FATAL COLLISION ON THE I. C. R

FOUR MEN KILLED AND THREE INJURED!

CARELESSNESS EVIDENTLY THE CAUSE ! Reports of a fatal accident on the I. C R. reached Chatham on Tuesday and it was soon ascertained that a collision had occurred near Rimouski, with most disastrous consequences. As nearly as we can learn it appears that the scene of the accident was a short distance west of Rimouski station. The trains colliding were the Express for Quebec, which went north on Monday night and a special freight running for Moncton. The latter, for some cause, had been delayed owing, as one account says, to a portion of it having been derailed. It appears that whatever was the cause of delay, proper precaution as to signalling ahead to warn the approaching express train was not at-clusion that life may be prolonged by Mr. Phinney, M. P. P., was sumrational and natural means. Thousands

"The blood becomes speedily deteriorated by the unnatural drain through the kidneys. It becomes more watery and poorer in albumen, while urea, uric acid and the extractives are unduly accumulated in it." Warner's Safe Cure will restore the kidneys to a healthy condition and purify the blood.

Splendid Horses and Sheep. On Saturday last a dozen or more mem bers of the legislature took advantage of the good going on the ice, and an offer of transport from the Secretary for Agriculture, and the adjournment of the House until Tuesday, to visit the stock farm of Messrs. Gellibrand Sewell, who quite willingly showed them tended to. It is said that after efforts through their stables and barns. These

Dealing with the estimate for public works, $119.850. he said the chief commissioner would no doubt explain to the house just how hard it was for him to comply with all the requests of the different members of the house for amounts to be expended in their different localities. He must either receive more money for the service, or else the members must be satisfied to do with less contributions in their several counties. The

If, however, any matter of detail in the opinion of any honorable member required attention the government were disposed to give him the fullest explanation. He felt that the government had

He was assured that a very large majority of the house, at all events, would agree with him that not one cent had been expended more than was actually neces sary in the administration of the affairs of the province in a just and equitable man ner. He thanked the house for the kind attention it had given him, not only to day, but at all times when he had attempted to make the annual statement of the finances of the province. No on could have received more consideration or kinder treatment than had fallen to his lot, and the leniency shown towards him in the past (eight or ten years) in this way had been a great source of gratification to himself. He hoped he should always show a proper appreciation of this kindness and courtesy, and be able, in some slight degree, at all events, to merit a continued extension of the same good feeling that had always been shown to-

He hoped that there would be separate wards in the lunatic asylum, so that the incurable patients might be kept away from those whose cases were not so bad. As he understood the provincial secretary's statement, the country is $24,000 worse off this year than it was last year with nothing to show but the new departmental buildings. Before addressing himself specially to the question before the House, he desired to say that he hoped that he would not earn that castigation that the hon. member for Carleton had received at the hands of the leader of the government. He did not think the remarks of the attorney general in reference to the member for Carleton were quite warranted. The provincial secretary had invited a careful perusal of his financial statements and Dr Atkinson had accepted that invitation. is one which is of vital importance to the section of the province especially from which I come. It is most entirely handicapped by regulations of the government, and it was with some hope of hearing some expression of sympathy from the provincial secretary that he listened with great attention to that portion of his speech. The people of our section of the province have been agitating this question fer some years, and it is not without some hope of speedy relief that I venture to call the attention of the government to the subject again. I have been a loyal supporter of the general policy of the government ever since they came into power, and I think they will bear me out when I say that I have continually been pressing upon them the great importance of a con. cession in this line, and I will not say that I have received a direct promise from the in the chair. Longevity.

Scientific men see no reason why the span of human life may not be extended to a round hundred years from the present limit of seventy to eighty years.

From Adam's time to that of Methu selah and Noah, men are recorded as at. taining to well nigh the age of 1,000 years. The Psalmist David, however, says. "The days of our age are threescore years and ten; and though men be so strong that they come to fourseore years, yet is their strength then but labor and sorrow; so soon passeth it away, and we are gone."

This wide margin of longevity, together with proper observance of mental, moral and physical laws, leads investigators to believe it is possible that human life might be made to increase in length of days to a full century, at least.

Moderation and regularity in eating, drinking and sleeping are conducive to longevity, and those who observe proper habits and use pure and efficacious reme dies when sick, may accomplish immense

Mr. Labillois' bill, amending the law relating to non-resident peddlers, so far as it relates to Restigouche, was agreed to with the understanding that it should not be advanced further until Hon. Attorney General Blair had time to look into the matter and see whether the legislature had power to pass such an act. Mr. Burchill recommitted the bill, amending the law relating to municipalities ; he was willing to make the qualifi cation of county councillors $300, real or $600 leasehold property. Mr. Tweedie argued strongly in favor of doing away with all property qualifi. cation and said the people should be judges of who should represent them at the council boards.

Hon. Mr. Blair was opposed to Mr. Tweedie's view, and Mr. Black also strongly opposed doing away with the property qualification.

Mr. Emmerson was in favour of trusting the people. He would abolish all question of stumpage, with others the property qualifications and let the people matter of railway building. The charge | say who should represent them.
