INSURED AT ONCE :- Mr. Warren Winslow has been authorised by the British America Assurance Company to accept all classes of fire risks, issue policies and make endorsements, without delay or re ference to the head office.

A SAD END :- A despatch from Black ville last Saturday brought the sad news that James Manderson, of Chatham, who went to Blackville recently as cook for Mr. B. N. T. Underhill, was found on Friday evening hanging to a tree. The deceased was about fifty years old, and unmarried. Deceased was, doubtless, laboring under a tit of temporary insanity at the time of making away with himself.

DEATH OF A FORESTER .- Mr. James Wilson, who was initiated into the Independent Order of Foresters under the $1000 policy four weeks ago, was taken ili of typhoid fever the next day. Complications set in and this morning he died. The Foresters meet this evening at Mr. McK. Weldon's office at seven o'clock to attend the funeral. Mr. arrange to Wilson had only paid his initiation fee and one monthly assessment into the order. - Transcript

FEARFUL:-Although the Advocate kind enough to charge us with being favor of intemperance, we have never perpetrated anything like the following, which we take from its last week's iissue:-

for their own interests, or for the working up of those of Bathurst, as a "centre." we beg to inform them that by this new departure the mail delivery at Tracadie is retarded by fifteen hours. Mail-matter, in order to explain, which coming via Chatham would be due here at 8 p. m.

say on Monday, arrives via Bathurst at 9 or 91 a. m. on the following day. Thus a paper published in St. John on Monday which by the Chatham route would reach Tracadie on Tuesday evening is now carried on to Bathurst by the express where it lies over to suit the convenience of the Caraquet Railway authorities, and again lies over for a night on its transit hither from Caraquet. The same may be said of papers published in the Upper Provinces. Surely this is an anomaly in these days of quick transit. The way "how not to do it" was never better exemplified than i this most absurd 'red-tape arrangement. The writer lately ordered correspondence in some instances to be directed via Chat. ham, as the more speedy route, and, despite its being so directed, this bungling, muddling official has it sent on to Bathurst, delaying its reception, as I have said, fifteen hours. In business correspondence we can well imagine cases where such delay might cause grievous injury, and hence were surprised that our public and business men do not make themselves heard in remonstrance against so retrograde a step as this is. That they should prove apathetic in this matter, as in all things of public interest, is perhaps attributable to the dullness, listlessness and general drowsiness into which men are apt to fall in Sleepy Hollows such as this. They can be keenly awake, however, when their private interests are to be safe-guarded, but of their public spirit it may be said that "the only throb it gives" is just about election time "to shew that still it lives." A joint protest from our M. P. P. J. P.'s and M. C.'s, as well as the mercan tile fraternity would most assuredly have who does not wish to pay $2 a year for had weight with the powers who at times are pleased to play such fantastic tricks at the expense of the public convenience.

But perhaps this would have been too much to expect, for merchants as a rule are rarely to be found doing anything jointly, save and except, the keeping up of market prices. It is, therefore, in order that we should offer an apology for lations, and knowing as we do that the enforcement of such regulation must result in grievous loss and injury to this whole community:

Therefore be it resolved. That in the pinion of this meeting such change in the regulations is unjust to our fishermen and uncalled for by any circumstances in existence: also we fear that the attempt to enforce such regulation must lead to unpleasant relations and serious difficulties between the public and officers of the Fishery Department: Therefore further resolved. That the meeting memorialize the Department, respectfully requesting that the regulation changing the limit be rescinded. Mr. Tweedie's suggestion that Messrs. Crocker and Watt be sent to Ottawa to present the views of the meeting and seek relief from the new regulations, was carried into effect, Mr. Alex. Burr moving Mr. Crocker's appointment and Mr. James Dower that of Mr. Watt.

Mr. J. L. Stewart instructed Messrs. Crocker and Watt in their duties, saying they must arm themselves with affidavits to meet the statements made by the Northwest people, etc.

Mr. Tweedie and others informed Mr. Stewart that the Deputy Minister, when here last winter, had the testimony required under that head and that the delegates could point it out to him. Solemn declarations might be obtained if neces sary, but affidavits were illegal, under the ircunstances. Mr. Tweedie moved for a committee of two to solicit subscriptions to defray the delegates' expenses to Ottawa, which was carried, and Messrs D. M. Loggie and T. DesBrisay were appointed.

was, that he had taken McDonald in on sufferance, and that it was a trespass for any clerk, not entitled to a key, to enter the place alone after hours. The depositions of Dougherty, Spittle and Lingley the coroner passed over as not bearing directly on the enquiry, but to that of John H. Wasson he attached much importance.

WASSON'S IMPORTANT TESTIMONY. Wasson said he went up stairs one night and saw a man he recognized as McDonald writing at the desk near the office ; and that soon after the bell rang Gerow came in. William Heans testified he saw McDonald in this place, thus corroborat-ing Wasson, but Mr. Gerow states Mc-Donald was not there when he came in, and Heans says that when the bell rang as Gerow came in, McDonald disappeared suddenly, and was not seen again that night. The coroner dwelt at some length on the evidence of these witnesses touching McDonald's action that night, and told the jury he would leave it for them to determine, whether or not there was light enough for a man to write at the desk, as they had visited the premises and tested the case.

THE TELL-TALE GREEN SPOTS.

Wasson, later on in his deposition, stated why he had suspicions against McDonald, extracts from which testimony were read and commented on by the coroner, after which he called the jury's attention to the green spots on Rev. Mr. Deinstadt's box that might have been caused by Paris green, or more possibly Brunswick green, and as these greens are all sold in this establishment and these particular boxes could only be found there as forming a significant combination. WHAT NIGHT-WORK WAS MCDONALD DOING

Wm. S. Barker had told the jury that he lent his key once to McDonald, buthat he found out later on he had obtain ed a key from another employe and had used it on other occasions. This witness had testified to seeing McDonald near the drug room one Saturday night, and that in reply to his question, McDonald said he was finishing up some work. Though his evidence had been in the hands of the firm for some days, it was significant chat no attempt had been made to show this court what that work was.

SUSPICIONS

His Honor further read from the deposition of W. S. Barker to show that the day before the arrest two clerks, himself one, had suspicions that the deed had been done by a man not in his right mind, and that he had advised Mr. Peters to visit the coroner and see if the boxes came from their establishment. This served to show that their suspicions ran in the ditalk about the boxes and the examinations made by the clerks were here dwelt on by the coroner with much force, after which his honor told the story of the overcoat,

And furthermore, from the evidence which is before us, we are of the opinion that the said candy was sent by William J. McDonald.

MRS BESSIE STARR KEEFEP. of Toronto, lectured on "How to take care of the Babies," in Masonic Hall, Chatham, last Friday evening. There was a fair sized audience. The chair was occupied by Mrs. Leishman, president of the local branch of the W. C. T. U. and prayer was offered by Rev. Neil McKay. The choir sang several pieces and Mr. Andrew Burr's solo "Where is my wandering boy to-night," was quite a meritorious feature of the entertainment. Although the lecture was unusually long-nearly 24 hours -it was, in the main, very entertaining and fully bore out the flattering testimonials of Mrs. Keefer's eloquence which ed her. Lhad pre
