A long discussion took place in the Legislative Council to day over the reporting committee's recommendation that Mr. Frank H. The Address passed both houses the opening day-a most unusual thing. A large number of returns, and the Auditor-General's report on the Public Accounts, embracing the main transactions of the different departments have been tabled with unusual promptness and the estimates were laid on the table on Monday. The business of the session, so far as the Government is concerned, is advanced to a degree never before reached in the history of the legislature. RAW RECRUITS AND A GOOD LEADER. Meantime the Opposition is dazed. Its leader is a good man but its ranks are full of raw recruits and if the few experienced men who are acting in a half-hearted way with it can put up with the "coaching" of the "fifth member for York," they will develop more patience and forbearance than the interests of their constituents will justify

them in exercising. ST. JOHN'S PECULIAR POSITION

in the Legislature attracts no little at tention. That constituency has, think, always been represented by one or more of its Assembly members in the Government, and these St. John ministers have always had a good following in the House. At the present of square miles held by each of such | time, the great commercial county of the province is without representation in the Government, or on the Government side in the popular branch. In fact, it may be truthfully stated that St. John County is practically unrepresentthing that, although Mr. McLellan was defeated by the city vote in the general election, he is in a position to look after the county's interests by having each such licenses during the past year for been appointed to the Legislative amount is due and unpaid from any or electors of St. John County who are so unfortunate, in a political sense, as to reside outside of the privileged precincts of the city, are-under the absurd law relating to elections to the Assembly in "The city and county of St. John"- practically disfranchised. The gentlemen who sit in the Assembly in the name of the County of St. John are not those who were chosen by the County—that is by the country parishes, for the vote of those parishes was swamped by the city vote. City and suburban interests are often divergent, and it is always best that all sections and interests of such important communities as those composing the 1,200 County of St. John, should have representatives in touch with them. No 12,500 one who is acquainted with St. John will, however, pretend that it is or can be properly represented, so long as the existing anomaly in its method of electing members to the Assembly is allowed to continue. The united cities contain, of course, the greater number of the constituency's electors-the proportion between the city and suburban parishes being more than three to one -and, yet, the city has, nominally, only two representatives, while the county, under the title of "City and --- $ 4,070 County," is supposed to have four. $40,000 But it hasn't four, or even one, for the big city vote is allowed to be cast with that of the outside parishes for the > parishes of Lancaster, Simonds and St. As the St. John members of Assembly are all in opposition, it is not to be supposed that they will be able to effect the changes that seem to be urgently needed in the Act relating to elections to the Assembly, but as the Speech to amend that Act, there should be an effort made to induce it with modern ideas of representative institutions that any one constituency should elect six members in a parliament of forty-one, and it is, therefore, in the interest of the province at large that the existing arrangement should be made to give place to one more in keeping with the spirit of the age. THE STUMPAGE QUESTION. The debate on Mr. Blair's stumpage resolutions began on Tuesday afternoon and was going on yesterday (Wednes day.) We do not publish any of the speeches this week, but will do the subject justice in next issue. readers of the ADVANCE are, no doubt, anxious to know how the house will divide on the question. The indications are that if Hon. Mr. Ryan, who is ill at his hotel, is able to be in his place, and there are no other absentees, the resolutions will pass with a majority of fourteen. That is, assuming that Messrs. Phinney, of Kent, and Pourier, of Gloucester, will favor the reduction. If, however, as some claim, these gentlemen range themselves with the Opposition against the public interest in the matter, the majority will be not more than ten. Mr. Phinney's record is one which induces the belief that he may be relied upon to stand by the interests of his constituents in this stumpage matter, and they will, no doubt, be greatly disappointed should he not do so. Mr. Pourier is a new man and his appearance does not indicate that he will be less loyal to his constituency than Mr. Phinney. In any case the Government's position and the stumpage-reduction are assured and, before the end of the session, the ministerial majority will be sixteenperhaps eighteen.

[From the Official Reporter.] Special to the Advance.

FREDERICTON, March 19. Mr. Blair moved his stumpage resolution, referring to the efforts of North Shore lumbermen during the past several years, to secure a reduction of the stumpage. The government had been obliged to decline to comply with the request of the lumbermen for many years because admit of a reduction. Now, however, the territorial revenue was so large that a reduction of 25 cents per thousand could be made without interfering with the services of the country. Mr. Hanington opposed the resolution on the ground that the lumber industry was now in a flourishing condition. Had the government wanted to have helped the lumbermen of the North they should have done so when the lumber trade was It is quite evident that last week's depressed. He moved an amendment disapproving of the governments present method of dealing with the matter.

Mr. Burchill followed claiming that the four members elect had no fault to find with the government, except on the matter of stumpage, the government now showing a disposition to meet the lumbermen fairly the representatives of Northumberland were prepared to give it a fair support.

Mr. Atkinson spoke next condemning the general policy of the government and claiming that the proposition of the government to reduce the stumpage at the present time was only a scheme to save themselves from defeat. Mr. LaBillois defended the government and said a reduction of the stumpage rates would meet with the approval of all the Mr. Phinney charged the government with only moving in this matter to save themselves from defeat. Mr. Pugsley followed and at 12.30 o'clock, this Wednesday morning, moved the adjourment of the debate which wil be resumed at 11 o'clock in the forenoon.

> (F'ton Herald) In the Lumber Woods.

HE PRESENT CONTRASTED WITH THE PAST. The lumber season is about drawing to close. For the most part the winter's operations have met with average success. The cut in the various sections of the province is equal for the most part, to that of previous years. On the whole the winter has been favorable to the great ndustry of our province. There have peen a few drawbacks, not the least of which has been the ubiquitous grip, which penetrated the remotest depths of the forest, and laid its frigid hand on the woodsman. The present heavy snowstorm, following so closely on that of last week, will considerably impede the work of hauling lumber from the yards to the brows, but with these exceptions, the people of the province will be pleased to learn that the great industry of New Brunswick, which gives employment to so many men, and which keeps alive and prosperous so many other lines of business, has not been retarded by any calamitous drawbacks, and that the cut for the winter is satisfactory to the various operators.

"Speaking of lumbering," said a prominent lumberman the other day, "there is no business in which the advance and improvements over old plans and methods have been more rapid and complete than in the lumbering operations in the woods, Why, said he, it is only a few years, since the man who went into the woods in the fall, saw no signs of comfort until he came out in the spring. The accomodations were all of the most rude and primitive character, the camps were generally built after the men went into the woods, and were mere protections against the weather, the men laid down at night on some boughs, with such covering as they might happen to bring into the woods with them; the fare was the most common kind, being chiefly pork, and fish -none of the present comforts being heard of in those days. It was on the streams that the men suffered most. From long before daylight in the morning until after sundown at night the men drove the lumber down the swollen streams, and often drenched through at night by an accidental bath in the cold water, or by a beating rain, they laid down on the cold ground without covering of any kind and slept until morning. They always laid close together and built

The lumber camps of the present day are substantial and commodious, are fitted up with all the modern improvements. A good cooking range and a good cook are the first essentials. The sleeping accommodations around the sides of the camp are well supplied with straw beds, and plenty of woolen blankets. The "grub" is of the best quality and the most nutritious that the country affords. Beans and pork and hot buns form the morning meal, a dinner of cold meat and bread is carried to the men in the woods, while a hot supper of fresh beef, potatoes, and some kind of a pudding, or perhaps codfish or soup, awaits then on their return to the camp in the evening. The evening hours are spent in various ways, some of the men grinding axes, others mending socks, drove down to Grey Rapids Settlement mocassins or snowshoes, others reading a book or a late paper sent them by their friends at home, while another plays the fiddle or entertains the company with a Church, when he again held service at song. No card playing is ever seen in a well regulated lumber camp. A bundle of papers or books from the regions of civilization is looked upon as a great treat, and goes the rounds of all the men, R. R. being again delayed, he waited who read everything, even to the advertisements. The old method of driving is ed back to Derby, travelling the same improved on, the men being well fed and sleeping in tents each night. Taking everything into consideration the life of the lumbermen of the present day is a them. comfortable and healthy life."

A gentleman from Montreal is expected to take Mr. Blair's place in pedia fishing grounds. The Duke will the bank at Regina during his absence.

> St. Patrick's Day Entertainment. The feast of St. Patrick was appropriately celebrated by the members of the St Michael's C. T. A. Society. Their band, which has been organized but short time, made a very creditable appearance on St. Patrick's day and furnished good music. The leader, Mr. A McEachren, has every reason to be proud of his men's progress and efficiency. In the evening they held an entertainment in the Masonic Hall, which was a success in every particular. The hall was filled to its utmost capacity-a number of people not being able to gain admittance. "Pike O'Callaghan" was rendered in good shape. Mr. M. Sheridan (our popular comedian) as "Pike," was excellent, and Mr. R. Allen, as "Neil O'Connor," and J. Stapleton as "Sir James," were good. We might also mention Messrs. T. Steele and R. Walsh did their parts well, as did all the other parties taking part in the olay. Mr. M. Sheridan's singing was loudly applauded and encored and songs sung by the other members were well received. "The two selected spooners" were good. The Farce was also well received. We might also mention that was seventeen years ago, not so long but that we vividly remember and with thankfulness the help and practical sympathy given to us by the late Hon. Senator Muirhead and many others living and dead.

Of farm machinery [] 0 in this province were had in Northumber-

In 1881 we purchased the lease of our present location in Newcastle and built our warehouse there. It is not a pretensious building but its the first one of any kind that we ever built and we think a great deal of it.

Our Mr. Hildebrand came over in March 1881 to erect the warehouse and has been located in the county ever since as manager of this branch and we don't believe the people of the county regret it. During the past seventeen years no one who ever bought a farm implement of any kind from us has been unable to procure repairs for the same, if needed. This matter of protecting our customers from delay in getting repairs has been one to which we have always given very especial attention. All we ask of our customers is to give us notice in time if they have a very old fashioned machine that wants renewing. For every implement sold within ten years we keep repairs in stock All along the North Shore and up the Miramichi river and down the Bay of Chaleur we have hard working agents so located that every farmer is pretty sure to receive a visit from a representative of Johnston & Co. some time during the season or in town can eaisly find one if he wants to get any piece to We believe the reason why we sell so much year after year is hat we always try to buy only the very best of its kind and our name is indentified with reliable machinery. Then those who manufacture the very best want to sell to us because we work and advertise and seek business in every way possible that is right and honorable. So it works both ways; we seek the best and the best seek us, and you who read this if you will seek one of our branch establishments or any of our realiable agents be sure to get good value for you pay to
