A great number of delegates were promptly on hand at the opening of the session, a somewhat larger proportion of clergy than laity being present. This first day has been given up almost wholly to clearing the decks for action. Methodists have still a genius for method, and know thoroughly the value of laying a good ground plan for future work. They have received to-day the general superintendent's address and a number of reports, and are ready for the appointment of committees in the first half hour of to-

So far enough has not been realized to pay expenses of management.

from those who desire the dusky maiden and the yellow $10,000. Two years ago Douglas F. Carlin, a son of an ex-governor of Illinois, married Dupree's eldest daughter, and the old man made him independently rich. "Swift-as-the-wind" is said to be the finest looking Indian maid in the great reservation, but old man Dupree must alone be consulted in bargaining for her hand in marriage. He says he picked a model young man or the older one, and the man who gets "swift-as-the-wind must be of the same make-up as Carlin. Dupree is the oldest white man in either of the Dakotas, having come here sixty years ago, and being now eighty years old, hale and hearty, His daughter has French, Negro and Indian blood flowing in her veins.

The general complaint in the Baptist enomination of the Maritime Provinces. was, and is, that the Convention is dominated by an irresponsible self-constituted oligarchy, and this complaint comes from ministers as well as laymen. I have neard some of our very best ministers affirm this. I heard one say that the number of ministers who controlled the Convention could be counted on these, at the same time holding up his hands with the ingers open, and I heard another say that that was an over-estimate, as the number was about seven. To have a president selected by a committee not appointed by the Convention, I cannot think does him any honor. It may be said that the Convention ratifies the choice by its vote when passing the report of the committee. It must be evident to every one that the moving an amendment to that report would lead to almost endless confusion and to save that the Convention has to acquiesce in very many instances in what it does not approve. The Baptists claim that all the bodies connected with the denominatian are purely democratic ; but if it is not so, let us have a Pope and Cardinals, and not claim to be what we are.
