

Miramichi and the North Shore, etc.

BAZAAR at Blackville. See advt. MESSRS. LOGGIE & Co. publish a card of thanks in this week's ADVANCE.

SMOKE THE ORELO, the best cent cigar in the market. For sale wholesale and retail at T. Tingley's, Chatham.

PISO'S cure for Consumption and Pilo's remedy for Catarrh are sold by J. D. B. F. MacKenzie, Druggist, Chatham.

DROWNED OFF LOGS—A lad named Brown, aged 15, who was passing over some logs in the Miramichi, near Boies-town, on Friday last, fell off and was drowned. The body was not recovered until Saturday.

TELEPHONIC—Rapid progress is being made in the extension of the telephone system to various points on the Miramichi. Redbank is expected to be the next place on the company's list.

ANYING—Miss Minnie M. Morrison has commenced a class of pupils in Newcastle in oil and water color painting. Her rooms are over the store of Mr. J. W. Davidson.

INSURED AT ONCE—Mr. Warren C. Winslow has been authorized by the British America Assurance Company to accept all classes of fire risks, issue policies and make endorsements, without delay or reference to the head office.

THE LAST TRIBUTE—Black Brook mill was shut down on Wednesday of last week, as a last tribute of respect to the late Benjamin O'Brien, who was a valued employee of the establishment.

THE BARK Capenhurst, consigned to Messrs. D. & J. Ritchie, was the first transatlantic arrival of the season at Chatham. She is discharging salt at the Muirhead wharf for Messrs. A. & R. Loggie.

MR. M. S. BENSON'S NEW RESIDENCE—Mr. Mowatt is making a decided improvement in the appearance of the house lately owned by Mr. Jas. Carter, west side of the Public Square and which is now owned by M. S. Benson, Esq.

DROWNED—A young man named Charles Godwin, aged 20 years, belonging to Carleton, was drowned at Burnville, last Friday afternoon. He fell from the bank into the river. The coroner held an inquest Saturday morning and the jury brought in a verdict of accidentally drowned.

AT HOME—The numerous friends of Surgeon-Major and Mrs. Street will be glad to hear of their return to Chatham in excellent health, on Tuesday, after spending the winter very enjoyably visiting Newark, New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington and other United States cities.

PLAIN AND FANCY WORK—The ladies of St. Mary's Guild, Chatham, are prepared to receive orders for all kinds of plain and fancy sewing, knitting, etc. and to promptly execute the same. They will supply both materials and work, or make up materials furnished by patrons. Orders will be received by Mrs. Blair, President, or any other of the ladies of the Guild.

PERSONAL—Mr. Frank Morrison, local manager of the Bank of Nova Scotia, and family have removed to Chatham, and now occupy the handsome Letson residence in the upper end of the town. We are sorry to yet fully recovered from the severe sprain of an ankle which has spoiled his gait, if not his activity in business, for a few days past.

THE SQUARE COMMITTEE is met in No. 1 engine house this evening. The members of the committee for this year are:—Messrs. John Haviland, W. T. Connors, W. B. Snowball, Alex. Brown, Alex. Burr, M. S. Hocken, Wm. Wilson, John McDonald, Chas. Gunn, T. Crimmon, R. Murray, Jr., R. Allen, W. W. W. R. A. Lawlor, R. H. Anderson, T. Flanagan, W. C. Winslow.

CORRECT—The Moncton Transcript, very correctly, says:—"When a newspaper finds its arguments are usually met by a contemporary with personal abuse, the best thing to do is to treat the offender with silent contempt. Mud throwing may be congenial, but it will never pass for argument." The Advocate was, no doubt one of the "contemporaries" in the mind of the Transcript writer.

VERY SUDDEN DEATH—On Tuesday evening a number of young people assembled at a friend's house in Blackville to enjoy a social dance. A section man on the Northern & Western railway named McGregor, was one of the merry company and withdrew to another room. Shortly afterwards his lifeless body was found on the floor. Heart disease is supposed to have been the cause of the young man's sudden death.—Reporter.

ANOTHER CASE of violation of the provisions of the Canada Temperance Act was tried on Thursday before Police magistrate John Nixon. The case was against John Nixon, Esq., of Doaktown. The defendant, by his agent, pleaded guilty, and a verdict of $50 and costs was recorded against him. S. Thomson, Esq., was counsel for the prosecution.—Advt.

SPECIAL—All subscribers will please take notice that the terms of the ADVANCE are as advertised in our regular business notice for years viz.—$1.50 a year, if paid in advance and $2 a year if not so paid. When subscribers do not choose to pay in advance, but take credit for the paper, they are to pay at the rate of two dollars a year. Any subscriber who does not wish to pay $2 a year for the paper must pay $2 a year for it.

NORTHERN NEW BRUNSWICKERS IN TROUBLE—The Boston Herald records the arrival there of a woman named Annie Wallace, with five small children, from Hartford, in a destitute state. The woman said she married one Patrick Wallace in the northern part of New Brunswick in 1847, and came with him to Hartford, Ct., the following year. Three years ago she had trouble with her husband on account of his dissipated habits, and he left her and went to Bridgeport, Ct., to work for the woman and children were sent back to Hartford.

SENATOR CARVELL'S SON EVIDENTLY IN-BANE—A New York despatch of the 8th inst.—"Wm. Frederick Harrison Carvell, son of Hon. J. S. Carvell, of Prince Edward Island, was arrested last night by the police while acting in a disorderly manner. He is evidently out of his mind. He had with him a ten-year-old stepson, Herman. The boy told the police his stepfather had been rowing him about the bay in a boat all day yesterday, and that he varied his occupation by praying in an earnest manner and crying out aloud. Carvell in court to-day was committed for examination as to his sanity and the boy was placed in the care of the Children's Society."

THE McLeod WILL CASE.—On Friday last, at Halifax, Surrogate Payzant delivered a lengthy judgment in the McLeod will case at the probate court. He found: That at the making of the will in the first instance the testator was of sound mind, and the will was all right. That when the July codicil was made testator was of sound mind, and intended to revoke the codicil of June. That the June codicil revoked the residuary clause of the will. That Mr. Bayne being an old friend of testator's, as such was consulted by him, but he, Mr. Bayne, exercised no undue influence over him. That when the July codicil was made the one of June was revoked and probate as granted must stand, the contestants to pay costs. The residuary bequest to Dalhousie college is therefore held to be good. The case will be appealed to the supreme court.

LITTLELL'S LIVING AGE.—The numbers of The Living Age for May 4th and 11th contain The Political Situation in France, by Gabriel Monod and Philip Gilbert Hamerton, Contemporary; The Baluch and Afghan Frontiers of India, by Sir Charles Dilke; The Brain-Force of Plants, and The Sonnet in America, National; A Business Boat-Journey, and A Visit to the Karni River and Kum, Blackwoods; A Turkish Democrat, Macmillan; A Little Girl's Recollections of Alfred de Vigny, Mr. Disraeli, and The Pulpit in the Good Old Days, Temple Bar; Lawrence O'Connell; Time; The Uriaric Fur of Education in India, Leisure Hour; The Eiffel Tower, Spectator; The Parcel Post, St. James; Common Sense in Military Dress, Civil and Military Gazette; with instalments of "A Chronicle of Two Months," and "Sophy," and poetry.

For fifty-two numbers of sixty-four large pages each (or more than 3,300 pages a year) the subscription price ($8) is low; while for $10.50 the publishers offer to send any one of the American $4.00 monthlies or weeklies with The Living Age for a year, both postpaid. Littlell & Co., Boston, are the publishers.

Still in the Mud.—Our intelligent and educated temperance friends, who have expressed their disapproval of the Advocate's raw and uncoloured mode of discussing the Scott Act question, will not, we think, find fault with us because we decline to pursue a controversy with that paper on the subject. Samples of its writers' ideas of argument are to be found in some of its references to a letter of Inspector Vye, which we published last week. That gentleman sent for publication, under his own signature, a defence against aspersions of the Advocate and some of its allies, which, instead of meeting in a respectable way, the Advocate answers as follows:

Mr. Thos. Vye, according to the story in the last Advocate is a very ill used and much abused individual, and despite the fact that he got paid about ten months wages for his services, yet he wishes to arouse the sympathy of the public, and in the language of Dr. D. G. Smith, over his (Vye's) signature, makes out a terribly pitiful story. What does he want, and what is he looking after. It has been whispered in our ear that as the public don't believe in Mr. Smith's professed temperance, they knowing him so well, that he has induced the inspector to come forward to help discredit the statements of the temperance party, and that if he will only back up his (Smith's) lies with others—that he will use his influence to get him the post of Inspector of licenses after the repeal of the Scott Act.

Such is the Advocate's ideas of discussing the "temperance" question. Is it any wonder that self respecting people of good taste hesitate about associating themselves with such leaders?

Kent County Notes.—RICHMOND, MAY 14, 1889. The County Commission terminated on Tuesday afternoon. In the case of Henry O'Leary vs. James D. Phinney the jury found a verdict for the defendant.

Messrs. J. D. Phinney and John C. Brown left for St. John yesterday. Mr. Walter Lantulum, of E. Lantulum & Co., who had been in town a couple of days left for home yesterday. Misses Maggie White, Agnes White and Josephine Murphy, three of Richibucto's fair young ladies, will leave for Boston, U. S. this week.

The barque "Annie McVain" has been sold to some Sackville parties who have converted the old craft into a barge. The thermometer indicated 86° in the shade on Thursday and Friday last. On Friday afternoon there was a heavy rain shower accompanied with a thunder storm and lightning. At Kingstons and some places on the K. N. Railway there was quite a storm of hail.

Messrs. K. B. Forbes and Wm. Hudson leave for St. John in the morning. Work has commenced on the new Fire Engine house which will be erected to the north of the Court House.

Lobsters are reported to be plentiful and large this season. Mr. E. H. Paine will re-open his summer hotel "The Beaches" about June 20th. Schrs. "Annie S." and "Abbie G." have arrived from Nova Scotia—the former from Ship Harbour and the latter from Spray Bay—and proceeded to the Richibucto river to engage in fishing operations. Last season the master of the first named vessel shipped a cargo of fish to the Halifax markets, and gave the first net that satisfaction. Mr. W. J. Pine proposes engaging extensively in this line of business this season. His snow load of fishing gear and supplies was taken up river yesterday.

One or two cases of Scarlet fever are reported from Kingston. Among the coasters there is considerable activity this season, carrying lumber to ports in P. E. Island. Schrs. "Minnie Long," Wm. Long master, has made two trips from Summerside bringing nearly four thousand bushels of oats for G. K. McLeod & Co.

Mr. Ferrigo of Coalgate beach of promise eponymic fame has removed his photographic studio further north and west. He proposes keeping on the "even way" of his way until he reaches Fredericton, going via Miramichi, Derby, Boies-town, etc. He is a good artist and his works do follow him. He gave every satisfaction to his patrons both here and in Kingston.

Recess on the Restigouche.—The symptoms of Biliousness are unappreciated by many individuals to some extent. A Bilious man is seldom a breakfast eater.

Notes and News.—Rev. Father Damien, widely known as the leper priest of Molokai, has died at Hawaii. Chartered, "Charles S. Parnell," Barbadoes for North of Hattaras, sugar, $3.50 per hid.

The imports of forest products at Melbourne, Australia, from the United States for the year 1888 were for 67,082,732 feet. Mr. Burns, M. P., for Gloucester, has purchased for $12,000 the fine new steamboat "Marie Louise," built during the past winter at Lewis, Quebec.

HE BELIEVED IN THEM.—Christian Scientist—"Do you believe in spirits?" Kentuckian—"Thanks, don't keep of I do."—Epoch.

Too frequently, alas, he has an excellent appetite for liquids but none for solids of a morning. His tongue will hardly bear inspection at any time; if it is not white and furred, it is rough, at all events.

The digestive system is wholly out of order and diarrhoea or constipation may be symptoms or the two may alternate. There are often Hemorrhoids or even loss of blood. There may be giddiness and other headache or vertigo or flatulency and tenderness in the pit of the stomach. To correct all this if not effect a cure try Green's August Flower.

Richmond, Va., May 11.—Mr. W. L. Royall, Counsel here for the foreign holders of Virginia bonds caused a flutter in political circles yesterday by boldly declaring in an interview that he favored the disfranchisement of negroes. Royall is a Democrat and an aspirant for political honors.

In his interview he said: "If the voters of this district should think me worthy of a seat in Congress, my aim will be the disfranchisement of the negroes. No white man in the South would, for a moment, entertain a proposition to re-allow the negro, or to treat him unfairly in respect of his rights of person or property, but all of us know and feel that it was a cruel piece of injustice to us to put the ballot into his hands in his present half civilized state."

This is the time of year when the window-sash question breaks loose and runs rampant in all directions. One says that the windows should be up, and another says they should be down. One demands fresh air, and another clamors against the danger of chills. Every house at such times is divided against itself. Mother army herself against son, wife against husband, lover against sweetheart. People who never before quarrelled about anything do the Kilkenny cat act on this.

And for all this, the question is never settled. Rows and wrangles leave the subject just as they began with it. As fast as Dixie Ann puts up the window Keturah Jane shoves it down—and vice versa. Oh, well, fly time will come along by-and-by and then the seething, roasting heat will wipe out the line of division, and there will be no more fuss about the window until fall.

A Paris letter writer describes some queer suicides.—A mechanic was working along the banks of the Seine, when he observed a pair of wooden shoes with a string attached and coming with the river. A piece of paper was in the shoe, reading, as the passer-by to bring the dead cart, as a corpse was at the other end of the cord. The suicide signed his name. His last request was attended to. In a hospital ward a man to terminate his agonies, tore a strip from the bed-sheet tied it round his throat, covered himself beneath the clothes and expired. The deceased boasted he knew a better morphia than what the doctors gave him. A publican, suffering from an incurable disease, sent two bullets into his head with a revolver. He called his family to bid them farewell. Next, he went to his bedroom, sprung his face, undressed himself, got into bed and expired fifteen minutes afterwards.

Because Bishop Potter, of New York, drew a striking comparison between the politics of Washington's day and those of the present regime, greatly to the disparagement of the latter, he has been pretty severely criticised for his utterances. His allusion to the plottings of to-day is also resented, although there are quarters where the preacher's admonitions are taken in good part. The Boston Herald says: "One does not need to be well advanced in years to remember a time when the number of families in Boston which kept private carriages could almost be numbered upon one's fingers; and when social entertainments among the wealthy classes were extremely simple; when the dwellings in the so-called aristocratic parts of the city were modest, unpretentious mansions, and when the general scale of living of those who resided in them was not much over what a clerk or salesman having a salary of $2,000 per annum would now consider essential for the comfort of his family." That all this is changed the superficial observer of American society knows well.

PHILADELPHIA, MAY 7.—A sea of phosphorene fire, extending as far as the eye could reach, was passed on Tuesday last 155 miles east by north of Cape Henlopen by the Allan line steamship Monitron, from Glasgow, now here. "Early on Tuesday night the heavens suddenly became overcast and intensely dark, and I left the bridge temporarily, leaving Second Officer Johnson in charge. I had hardly reached the chart-room when the cry of fire was announced on the starboard bow, and I rushed on the bridge and found the sea to be a mass of fire, presenting a scene of indescribable horror. When I saw a sea broke over the bow of the vessel the drops of fire spread over the rigging and decks like the flying embers of a genuine conflagration, where sparks were driven by a strong wind. Everywhere on the deck were found tiny, sparkling, phosphorene beads, which did not disappear until next morning. For two hours the vessel was steaming through this sea of fire, causing considerable alarm to the superstitious sailors and passengers. In a distance the sea appeared to be breaking on a strand, but a dip of the log without finding bottom indicated that shoal water was not near at hand." This unusual phenomenon has caused considerable interest among scientific men, a similar sea having been seen several months ago in the Bay of Bengal, which has puzzled the learned heads of Europe. An elaborate report will be prepared for the Hydrographic Office.

OZARK, MAY 10.—Dave Walker, chief of the "ball knobbers," his wife, William and John Matthews were hanged to-day for the murder of Charles Green and Wm. Eldens in March, 1887. This order of masked regulators was instituted in Tazewell county in 1885 and the needs of lawlessness and crime committed by the "Regulators" were such as to terrorize the whole community. They do not wear uniforms, and did not demand money, but what they do demand is "a fine" of $100. "We wear our coats at from four to six months of age, according to the season of the year. If the foal is dropped early, we wear it at four months; but if it is a late colt, we allow it to suck longer. The best age to begin breeding a filly is at two year old past—say, about twenty-six months. She should then be allowed a year's rest as a three-year-old."

"There is one thing that demands close attention after the horse has been bred and grown, and that is his feet. What is your practice in regard to keeping the hoofs in order?" "We fill the feet with soft blue clay, in order to keep them in good condition. I do not use any of the greatest preventive of hoof troubles, as it supplies plenty of moisture to the feet."

"If you please state what you first regard as entering a ring as a judge, and then name the points to which you attach especial importance, together with the defects to be discounted?" "In entering a ring of draught horses to him to death. The Korean government had imposed a tax on the townspeople which they were unable to pay, and Bokki paid the entire levy, selling some of his property to do so. This act of charity aroused the suspicions of the authorities, who thought Bokki sought to make himself popular in the district. They accordingly had him put to death in the manner described. The enraged townspeople arose en masse and attacked the constables, killing many and wounding most of the survivors. The military quelled the riot.

Richmond, Va., May 11.—Mr. W. L. Royall, Counsel here for the foreign holders of Virginia bonds caused a flutter in political circles yesterday by boldly declaring in an interview that he favored the disfranchisement of negroes. Royall is a Democrat and an aspirant for political honors.

In his interview he said: "If the voters of this district should think me worthy of a seat in Congress, my aim will be the disfranchisement of the negroes. No white man in the South would, for a moment, entertain a proposition to re-allow the negro, or to treat him unfairly in respect of his rights of person or property, but all of us know and feel that it was a cruel piece of injustice to us to put the ballot into his hands in his present half civilized state."

This is the time of year when the window-sash question breaks loose and runs rampant in all directions. One says that the windows should be up, and another says they should be down. One demands fresh air, and another clamors against the danger of chills. Every house at such times is divided against itself. Mother army herself against son, wife against husband, lover against sweetheart. People who never before quarrelled about anything do the Kilkenny cat act on this.

And for all this, the question is never settled. Rows and wrangles leave the subject just as they began with it. As fast as Dixie Ann puts up the window Keturah Jane shoves it down—and vice versa. Oh, well, fly time will come along by-and-by and then the seething, roasting heat will wipe out the line of division, and there will be no more fuss about the window until fall.

A Paris letter writer describes some queer suicides.—A mechanic was working along the banks of the Seine, when he observed a pair of wooden shoes with a string attached and coming with the river. A piece of paper was in the shoe, reading, as the passer-by to bring the dead cart, as a corpse was at the other end of the cord. The suicide signed his name. His last request was attended to. In a hospital ward a man to terminate his agonies, tore a strip from the bed-sheet tied it round his throat, covered himself beneath the clothes and expired. The deceased boasted he knew a better morphia than what the doctors gave him. A publican, suffering from an incurable disease, sent two bullets into his head with a revolver. He called his family to bid them farewell. Next, he went to his bedroom, sprung his face, undressed himself, got into bed and expired fifteen minutes afterwards.

Because Bishop Potter, of New York, drew a striking comparison between the politics of Washington's day and those of the present regime, greatly to the disparagement of the latter, he has been pretty severely criticised for his utterances. His allusion to the plottings of to-day is also resented, although there are quarters where the preacher's admonitions are taken in good part. The Boston Herald says: "One does not need to be well advanced in years to remember a time when the number of families in Boston which kept private carriages could almost be numbered upon one's fingers; and when social entertainments among the wealthy classes were extremely simple; when the dwellings in the so-called aristocratic parts of the city were modest, unpretentious mansions, and when the general scale of living of those who resided in them was not much over what a clerk or salesman having a salary of $2,000 per annum would now consider essential for the comfort of his family." That all this is changed the superficial observer of American society knows well.

PHILADELPHIA, MAY 7.—A sea of phosphorene fire, extending as far as the eye could reach, was passed on Tuesday last 155 miles east by north of Cape Henlopen by the Allan line steamship Monitron, from Glasgow, now here. "Early on Tuesday night the heavens suddenly became overcast and intensely dark, and I left the bridge temporarily, leaving Second Officer Johnson in charge. I had hardly reached the chart-room when the cry of fire was announced on the starboard bow, and I rushed on the bridge and found the sea to be a mass of fire, presenting a scene of indescribable horror. When I saw a sea broke over the bow of the vessel the drops of fire spread over the rigging and decks like the flying embers of a genuine conflagration, where sparks were driven by a strong wind. Everywhere on the deck were found tiny, sparkling, phosphorene beads, which did not disappear until next morning. For two hours the vessel was steaming through this sea of fire, causing considerable alarm to the superstitious sailors and passengers. In a distance the sea appeared to be breaking on a strand, but a dip of the log without finding bottom indicated that shoal water was not near at hand." This unusual phenomenon has caused considerable interest among scientific men, a similar sea having been seen several months ago in the Bay of Bengal, which has puzzled the learned heads of Europe. An elaborate report will be prepared for the Hydrographic Office.

OZARK, MAY 10.—Dave Walker, chief of the "ball knobbers," his wife, William and John Matthews were hanged to-day for the murder of Charles Green and Wm. Eldens in March, 1887. This order of masked regulators was instituted in Tazewell county in 1885 and the needs of lawlessness and crime committed by the "Regulators" were such as to terrorize the whole community. They do not wear uniforms, and did not demand money, but what they do demand is "a fine" of $100. "We wear our coats at from four to six months of age, according to the season of the year. If the foal is dropped early, we wear it at four months; but if it is a late colt, we allow it to suck longer. The best age to begin breeding a filly is at two year old past—say, about twenty-six months. She should then be allowed a year's rest as a three-year-old."

"There is one thing that demands close attention after the horse has been bred and grown, and that is his feet. What is your practice in regard to keeping the hoofs in order?" "We fill the feet with soft blue clay, in order to keep them in good condition. I do not use any of the greatest preventive of hoof troubles, as it supplies plenty of moisture to the feet."

"If you please state what you first regard as entering a ring as a judge, and then name the points to which you attach especial importance, together with the defects to be discounted?" "In entering a ring of draught horses to him to death. The Korean government had imposed a tax on the townspeople which they were unable to pay, and Bokki paid the entire levy, selling some of his property to do so. This act of charity aroused the suspicions of the authorities, who thought Bokki sought to make himself popular in the district. They accordingly had him put to death in the manner described. The enraged townspeople arose en masse and attacked the constables, killing many and wounding most of the survivors. The military quelled the riot.

Richmond, Va., May 11.—Mr. W. L. Royall, Counsel here for the foreign holders of Virginia bonds caused a flutter in political circles yesterday by boldly declaring in an interview that he favored the disfranchisement of negroes. Royall is a Democrat and an aspirant for political honors.

In his interview he said: "If the voters of this district should think me worthy of a seat in Congress, my aim will be the disfranchisement of the negroes. No white man in the South would, for a moment, entertain a proposition to re-allow the negro, or to treat him unfairly in respect of his rights of person or property, but all of us know and feel that it was a cruel piece of injustice to us to put the ballot into his hands in his present half civilized state."

This is the time of year when the window-sash question breaks loose and runs rampant in all directions. One says that the windows should be up, and another says they should be down. One demands fresh air, and another clamors against the danger of chills. Every house at such times is divided against itself. Mother army herself against son, wife against husband, lover against sweetheart. People who never before quarrelled about anything do the Kilkenny cat act on this.

And for all this, the question is never settled. Rows and wrangles leave the subject just as they began with it. As fast as Dixie Ann puts up the window Keturah Jane shoves it down—and vice versa. Oh, well, fly time will come along by-and-by and then the seething, roasting heat will wipe out the line of division, and there will be no more fuss about the window until fall.

A Paris letter writer describes some queer suicides.—A mechanic was working along the banks of the Seine, when he observed a pair of wooden shoes with a string attached and coming with the river. A piece of paper was in the shoe, reading, as the passer-by to bring the dead cart, as a corpse was at the other end of the cord. The suicide signed his name. His last request was attended to. In a hospital ward a man to terminate his agonies, tore a strip from the bed-sheet tied it round his throat, covered himself beneath the clothes and expired. The deceased boasted he knew a better morphia than what the doctors gave him. A publican, suffering from an incurable disease, sent two bullets into his head with a revolver. He called his family to bid them farewell. Next, he went to his bedroom, sprung his face, undressed himself, got into bed and expired fifteen minutes afterwards.

Because Bishop Potter, of New York, drew a striking comparison between the politics of Washington's day and those of the present regime, greatly to the disparagement of the latter, he has been pretty severely criticised for his utterances. His allusion to the plottings of to-day is also resented, although there are quarters where the preacher's admonitions are taken in good part. The Boston Herald says: "One does not need to be well advanced in years to remember a time when the number of families in Boston which kept private carriages could almost be numbered upon one's fingers; and when social entertainments among the wealthy classes were extremely simple; when the dwellings in the so-called aristocratic parts of the city were modest, unpretentious mansions, and when the general scale of living of those who resided in them was not much over what a clerk or salesman having a salary of $2,000 per annum would now consider essential for the comfort of his family." That all this is changed the superficial observer of American society knows well.

PHILADELPHIA, MAY 7.—A sea of phosphorene fire, extending as far as the eye could reach, was passed on Tuesday last 155 miles east by north of Cape Henlopen by the Allan line steamship Monitron, from Glasgow, now here. "Early on Tuesday night the heavens suddenly became overcast and intensely dark, and I left the bridge temporarily, leaving Second Officer Johnson in charge. I had hardly reached the chart-room when the cry of fire was announced on the starboard bow, and I rushed on the bridge and found the sea to be a mass of fire, presenting a scene of indescribable horror. When I saw a sea broke over the bow of the vessel the drops of fire spread over the rigging and decks like the flying embers of a genuine conflagration, where sparks were driven by a strong wind. Everywhere on the deck were found tiny, sparkling, phosphorene beads, which did not disappear until next morning. For two hours the vessel was steaming through this sea of fire, causing considerable alarm to the superstitious sailors and passengers. In a distance the sea appeared to be breaking on a strand, but a dip of the log without finding bottom indicated that shoal water was not near at hand." This unusual phenomenon has caused considerable interest among scientific men, a similar sea having been seen several months ago in the Bay of Bengal, which has puzzled the learned heads of Europe. An elaborate report will be prepared for the Hydrographic Office.

OZARK, MAY 10.—Dave Walker, chief of the "ball knobbers," his wife, William and John Matthews were hanged to-day for the murder of Charles Green and Wm. Eldens in March, 1887. This order of masked regulators was instituted in Tazewell county in 1885 and the needs of lawlessness and crime committed by the "Regulators" were such as to terrorize the whole community. They do not wear uniforms, and did not demand money, but what they do demand is "a fine" of $100. "We wear our coats at from four to six months of age, according to the season of the year. If the foal is dropped early, we wear it at four months; but if it is a late colt, we allow it to suck longer. The best age to begin breeding a filly is at two year old past—say, about twenty-six months. She should then be allowed a year's rest as a three-year-old."

"There is one thing that demands close attention after the horse has been bred and grown, and that is his feet. What is your practice in regard to keeping the hoofs in order?" "We fill the feet with soft blue clay, in order to keep them in good condition. I do not use any of the greatest preventive of hoof troubles, as it supplies plenty of moisture to the feet."

"If you please state what you first regard as entering a ring as a judge, and then name the points to which you attach especial importance, together with the defects to be discounted?" "In entering a ring of draught horses to him to death. The Korean government had imposed a tax on the townspeople which they were unable to pay, and Bokki paid the entire levy, selling some of his property to do so. This act of charity aroused the suspicions of the authorities, who thought Bokki sought to make himself popular in the district. They accordingly had him put to death in the manner described. The enraged townspeople arose en masse and attacked the constables, killing many and wounding most of the survivors. The military quelled the riot.

Richmond, Va., May 11.—Mr. W. L. Royall, Counsel here for the foreign holders of Virginia bonds caused a flutter in political circles yesterday by boldly declaring in an interview that he favored the disfranchisement of negroes. Royall is a Democrat and an aspirant for political honors.

In his interview he said: "If the voters of this district should think me worthy of a seat in Congress, my aim will be the disfranchisement of the negroes. No white man in the South would, for a moment, entertain a proposition to re-allow the negro, or to treat him unfairly in respect of his rights of person or property, but all of us know and feel that it was a cruel piece of injustice to us to put the ballot into his hands in his present half civilized state."

This is the time of year when the window-sash question breaks loose and runs rampant in all directions. One says that the windows should be up, and another says they should be down. One demands fresh air, and another clamors against the danger of chills. Every house at such times is divided against itself. Mother army herself against son, wife against husband, lover against sweetheart. People who never before quarrelled about anything do the Kilkenny cat act on this.

And for all this, the question is never settled. Rows and wrangles leave the subject just as they began with it. As fast as Dixie Ann puts up the window Keturah Jane shoves it down—and vice versa. Oh, well, fly time will come along by-and-by and then the seething, roasting heat will wipe out the line of division, and there will be no more fuss about the window until fall.

A Paris letter writer describes some queer suicides.—A mechanic was working along the banks of the Seine, when he observed a pair of wooden shoes with a string attached and coming with the river. A piece of paper was in the shoe, reading, as the passer-by to bring the dead cart, as a corpse was at the other end of the cord. The suicide signed his name. His last request was attended to. In a hospital ward a man to terminate his agonies, tore a strip from the bed-sheet tied it round his throat, covered himself beneath the clothes and expired. The deceased boasted he knew a better morphia than what the doctors gave him. A publican, suffering from an incurable disease, sent two bullets into his head with a revolver. He called his family to bid them farewell. Next, he went to his bedroom, sprung his face, undressed himself, got into bed and expired fifteen minutes afterwards.

Because Bishop Potter, of New York, drew a striking comparison between the politics of Washington's day and those of the present regime, greatly to the disparagement of the latter, he has been pretty severely criticised for his utterances. His allusion to the plottings of to-day is also resented, although there are quarters where the preacher's admonitions are taken in good part. The Boston Herald says: "One does not need to be well advanced in years to remember a time when the number of families in Boston which kept private carriages could almost be numbered upon one's fingers; and when social entertainments among the wealthy classes were extremely simple; when the dwellings in the so-called aristocratic parts of the city were modest, unpretentious mansions, and when the general scale of living of those who resided in them was not much over what a clerk or salesman having a salary of $2,000 per annum would now consider essential for the comfort of his family." That all this is changed the superficial observer of American society knows well.

PHILADELPHIA, MAY 7.—A sea of phosphorene fire, extending as far as the eye could reach, was passed on Tuesday last 155 miles east by north of Cape Henlopen by the Allan line steamship Monitron, from Glasgow, now here. "Early on Tuesday night the heavens suddenly became overcast and intensely dark, and I left the bridge temporarily, leaving Second Officer Johnson in charge. I had hardly reached the chart-room when the cry of fire was announced on the starboard bow, and I rushed on the bridge and found the sea to be a mass of fire, presenting a scene of indescribable horror. When I saw a sea broke over the bow of the vessel the drops of fire spread over the rigging and decks like the flying embers of a genuine conflagration, where sparks were driven by a strong wind. Everywhere on the deck were found tiny, sparkling, phosphorene beads, which did not disappear until next morning. For two hours the vessel was steaming through this sea of fire, causing considerable alarm to the superstitious sailors and passengers. In a distance the sea appeared to be breaking on a strand, but a dip of the log without finding bottom indicated that shoal water was not near at hand." This unusual phenomenon has caused considerable interest among scientific men, a similar sea having been seen several months ago in the Bay of Bengal, which has puzzled the learned heads of Europe. An elaborate report will be prepared for the Hydrographic Office.

OZARK, MAY 10.—Dave Walker, chief of the "ball knobbers," his wife, William and John Matthews were hanged to-day for the murder of Charles Green and Wm. Eldens in March, 1887. This order of masked regulators was instituted in Tazewell county in 1885 and the needs of lawlessness and crime committed by the "Regulators" were such as to terrorize the whole community. They do not wear uniforms, and did not demand money, but what they do demand is "a fine" of $100. "We wear our coats at from four to six months of age, according to the season of the year. If the foal is dropped early, we wear it at four months; but if it is a late colt, we allow it to suck longer. The best age to begin breeding a filly is at two year old past—say, about twenty-six months. She should then be allowed a year's rest as a three-year-old."

"There is one thing that demands close attention after the horse has been bred and grown, and that is his feet. What is your practice in regard to keeping the hoofs in order?" "We fill the feet with soft blue clay, in order to keep them in good condition. I do not use any of the greatest preventive of hoof troubles, as it supplies plenty of moisture to the feet."

"If you please state what you first regard as entering a ring as a judge, and then name the points to which you attach especial importance, together with the defects to be discounted?" "In entering a ring of draught horses to him to death. The Korean government had imposed a tax on the townspeople which they were unable to pay, and Bokki paid the entire levy, selling some of his property to do so. This act of charity aroused the suspicions of the authorities, who thought Bokki sought to make himself popular in the district. They accordingly had him put to death in the manner described. The enraged townspeople arose en masse and attacked the constables, killing many and wounding most of the survivors. The military quelled the riot.

Richmond, Va., May 11.—Mr. W. L. Royall, Counsel here for the foreign holders of Virginia bonds caused a flutter in political circles yesterday by boldly declaring in an interview that he favored the disfranchisement of negroes. Royall is a Democrat and an aspirant for political honors.

In his interview he said: "If the voters of this district should think me worthy of a seat in Congress, my aim will be the disfranchisement of the negroes. No white man in the South would, for a moment, entertain a proposition to re-allow the negro, or to treat him unfairly in respect of his rights of person or property, but all of us know and feel that it was a cruel piece of injustice to us to put the ballot into his hands in his present half civilized state."

<