Smelt-Buying and Smelt Shipping

Снатнам, 2од Dec., 1889. DEAR SIR:-At this season of the year an epedemic now known as the "Smelt fever." visits the North Shore of N. B. and hardly anybody that has ever shipped a smelt but is attacked with the malady. cents per pound. Ex-Conductor Sam. shipping season and only leaves the patient when the last of the spring returns of smelt shipped in the winter have all come to hand. The shipper then realises that he has been unconscious all winter, the disease having made him getting four cents per lb for them, he will pay four and four and a half for them on the ice at Tabusintac, Burnt Church, Hardwicke, Glenelg or other places from twenty to forty miles away from Chatham

The shippers know that what I state here is a fact, and I do not think that one of them will deny that for the past few years they have made nothing in the smelt business. Last winter, especially, the greater part of those who handled these hsh lost heavily on the winter's ship

What I wish to do in this letter is t draw the attention of the shippers to the manner in which they buy smelts. On the Miramichi it is not done in as loose manner as in the far away places that I have already mentioned in this letter, as the shippers on the Miramichi River daily see and can give their collectors instructions what to pay for them. The shipper hires a collector and gives him generally about one-quarter of a cent per 1b. to go and buy for him. His instructions are to get them as cheaply as he can, but to pay as i much as other collectors, but sterss is laid at the final parting between collector and shipper in these words from the shipper "get them as cheaply as you can, but get the smelts." Away goes the collector. armed, with his pockets full of bank bills or what is just as good, a large bill book with the name of the shipper printed in full at the end of each bill, with a blank place for the collector's name, At the end of the fishery season there pills come pouring in on the unfortunate shipper, and then he begins to realise that he has had the smelt fever pretty badly and also that he has to pay a pretty big price for smelts and also a nice little item for handling. The collectors are the men who make the price of smelts. The shippers pay for them. But, so far as regulating the price goes, the latter have nothing at all to do with it. The collector is bound to get his load of smelts and get them he will. If he finds that some other collector is getting more than he is, or has had the promise of the fish from the fishermen, he will raise an eighth of a cent. The other collector will soon find out what has been done and say, "I am as able as Loggie's, Crocker's, Watts', Sweezy's, Williston's Russell's or Anderson's, etc.

The collector is bound to get them as the more he gets the better for himself, and in almost every case in this world we generally look out for ourselves and I do not blame the collectors to do the same as others always do. The fault is not with the collectors, but with the system. Let the shippers or those who pay for the fish regulate the price. Until this is done shipping smelts will be a losing business. I do not want to put down the price of smelts, as I am a smelt fishermon and have never, as yet shipped a smelt, nor do I intend to, as I think we have the best of the business At the same time, I think a change is needed in the business in the interest of all concerned. Smelts can always be bought cheaper in Chatham than on the ice away from it. This shows that there is something wrong. I would advise the shippers, now in the beginning of the season, to think well what they have been doing the past years and make a change. If they do not the same old story will be heard next March as was heard last, and the man with the most money will not be I hemmorhage from the lungs at an early a smelt-shipper.

Yours respectfully, A FISHERMAN.

How Came They There ?

Mr. Editor: Is it true that about half a ton of "blinks" and three or four hundred small bass were dumped on the ice off Bushville shore last Saturday night and seized on Sunday, and that there was no sign of pickets or nets near the place? Where did the little smelts and bass come from? Perhaps the Adoocate, which seems to know so much about it and is in such glee over the discovery because it operates against the Chatham fishermen can, give particulars .

Yours, Douglastown. [Our correspondent must push his enquiries a few miles above Chatham, where the find of smelts and bass referred to is reported to have been made. We are not posted on the circumstances of the find, but cannot see how it can affect the question of the fishery off Chatham, notwithstanding the Advocate's effort to make it so appear. - EDITOR

THE OLDEST BANK NOTES. The oldest bank notes are the "fly ing money," or "convenient money, first issued in China 2697 B. c. Originally these notes were issued by the Treasury, but experience dictated change to the banks under Government inspection and control. The early Chinese "greenbacks" were in all essentials similar to the modern bank notes, bearing the name of the bank, date issue, the number of the note, the signature of the official issuing it, indi cations of its value in figures, in words. and in the pictorial representation in coins or heaps of coins equal in amount to its face value, and a notice of the pains and penalties following counterfeiting. Over and above all was a laconic exhortation to industry and thrift: "Produce all you can: spend with economy." The notes were printed in blue ink, on paper made from the fibre of the mulberry tree. One issue, in 1399 B. C., is all carefully preserved in the Asiatic Museum at St. Petersburg.

The people of the United States last year paid for pensions the large sum of $87.624.776, Add to this the interest of the war debt amounting to $41,001, 484 and we have the sum of $128,626,-260 which the people of the United States are still paying every year on account of the war. The pension legis. lation proposed by President Harrison in his message will add greatly to the pension expenditure. He suggests that every man who fought on the side of the Union during the war and who has become incapacitated from earning his living shall receive a pension. This law, it passed, will add enormously to the expenditure on pensions, and will, in the course of time, become virtually LAWS OF HEALTH: -One of our popular | a service pension, including in its provisions every man who fought in the war. It will probably add immediately at least $50,000,000 a year to the pension expenditure. The estimated expenditure for pensions for the current year is $105,758,700, and this is likely to be increased to $155,000,000 by change in the law and the pensioning of all disabled soldiers of the war without regard to the causes which led to their being disabled. If we add to this the army expenditure amounting to about $35,000,000, we have a total of $190,000,000, which the United States government will be paying for services which only cost the British government $97,000,000.
