments to show why the legislation should not prevail. He was heartily in favor of it is really the case, and you will find it so. the bill which intended to do long delayed justice to the laboring classes of the country. He pointed out the difference between the lot of lumbermen and the other class of laborers of our province, showing why they needed protection by law much more than any other class of | 25 workmen within the province.
