Kaiser Frederick's Secretary.

Herr Gustav Freytag has just published an essay on Karl von Normann, former secretary and court marshal of Emperor Frederick from 1864 to 1884.

The author describes how intimate were the relations between von Normann and the crown prince's family, who regarded him as a member of it in the true sense of the word. In the first years of his office he performed all the duties of private secretary; he carried on all the correspondence of the crown prince and princess with the artists, authors, and the charitable institutions with which they were connected; but by degrees he became the most intimate counselor of court and went into the service of the state. After a short preparation he be-
