A Very Attractive Lecture.

The approaching visit to Chatham Mr. Frederic Villiers, the well-known war correspondent will be quite an event in the entertainment line. Mr. Villiers was the correspondent and artist of the London Graphic, who went through the Servian campaign and the Russo-Turkish war, afterwards accompanying the Afghanistan expedition and the mission to Abyssinia, serving through the entire Egyptian campaign, and the recent Sou The Brigade camp for New Brunswick will dan and Burmese expeditions, Among be held this year at St. Andrews, at Jue, s other famous engagements he has parpoint. As a war artist and correspondent, Mr.

> Villiers holds the highest position; he was an actor in the historic scenes which he describes and illustrates, and "Lord Wolseley, presiding at one of his lectures, stated that he had always found him a most accurate and faithful witness." Mr. Villiers' illustrated lectures have been received with remarkable favor in England, and the demand for him is so great that he could be occupied every evening in the season. He decided, however, to come to America, and arrived in New York a few days ago, where he gave his first lecture before an American audience with great success at Steinway Hall. The preliminary notice of his intended visit aroused unusual interest, especially in local military circles, and while the warm recognition which is being unanimously accord ed to a brave man, will commend this engagement to the general public, who will not be slow in availing themselves of this unique opportunity to see and hear for themselves the man who has been through so much for their entertainment and edification.

Mr. Villiers is a man of fine presence, and appears on the platform in travelling costume. He is a fluent speaker, and has a fund of humor which keeps his audience in the best of spirits. His sketches are bold and full of talent, and in addition to their value as illustrative of the lecture, they are most interesting as fac-similes of the actual sketches taken on the spot, and often to the accompaniment of cannon's roar and rifle's whirr.

Referring to Mr. Villiers' appearance in Toronto the Globe of that city says:-"Last night Mr. Frederic Villiers, the artist of the London Graphic, who follow ed, or rather accompanied, the armies Russia and Britain in some of the mos exciting of recent campaigns, lectured the Pavilion to a large audience, which caught the inspiration of his thrilling ex-

Our Angry Neighbor. Our friend of the World reminds us o

Hamlet's observation in reference to the grave-digger-"How absolute the knave is." for he takes our remarks of last week, under the heading-"Monkeyism Lying," literally. It is said that there are none so intolerant and bigoted in matters of morality and religion as those who have been "snatched as brands from the burning," which, no doubt, accounts for our friend's pretended antipathy for liars. We are quite sure that personal reminiscences of carnage and slaughter which he is credited with having related to fair friends when he used to pose as the American War man, were delightful lies in the sense of Oscar Wilde's paper, to which we referred last week, although he is now understood to repudiate all such experiences, and even to deny that he ever spun such varns. It therefore occurs to us that if he had stuck to the first lie-if it was a lie-it would have been better than denying that he ever claimed to be an American War man, for his denial that he ever told the stories referred to, show that he is a double-barrelled prevaricater. Then, again, when he mentions evening cronies it reminds us of that story of the evening fence-climbing, and that other story of his carrying an extended and sheltering umbrella by moonlight, and we are quite sure it was no crony of ours who heard those excited remonstrances and threats about screaming, all the way down stairs and on the street, which our friend was obliged afterwards to explain by a whopper that would have delighted Tom Pepper, him-

his business concerns, and there is pretty strong suggestion of prevarication when he intimates that we have interfered with his "financial affairs." We referred only to his wanting to sell the plant of the World to some gentlemen in Campbellton, the facts of which were much papers, before we mentioned the matter; haved so churlishly towards us, we made public his own correction of what he alleged was a misstatement of the Telegraph on the subject, notwithstanding that the Telegraph gave as its authority | practice will rank very high as such. the gentleman with whom, as it turned out, Mr. Stewart had been corresponding with a view to selling out in Chatham. wanted to sell, but the other parties, being able to get better value elsewhere. did not buy from him, as quite a number Statements in reference to this claim were made to as an outcome of his helping to work up a party club in opposition to the gentleman from whose friends, it is also said. he demanded and received a certain sum of money-cash down-before he would consent to allow his paper to render their candidate any assistance in the election campaign referred to.

his reference to the fact that we have, er, who is very highly esteemed by all a bundle or two from the World Office. him. and he makes some characteristic assaults on our credit and business methods in that connection, but every publisher knows it is not an unusual thing for one have let Mr. Stewart have paper, and, time and again, given him the use of the machinery of the ADVANCE establishment. when he has had work which he had not him to make of our plant-an obligation here, and since, and also for assisting him in the way referred to, has been his constant snarling at and misrepresentation of Mr. Smith, simply, we believe, because that gentleman and the ADVANCE have ten genuine friends where he has one in the community. It is not our fault that Mr. Stewart can't get along, socially or otherwise in Chatham, and that he wants to sell out or, as Progress said of him last Saturday, "that he stays in Chatham, because he cannot see his way clear to get out of it without loss."

The trouble with the poor fellow is that when he assumed his being he got into the wrong world. It is doubtful, however, even if he had been permitted to make the world for himself, whether he would have long remained satisfied with t, for he would have peopled it with cranks like himself and been eventually even more unhappy and dissatisfied with it than he now is. When he goes to St. John and other places outside of the Miramichi he does net disguise his hatred of Chatham, which, we think, deserves respect rather than ingratitude at his ands. A number of over-confiding gentlemen, in the town and vicinity, placed property worth thousands under his control, of which he has now taken full possession without returning to them the value of a cent. He has, to all intents and purposes, made a worthless mess of it, and it is because he has thus made shipwreck of one of the best business opportunities ever given to such tramp, that he snarls at not only the place and the gentleman who has made a success of the ADVANCE, while he has made a failure of the World, but has be come the personal and political enemy of many of those who gave hundreds of dol lars to put him on his feet. As those wh have endeavored to make something o him, to their pecuniary loss, have so frequently declared, "he's no good," but we suppose the community with its well-es-

Music, Etc. in Restigouche.

Editor Chatham Advance :-DEAR SIR: - The concert given at Camp bellton on Tuesday evening the 26th ult. by Professor Baker, his pupils and a few friends from Chatham, was in every particular a grand success. The hall was completely filled with a very select, intelligent and highly appreciative audience. As is usual at Campbellton the very best of order prevailed. Mr. Baker was highly honored and duly complimented by his audience, by being requested to repeat his concert the follow ing evening. It is, of course not necessary to say that Mr. Baker accepted the kind invitation extended him. Professor Baker deserves much for the musical progress of the Charlo pupils and others under his tuition; and a very high compliment can be paid these of a high order. Mr. Baker's pupils and their good parents were extremely kind (though child ishly and ineffectually forbidden) to come Our friend, too, is over-sensitive about and repeat the concert at Campbellton for a charitable purpose; but we must aver to their honor and credit, that all the lay people of Charlo and its environs are kind. intelligent and charitable.

Mr. Sheridan, that grand comedian of Chatham, sang and acted splendidly. To say that Mr. Sheridan is a complete concert in himself is but to give due justice to him. Messrs. McEachern and Staple ton of Chatham gave some very fine selec. tions on the violin, the execution of each one of which was excellent. Mr. Mc Eachern is an excellent violinist, and with a little more assiduous application in In the repetition of the concert. Mrs.

George Cutter, of Chatham, took an active part. She is, indeed, an accomplish. It really transpires that Mr. Stewart | ed pianist, and reflects high honor on the institution of her education, being also quite an acquisition to the parish of her adoption. The programme, as executed at Campbellton, was almost identical with The only other financial matter of our | that of Charle given the 18th ult,; and as the it was very correctly and fully published fact that he claimed quite a large amount | in the ADVANCE of last week, we do not deem it necessary to reproduce it here. But the Charlo concert was neither correctly nor truthfully reported in the Chatham World and the Courier des Provinces Maritimes; and we feel decidedly sorry to say (on account of the high posi tion of the writer) that the article in the Chatham World, written by "Campbelltonian," contained an unbroken chain of assertions diametrically at variance with the truth. Had the correspondent been truthful, we could amply afford to smile Mr. Stewart seems to be very inexperi. | benignly at the endless number of grammatical faults in the language of his adoption for criticism—the language too of his abhorrence; but disappointed in visionary anticipations of vile lucre, he allows the fancy, seasoned with abundant ire, to lord where cool reason and intelligence alone should justly predominate. By this violent burst of ungoverned and baby He displays considerable ingenuity in frenzy, great injustice was done Mr. Bak.

True, Mr. Baker did tolerate a few hours dance after the concert was over: but he had, previously, taken competent advice and circumstantially the only adoffice to furnish another with paper as a vice he could then get. Finding that admatter of mutual business courtesy. We vice was not against his proper ecclesias. Lettie Carman, a niece of Miss Waitt's. tical superior, he then consented. It must be quite remembered that Mr. Baker would do nothing against his church or its due authority. Hence, we see no rea the facilities to do. We have always son why Mr. B. should be "flogged." paid him prompt cash for anything we What a dignified term! Strange, Charlo ever obtained from him. but we never is the only place where people are "flog. made any charge for the use we allowed | ged" for proper dances ! How imperfect all the other parishes must be! Would which he cannot repay, for the World es. it not be advisable to pass round the hat tablishment outfit is a poor one. The and take up a collection for the Charlo only return we have had for courtesies ex- "flogger," that he might proceed from art and perfection? May we ask where the gentleman obtained his authority for flogging?" How childish, yet how painful! But suppose Mr. B. did commit a fault (which he did not) would hastily rushing to print a shower of falsehoods on him compensate or mend matters. We judge not; we think it uncharitably absurd. Suppose, secondly, he did disobey the local ecclesiastical superior (which he did not,) is it any worse for Mr. B. guilty in that respect than for the local ecclesiastical Superior to disobev his own ecclesiastical Superior by entering into forbidden (for ecclesiastics) secular pursuits-milling, etc., -without permission or authorization from these who have a legitimate right to grant such. It is, indeed, rather unsafe to point out imperfections and sins in others unless we are ourselves faultless. We find it necessary to clear Mr. B. of false accusations made against him; and if necessity demand it. we will go further, as we have much more to say in due time and in its proper place.

A Disorderly Pupil. BROCKVILLE, Ont., Feb. 21 .- A case of interest to school teachers, pupils parents and trustees was tried before Police Magistrate Deagon yesterday. It appears that on Monday, February 11th, Leslie Bowman, a pupil of North Augusta school, during a short absence of the teacher, Mr. Condel, from the class-room, kissed Maggie Forrest, one of the good-looking pupils, attempted to kiss another named Annie Mc Ammond, shoved John Baldwin from his seat and punched him, knocked a boy named Churchill on the floor and jumped on him, and indulged in other disorderly conduct. For all this series of infringements of school discipline, the teacher gave him a whipping on the hauds with the regular rubber strap. His hands were slightly swollen, and his parents had the teacher summoned for ill-using the The offences mentioned were clearly proven, and the Magistrate held that the teacher was justified and dismisscapital prize of $300,000 in the November ed the case. In closing his remarks he slipped down off the barrel and shaking hands with the old voter said. "I will always remember you, most noble Festus." The joke was richly enjoyed by a large crowd, and on Bruce retiring, the aged Tupperite kissed his hand and made an engagement to call on him the next afternoon. But alas! The people of Chatham, in my judgment, should unite and represent to the Dominion Gouernment and Parliament of Canada that splendid terminal facilities have been given to both Halifax and St. John, at the very proper expenditure of many hundreds of thousands of dollars and that, whereas Chatham and the Port of Miramichi, ranks in importance, next, after these commercial harbors, that, therefore, a grant of not less than $50,000 should be made to these two combined Railway Companies, upon the condition that such terminal and deep water facili-

Candy for Him.

In the House of Commons, Ottawa, or Monday, when Sir John proposed to monopolise Thursdays for government

Hon, Peter Mitchell objected that the private members, under this arrangement. would not have sufficient opportunity to present their grievances to the house this session, being now left with only Mondays and Wednesdays. He had in his mind particularly, a number of grievances of his constituents respecting land damages in connection with railway construction, and paper he would have to bring them up on the motion to go into committee of sup. ply, and the house might have a repetition of the Widow Murphy's cow business unless the premier would meet him quietly in his own office and there give him the information required. He thought that this might be feasible, because although their relations had not been very cordial for some years, Sir John had the other day extended the olive branch of peace by sending him his box of candy across the case last week was Mrs. J. J. Pierce, of Chatham, N. B. She testified that she knew the deceased for over 20 years. She used to stay at McLeod's when in the city. always at his invitation. In 1880 she kept house for him for two months. It was July when he sent for her. He had his will made, and had made one previously. McLeod read a portion of the previous will to her. He gave it to her to destroy and took it back to read a portion of it He then read about leaving money to certain institutions and told her she might read it over. She took the will to the kitchen and destroyed it. She saw the new will after that. Mr. McLeod out of his chest on the following Monday: it was signed on Saturday. He said he wanted her to read it over. She spoke to him about how he was disposing of his property to his relatives different from what he had always said he would do He said he had been influenced to make She visited him in May, 1882. he having sent for her. He said he was going to make some changes in his will. He said he was going to take the residue back from Dalhousie college and give it to the families where it had been so long. He said he now felt easy in his mind since taking it away; that he had lived long enough to see that there were people more deserving of it than the college, Mr. Bayne had a conversation with deceased one evening. Mr. McLeod afterwards said "Mr. Bayne wants me to give my money to the college; I wonder how much he is going to give the college himself!" Mr. McLeod afterwards told her he had had Mr. Shannon down to make a change in anything the projectors had dreamed of. his will, Dr. Slayter's cross-examination to James F. He was weaker mentally a Chatham to-day has two Railways enmonth after than he was on that day. In answer to a question from counsel as to what he meant by mental weakness, the doctor said it showed itself in a certain oss of memory and in not being able to get a word though he knew the idea he wanted to express, and in the tearing up of papers and putting them under his pillow, thinking them bank notes. Towards the last day of his life, Monday. Jan. 15. 1883, the loss of his will power accelerated rapidly. On being re-examined the doctor said that about two mouths before deceased's death, the loss of will power was more marked. He was not sure whether or not Dr. Farrell had been called

What Am I to do?

The symptoms of Billiousness are unnappily but too much known. They difin different individuals to some extent A Billious man is seldom a breakfast eater Too frequently, alas, he has an excellent appetite for liquids but none for solids of morning. His tongue will hardly bear inspection at any time; if it is not white and furred, it is rough, at all events. The digestive system is wholly out order and Diarrhoea or Constipation may be symptoms or the two may alternate here are often Hemorrhoids or even loss of blood. There may be giddiness and often headache and acidity or flatulence and tenderness in the pit of the stomach. To correct all this if not effect a cure try Green's August Flower.

Harmony in Colors.

Red and violet do not accord well. Black never produces a bad effect when it is associated with two luminous colors. Green and blue produce an indifferent effect, but better when the colors are deep. Blue, when placed by the side of orange, increases the latter's intensity, and vice When two colors accord badly together it is always advantageous to separate them

Green and violet, especially when light, form a combination preferable to green and blue. Red and blue accord passably, especially so well as orange and green. While grey never produces exactly a bad effect in its association with two luminous colors, yet, in common cases, its assortments are dull. Red and yellow accord pretty well, especially if the red be a purple red, rather than scarlet, and if the yellow be rather greenish than orange. Yellow and green form an agreeable combination. The arrangement of yellow and blue is more agreeable than that of yellow and green, but is less lively .- [Philadel-
