A VETERAN OF 1812 .- A list of the veterans of the war of 1812, recently published, included the name of Mr. M Girouard, of Buctouche, one of the two survivors in this province. Mr. Girouard is about 96 years of age and is the grandfather of Mr. E. Girouard, barrister, of Moncton. He is remarkably smart for his age and such a small matter as a wall of 10 or 15 miles does not tire him in th least. He has lived in Buctouche all his life, and was enlisted in the 104th regiment just before the commencement of the war of 1812 by an officer from Freder. icton. He did not take part in the famous overland march of the 104th, but his father was one of the hardy New Brunswickers who marched on snowshoes to Quebec by way of Lake Temiscouata in the dead of winter and subsequently distinguished themselves in some of the leading actions of the war. Death of John Ryan of Chatham.

The Bangor, Me., papers give particu lars of the accident by which John Ryan, son of Mr. John Ryan of Chatham, lost his life in that city on Tuesday night of last week. We are glad, however to learn, on excellent authority, that in some respects the statements in regard to the sad accident are very erroneous and calculated to unfairly prejudice his memory. It appears that the young man had been working in the Maine woods last winter and was stream-driving last spring, being more recently employed on the railway. He had not been in Bangor for about a fortnight before the day on which he was killed, and it seems that on arriving he remained EMBERED:-Several weeks in the cars and when they were being

We have seen a letter to the bereaved mother, from the clergyman who was with deceased in his last hours and administered to him the rites of the church, and that, of itself, is a guarantee that the statements in reference to the young man's condition are untrue. George Ryan, deceased's brother, went from Chatham to Bangor on receipt of the sad news and paid all the bills that the city had incurred in connection with the accident, and he decided that it would be best for the interment to be in that city. The funeral took place, accordingly at 2 m. on Thursday last, the ceremony being at St. Mary's church at one p. m., and the burial at two in St. Mary's churchyard.

A Wholesale Thief.

Last Wednesday night, when Mr. Alex. Brown of Chatham went home and was looking about the premises to see that everything was secure, he found the barn door open and the male servant of establishment, Alfred McKee, who ought to have been in bed, absent. He called his brother, Andrew, and on opening an old chest in the barn they found it packed full of a miscellaneous collection of house hold goods. Then they looked in the harness room for McKee's chest and found weakened his constitution. He was seri- that it was missing. Thinking that he might be then in hiding in the vicinity, they searched the garden and discovered the missing chest beside the fence. It was opened and found to be full of articles belonging to the family. Further search resulted in the discovery of a trunk filled with stolen goods. The collection contained fur caps, ulsters, overcoats, trousers, hats, underclotnes, saws, hammers, rule, hatchets, etc., etc., all the been cleaned out. The buffaloes were missing, and further search revealed them made up into a bundle, ready for carrying off. Two guns and a watch were still missing. The Messrs Brown and Mr. rving watched for the coming of the thief for his plunder, but he didn't come. Two sailors passed during the night and they learned from them that they belonged to the steamship Coventry, then lying at Mr. Snowball's wharf. Suspecting that these men had intended to help Mc-Kee carry off the plunder, the steamship was boarded early in the morning and Mc-Kee found on board. He had the missing guns with him. He was taken to the lockup, examined before the Police Magistrate Friday morning, and sent up for trial. He has since pleaded guilty.

Marriage of Hon. George E. Foster. There has been considerable comment on the marriage of the Hon. George Foster to Mrs. Chisholm, formerly the wife of D. B. Chisholm, who received considerable attention at our hands some years ago in connection with the Standard Fire Insurance Company of Hamilton, of unsavory memory. Mr. Chisholm embezzled a large amount of funds, and disappeared. He is thought by some to be n Australia, but his actual whereabouts are unknown. Mrs. Chisholm quite re cently obtained a divorce in Chicago, on the ground of desertion; and was married there to Mr. Foster. As to whether there were really scriptural reasons for a divorce is a matter for the consciences of the parties themselves; as to whether this divorce is legally good in Canada is a matter for the courts and for lawyers. The only side of the question which concerns us is the effect of this case on the public mind. ally the one to suffer from their attacks. (There is unquestionably a strong and proper prejudice against divorces of any kind, the one ground of adultery alone excepted. Any relaxing of our laws or customs in this regard must be sternly guarded against. The prominent position held by Mr. Foster as a Minister of the Crown, lends an importance to this case which it would not otherwise have, and fears are expressed in some quarters that it may have an injurious effect on public opinion. The affair is a very re-

Yesterday there were committed to the "narrow house" the remains of a typical Eoglishman, Mr. A. W. Stikeman, who came to this country about ten years ago. and who won the esteem of a large circle of friends. Mr. Stikeman was a son of Canon Stikeman of Westminster. When 17 years of age he came to Canada and engaged for many years in farming. He was successful in his work, and was intimately associated with leading men in Montreal and Quebec. He returned to England some 25 years ago, married, and spent a number of years in France and that the Assembly prohibits the singing of Jersey. He continued to hanker for a portion of Scripture or of a Hymn out Canada, and came to Halifax nine years of their own Hymnal as an anthem, ago. He was a man of high intelligence and rare accomplishments. He had nearly completed his 76th year. He leaves a wife, two sons and a daughter. - Halifax
