P. for Sanbury.

The death is also announced of Alexander Colter, of Keswick, father of Hon. J. C. Colter, and one of the best known men in his district.

FIRE AT NORTH ESK:—On Sunday morning a barn owned by Widow Menzies, of Whiteville, was burned with its contents, consisting of five tons hay, one mowing machine, one horse rake, one truck wagon and a pig. The fire is supposed to have been caused by children fighting matches. Mrs. Menzies deserves the sympathy of the people as she has lost all her winter's fodder for stock and the whole of her farming utensils.

FATALITY:—On Saturday last a little fellow, about 20 months old, son of Mr. August Armstrong of Chatham, was found dead under a ship's ladder which had been left leaning against a wood pile in the yard. It seems that the child, in his play, pulled the ladder—which was made of heavy hardwood, with wide steps—over towards him and was crushed under it, one of the steps striking him across the brows and breaking the bone.

CAMPBELLTON:—The Roman Catholics of Campbellton are to hold their annual bazaar, commencing on Monday, August 19th at 5 p. m., in the skating rink, and continuing for several evenings, thereafter. Excursion return tickets are to be issued at one fare at all stations between Newcastle and Campbellton, and amongst the attractions will be music by the Campbellton Musical Enterprise Company, games, etc.

CLOSING OUT SALE:—Mr. W. B. Howard, whose general Dry Goods and clothing establishment is so well known, in town and country, is about to close it up, and a bona fide clearance sale is to be made by auction, commencing on Saturday, and continuing day and evening until everything in the store is sold. We need hardly say that this will be a rare opportunity for securing bargains as the stock is large and varied and the sale without reserve.

NARROW ESCAPE:—A young lad, son of Mr. John Wallace had a narrow escape from a terrible death one day last week. He was engaged in attending a chute which brings sawdust and other refuse to the bellers in Mr. Snowball's mill when he incautiously stepped into one of the holes through which this kind of fuel falls into furnaces below. Though being burned by contact with the hot iron lining the sides of the hole, the little fellow bore himself up by extending his arms on the side until he was pulled out. He is laid up with the burns received.

PERSONAL:—I. B. Oakes, Esq., now of Acadia College, Wolfville, was in town last week en route for Kingston Kent Co. He was very warmly greeted by many of the friends he made when he was the efficient principal of our Grammar and High School.

Inland Revenue Inspector Moore, of St. John, was in town Friday, Saturday and Monday last.

Mr. Alex. Grant, of St. Stephen, is visiting Chatham friends.

We are glad to see that R. A. Lawlor, Esq., collector of Inland Revenue, is so far recovered from his recent severe illness as to make his appearance out of doors occasionally.

CUSTOMS APPOINTMENT:—Mr. James Symist, Light House Keeper at Portage Island, has been appointed by the Minister of Customs an acting Preventive Officer of Customs, and is authorized to receive reports inwards of vessels arriving at his station, and to grant clearances to vessels leaving his station with cargo or otherwise. Mr. Symist is to act under the direction of the Collector of Chatham.

Vessels for Burnt Church, Neguac, and other places down-river will find this a great convenience, as it will do away with the necessity of their coming to Chatham to enter and clear. Mr. Symist is not a salaried officer, his compensation consisting of the regular fees for the services he performs.

DEATH OF MR. ROBERT BAIN:—Mr. Robert Bain, who, for a number of years carried on a large general business in Chatham, died of consumption on the evening of Friday last. He was well and favorably known in this and the neighboring county of Gloucester, where, for many years, he was extensively engaged in preserving and tanning lobsters. Mr. Bain will be remembered for the positive phases of his character. He was pronounced in his opinions and consistent in his prejudices; honest in all his transactions and while not agreeing with his fellow-citizens in many things, always retained their friendship and esteem. He was unmarried. The funeral on Monday last was largely attended. Rev. Neil McKay and Rev. R. S. Crisp officiated. The pall-bearers were Messrs. Chas. Gunn, James Searle, John Johnston, Wm. Wilson, A. J. Loggie and Wm. Scott. The interment was in St. Andrew's burying ground.

VERY BUSY:—The ladies of St. Mary's Guild, Chatham, are to be congratulated on the success of their sale and five o'clock tea which was held on Tuesday afternoon in the grounds of St. Mary's Sunday School. The sale table was a modest one and its display consisted solely of the needle and other work of the ladies of the Guild and a few friends, but all the articles were excellent of their kind and nearly all found ready purchasers, especially as the prices were moderate. The refreshment table was well patronized, as was also the ice cream booth. The tea was served in the school house and its many patrons were agreeably surprised at the excellent spread and the low price charged, so much so that, in some cases, double the amount was tendered and of course accepted. The grounds were decked with flags and, in the evening, the addition of a large number of Chinese lanterns made the scene quite a brilliant one. Over $150 were realized.

DROWNING ACCIDENT AT BATHURST:—Mrs. McMurphy, wife of Mr. McMurphy, principal of the Collegiate Institute, and editor of the "Canada Educational Monthly" Toronto, was drowned on the morning of Monday last while bathing at Alton Point, a short distance from Bathurst. She is supposed to have been seized with cramps and before assistance could be rendered her life was drowned. Mr. McMurphy, with his wife and family, have made yearly visits to the point for the past four or five years and have been there for the past three weeks. Early on Monday morning Mrs. McMurphy went down to the beach to have her usual morning bath while her husband sat reading a short distance away. Being engaged in his book Mr. McMurphy did not look towards her for some minutes, but when he did he saw nothing of his wife, and fancied she had retired to the bathing house. When he went to look for her there she could not be found, but on going to the beach her dead body was discovered in about two feet of water. Dr. Duncan was sent for and immediately hurried to the point, but nothing could be done for her. The remains were taken to Toronto by express, Mr. McMurphy and family accompanying them.

Newcastle Field Battery of Artillery. CAMP HAMIL. Lt. Col.—R. K. Call, Commanding. Capt.—R. A. Lawlor. 1st Lieut.—A. A. Davidson, jr. 2nd "—R. L. Maltby. Surgeon—F. L. Pololin. Vet. Sgt.—John Morrissy. Sgt. Major—Wm. Tushie. Or. Master Sgt.—Hiram B. Maltby. Orderly Sgt.—Donald M. Loggie. Sergeants—Arthur Russell, Charles Greenley, James A. Ashford, Wm Brooks, Corporals—Horace Kethro, Mich. O'. Shanaghyes, Thos Norton, Wm. Petrie. Bombardiers—Chas McBride, Jas Williston, Arthur Matheson, William Holt. Trumpeter—Howard Cassidy. And 41 gunners and drivers with 29 horses.

The Battery went into camp on Monday, at Camp Hamill, where they have performed their annual drill for a number of years. The weather was beautiful, the men were at work early, had the 18 tents with the marquee pitched and the guns in position, horses picketed and everything in working order before 12 o'clock, noon. A new departure we notice this year is firing a gun at 12, noon, which will be carried out during camp. The gun will be fired a 12 o'clock, Newcastle time, which is one hour faster than railway time.

The following hours will be observed in camp. Reveille, (Gun fire) 5.30 a. m. Watering Parade, 6.00 " " Issue of Rations & Forage, 6.30 " " First Morn's Parade Gunners, 6.30 " " Breakfast, 7.30 " " Guard Mounting, 7.30 " " Second Morning Parade, 10.00 " " Dinner, 12.00 " " Afternoon Parade, 2.00 p. m. Tea, 6.00 " " Tattoo Gun fire, 9.00 " " Roll Call, 9.30 " " Lights out, 10.00 " "

There was a general muster parade on Monday, at 2 p. m. The Surgeon examined every man and the Vet. Surgeon all the horses.

It rained heavily during Monday night, but yesterday was clear and fine. The gunners were paraded at 6.30 for squad drill and 10 a. m. and 2 p. m. The Battery paraded in full force and had a good hard day's work. Staff Sergeant Ducharme, of A Battery, Kingston, is Drill Instructor and is most attentive and painstaking. He may in time become as popular with the Battery as Sgt. Major Hughes, whose illness, is universally regretted. This is not to be wondered at when the fact is taken into consideration that "Hughes" was their Drill Instructor during 17 years of their annual drills in camp.

Col. Irwin, Inspector of Artillery, will inspect the Battery and superintend the gun practice on Wednesday and Thursday next.—Advocate.

Secuminae Notes. 29th JULY. The Rev. Edmond Patenaude has had the Secuminae R. C. chapel, Ave Maria Stella, painted. This church now presents quite a handsome appearance.

Business about the factories is now getting rather dull. Most of the employees have folded their tents and stolen silently away. There are still a few left, however.

The codfish boats from the north have begun to arrive. They report codfish plentiful, but a scarcity of bait. These boats at times get a halibut. On Saturday, 27th, Messrs. A. & R. Loggie got two. They weighed over two hundred lbs.

Mackerel are still scarce. There was a better appearance on Saturday than for the past fortnight. Two boats got 200 each down here on that day.

The traps and rigging connected with the lobster fishery have all been hoisted in fair order. Some lines suffered badly in the easterly gale we had about the 10th. One concern fishing off the "Magnet" factory I hear got badly smashed up. The employees now can sum up their season's work. I am happy to be able to report a good season for them. More money has been paid out than ever before. The only concern that asked their employees to take orders on the store has passed out of existence. It kept up a lingering life, but last season it closed up.

If Kent peddlers do not take their hundreds of dollars now from Secuminae it will not be because of the scarcity of money, but owing to the stocks getting low and which could not be replenished. A one horse affair does now where it took a team and van a few years ago to carry the stock.

Grigg and Luther seem to be well satisfied with their season's work. They say they did as well as their neighbors, Cliff and Ned, so long as they did this, seem to be satisfied.

Jackon says that he has no reason to regret his change of employers. He has had a good summer and never carried away so much cash as he has this season. His present employer is on hand at all times to relieve his wants.

Marah Duplessis (not Ocelet, which was a nickname), died at Ed. River about a week ago. He had been in poor health for years. His sickness was caused by a felon on his finger.

Blueberries are scarce. A late frost killed the blossoms.

The lobster fishermen have no idea of discarding the old fashioned killock stone, and a hear of no increased demand for anchors.

Lots of visitors have been flocking down to the seaside. They are enjoying themselves greatly. They get lots of good grub and are loth to leave when the time comes for them to say good-bye. These town folks are having a real jolly time and I must say that those who come to Secuminae leave behind them many friends they make while in the country. Everyone has a good word for the visitors from the towns.

The only hotel that is at Secuminae is the "Seaside Inn." The proprietor, Mr. Howard Allan informs me that it is crowded, and that he is doing a fine business. The "Seaside" seems to be gaining in popularity.

What a bonanza these oysters will be to the people along the seashore! It is news to the settlers that they have an oyster bed near their doors. The boat-load was bought by Luther Lewis last autumn and sent to Chatham in the Str. "Miramichi." How did they get back?

The hay crop is a fair one, thanks to the shells from the lobster factories, which the farmers use as fertilizers. If there were no lobsters caught there would be no shells and, without the shells, the hay crop would be a light one.

Some of the residents of Secuminae attend to their farms, while others fish lobster traps, and this enables small commission merchants to eke out a living with a little government picking that they get.

A visit from Mr. Anderson would, no doubt, be acceptable to his many friends here. But the religious enthusiasm is here and has not died out. The local force is a strong and united one and has no backsliders to recapture. "Oward Christian soldiers" is their motto, against sin, the world and the devil. All good fish are caught in their gospel net, but tomcods are thrown out.

Miss B. Lamont, of Boston, has been visiting the light-house the past week. Miss Stothart of Chatham, was also among the visitors. Mrs. F. E. Letson and family are at Secuminae. Mr. Robt. McKean, foreman at Messrs. A. & R. Loggie's lobster factory left the Point to-day.

Mackerel have come back. Very fair fishing was made yesterday with nets and also with hooks off the Point.

An Open Letter from Postmaster Adams to the Editor of "The World." CHATHAM, Aug 3rd, 1889. To the Editor of the Chatham Advance. SIR:—I am sorry that the instincts of a gentleman had not animated you to-day, and compelled you to make a proper apology for the wrong done me by your report of the meeting held in Masonic Hall on the 29th ult., and published in your paper of the 1st inst. Had you done so it would have saved me the trouble of replying to you, would have proven that you could be honorable enough to rise above your personal dislikes, and have further saved you from proving yourself a venous hater, a malicious liar, and a contemptible slanderer (by insinuation) of a man in his capacity as a public official.

One wrong leads to another. For the purpose of getting a rap at me, you published what was maliciously untrue. To-day, to make some excuse for your own wrong, you are compelled to invent another and in doing so you deliberately insinuate a slander against me in my capacity as Postmaster, thinking, I presume, that the fact of attacking me in that capacity will cause the public to close their eyes to the villainous misrepresentation of my action at the meeting alluded to.

In your issue of Wednesday, 17th inst., you gave what purported to be a report of the meeting held a few evenings before. You headed the article with the startling announcement that I had made a speech. Before closing your short report of that meeting you proved I had not made a speech. You thereby demonstrated, by implication, that you were both a slanderer and a liar, and my estimate of an editor who thus leaves himself open to this charge is that he is a fool. I went to you and pointed out the misrepresentations made by you. I told you I did not care for your report, in so far as it affected me in Chatham where the truth was known; and asked you to correct it in your next issue. Had I been in your place I would have wiped out the wrong by at once admitting it. You would thus have earned such respect as the world gives to a reformer, but you have thought fit to do otherwise. To-day you admit in fact, what in your report of the meeting you admitted by implication. In your report, I delivered a speech. To-day, I delivered "an unuttered speech"—an unuttered speech of 30 minutes or thereabouts. Do you see the point? or are you as you were when you dreamed this, yet asleep? To-day, to get clear of the odium of having proven yourself a malicious liar, you give the credit of the report of the meeting to "our reporter." Well, as "our reporter" and "our editor" are one and the same thing, our editor lied—first about me, and he now attempts to lie about some person whom he designates by the title of "our reporter." Ye Gods! What sublime imagination! What great ability, and what grand powers of divination are in one possessed by "our reporter" and "our editor" of our paper. I delivered a speech which was out of all the commencement. I did not deliver a speech. I delivered "an unuttered speech" lasting about thirty minutes—the most startling account of a starting speech ever written or spoken since Joe Collins' report of Ritchie's speech in the House of Assembly several years ago. Collins' report possessed the merit of originality, without being malicious. Yours possesses the demerit of maliciousness without being original.

And now, sir, how much of what you have insinuated against me in my capacity of Postmaster do you actually believe? Do you think any person has ever posted a letter in a railway box, from fear that they might be tampered with by me? or have you yourself ever done so? If not, then, I brand you as you have branded yourself, a scoundrel, without honor or manliness, a cowardly cur, presuming on your inability to defend yourself from attack, attacks others who have that respect for your disability which you yourself prompts you and your ilk to stoop to the dishonor of charging men with dishonorable actions of this nature. Men who can charge others with a crime like this, easily permit such crimes when the opportunity offers. Would you not post a letter every hour of the day to my most inveterate enemy did you think, for one moment, that I could do that which to you you insinuate might be true, viz., open and read it? Would not you and some of your satellites howl with delight could you prove or even attempt to prove what you have insinuated? You know you would, yet, in the face of all this you dare utter an unfounded slander against me. The loss of your arm or hand has done you one service. While it has proven you a cur, it yet saves you from the treatment meted out to curs which growl and bite, without rhyme or reason. You may, however, presume too often and what a man cannot do without disgrace, some woman will do, viz., publicly horsewhip you as you deserve.

I feel that while many in Chatham, perhaps, may have been and yet are angry that I should have been appointed Postmaster, there are none who would be mean or dishonorable enough to charge, by implication, anyone filling the office with a crime such as that of tampering with letters is, without greater reason therefore, than your personal dislike of the Postmaster. To you, whose nature, like your person, is stunted and warped, was left this disgraced duty, and you I will thank for it by giving you that which others more closely linked to you by political and personal association freely give pity and contempt. If on some occasion you would go down to the wharf, toss a cent and say, heads I drown myself, tails I'll go home, I venture the assertion that you are not one whom you would care to produce your life by wishing that tails would turn up.

Yours truly, JOHN LOGGIE.

I am, sir, your obt. servant, R. B. ADAMS.

The reverend gentlemen who organized the Anti-Jesuit meeting in Chatham did not, apparently, succeed in enlisting the co-operation of a single citizen. One of the three, moved by another of the three, seconded the other one of the three into the chair, and the vote of thanks was moved, seconded, put and carried by themselves in the same way. Not a layman seemed willing to endorse the agitation by sharing in it. Contemplatory reactions, if such had been put, would have been voted down by an overwhelming majority, and an amendment carried expressing the intention of the people of Chatham to mind their own business.

Since my letter was written the above has appeared in the World of to-day, Wednesday. It also is a misrepresentation of what occurred, for when the vote of thanks was put and a show of hands called for; at least 30 or 40 persons directed in front of me held up their hands, thus joining in the vote asked for.

R. B. ADAMS.

"He's awfully Sly"

Liberal Conservatives complain that a resident of Bathurst has been sent to Newcastle by the Public Works Department, to superintend the laying down of a wooden drain on the public wharf property of that town, the drain in question being needed to carry off the overflow water from the public building there. They say that there are plenty of men in Newcastle competent to superintend such a job, and that the importation of the Bathurst man is making very little of the Newcastle mechanics who support of the government.

We really wish that these dissatisfied gentlemen would present their grievances through the government organ at Newcastle, although we understand, on making enquires by telephone that, the fact that the alleged editor of the Advocate is also President of the Liberal Conservative Club, which controls the Tory patronage there, makes the position of the party in the matter awkward. The gentleman sent from Bathurst to superintend the work referred to was inspector of the Bathurst public building, recently constructed, and, we understand, the club-president of Newcastle selected him for this work, because of his having always found him ready to do him a good turn on his visits to the Gloucester shire town, and also because there were so many of the party in Newcastle who would expect the job that it was deemed by the president a master stroke of policy to give it to none of them, but to his Bathurst friend and then pretend he knew nothing about it.

The latter idea is a very good one from a P. O. W. P. standpoint, and people who know all the surroundings of the matter will realize that the political president and the ex-governor temperance high cook-a-lorum is a sly dog. We shall be interested in hearing of his "sticking to it" that he did not quietly get his Bathurst friend this job, when he really need not have gone outside of the members of the club over which he presides, to have found a man equally as competent for the work.

Their Style.

Mr. Nicholls of Lowell, Mass., again devotes a good deal of space in his little sheet, the Signal, published in Montreal, to the ADVANCE. He charges us with doing and saying quite a large number of things of which we have heard, for the first time, through the Signal and says the editor was afraid to meet him on the platform in Chatham, but abused him when his back was turned etc. He closes his article on the subject by saying of the editor of the ADVANCE that he is a person who, "as the assailant of women the defender of rum-shops, the patronizer of illegal bar-rooms, the publisher of swindling lottery advertisements, has earned for himself the justly deserved titles of 'The North Shore Squid,' and the annalist of Provincial Journalists."

When the late Mr. Dutcher was here, the editor of the Signal refrained from going to see him and giving him his personal support, even though repeatedly asked to do so by clogymen and others. Yes, Mr. Dutcher—hypocrite and profigate though he was—respected the delicacies of public discussion far more than Mr. Nicholls, and was, no doubt, a better man than his successor in the itinerant advocacy of a cause, the goodness and purity of which are too often sullied by such men. Mr. Nicholls' written and spoken language—a specimen of which is above quoted—may meet with the approval of his admirers here, but he and they must learn that there is a higher standard in such matters, as well as in that of temperance generally, on the Miramichi; and if they wish to have the respect of the community they must conform to that standard. When they have reached so high as to realize how much they have yet to learn in the matter which they will know enough to be ashamed at their temerity in attempting to teach others.

Nova Scotia's New City.

BIG PLANS FOR THE PROPOSED METROPOLIS.—SHARES TAKEN UP. Boston, July 22.—The Terminal City people are jubilant to-day over the receipt of a cablegram from agents of the company in London, England, announcing the sale of a block of 100,000 shares of the company's treasury stock for the round sum of $200,000, or $2 per share. This sale, it is claimed, will enable the company to carry out successfully the plans laid when it began operations about a year ago. The Terminal City company, limited, was chartered in 1885 by the parliament of Nova Scotia for the purpose of founding a commercial manufacturing and fishing-territory near the eastern terminus of the Strait of Canso. Here this company has secured large tracts of land on the extreme eastern point of the mainland, where the harbor is accessible at all times and navigable without the aid of local pilots. The lands extend about three miles along the deep water front. Directly across the strait the company has secured large tracts of land bordering an excellent harbor, on which there are valuable mines of coal granted by the crown, which are now being opened.

Plans for railroads to connect these places with the Intercolonial railway, and through that with Canadian Pacific railway, has been granted by the parliament of Nova Scotia, and the route has been surveyed and the plans filed. The Canadian Pacific railway grants the terminal city a subsidy of $3,000 a mile on the railroad when built, and the successful placing of this large block of stock would enable the company to construct the road at once. It is claimed that the construction of this connection, (only five miles long) will perfect a railway connection between the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans. The distance from Terminal City to Liverpool is 2330 miles against 2540 from Boston to Liverpool and 3130 from New York to Liverpool. The company propose to secure a fast ocean steamer to make one or two trips this autumn from Terminal City to Liverpool.

Base Ball. Saturday last was a great baseball day for the Chatham and Newcastle ball-players. The game was played on the Newcastle grounds and the New Chatham club, for the first time, tried conclusions with outside men. As they had never played a match before they anticipated defeat for the Newcastle players, who had beaten the Chathamians so badly on Dominion Day when they were looked upon as cock-of-the-walk, so far as the North Shore was concerned. The play was as follows:—

Table with columns: Times at bat, Runs, Base hits, Put out, Assists, Errors. Lists players like F. Fleiger, J. Dick, W. White, etc.

White pitched splendidly, striking out no less than 18 men and he was supported by Fleiger who had 16 put outs to his credit. Fleiger received several ugly clips with the ball and had a black eye, contused nose and cut mouth, but he stayed there just the same. Snowball and W. and F. Fleiger led in the batting on the Chatham side.

For the Newcastle, McQuarrie pitched the first inning, but was replaced by Traor, who did good work, striking out 12 men. McNelis caught well and had nine put outs. Smallwood and Russell led in the Newcastle batting.

Score:—Chatham 31, Newcastle 11, Chatham having an inning to spare. Two-base hits, F. Fleiger, (2), White, Jardine, Snowball, Dick. Three base hits: F. Fleiger, W. Fleiger. (2).

Home run: J. Fleiger. Stolen bases: Chatham, 7.—White and J. Fleiger. (2) Jardine, W. Fleiger, Snowball. (2).

Newcastle, 5.—Traor, Murphy, Russell, (2) Smallwood. Base on balls, of White, 2; of Traor, 1. Hit by pitched ball: Dick, Robbins. Struck out by White, 18;—Traor, 2; Murphy, 3; W. McNelis, 3; Lawlor, T. McNelis, 2; McQuarrie, Robbins, 4.

Struck out by Traor, 12; F. Fleiger, 2; Dick, 2; J. Fleiger, 3; Breen, 5; Murphy, 3; W. Fleiger, 3; T. McNelis, 2. Umpire: F. Eagles, St. John.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria. When she was a child, she cried for Castoria. When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria. When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

Death of Wm. W. Street.

The death of Mr. William W. Street of Fredericton, took place in that city on Tuesday last week. Mr. Street was in the 62nd year of his age, having been born at Newcastle, Miramichi on the 17th of January, 1828. He was the eldest son of the Hon. John Ambrose Street. Deceased was a graduate of old King's College and studied law in his father's office.
