CAMPBELLTON, May 11.- A sad accio'clock at Morrisey Rock Tunnel, about 6 miles west of Campbellton. No. 44 train Drivers John Devereaux and McNutt was on time and was running at the usual rate of speed when on entering the tunnel she struck about ten tons of rock which had become dislodged from the top of the tunnel and had fallen on the track. There were two engines on the train which were deariled and both engines ran to the mouth of the shed, which is about fifty feet long, the head engine striking the rock, throwning in and tearing the right side of leading engine and placing them almost side ov side. Fireman Angus Gorham was instantly killed and driver Jacob McNutt seriously though not dangerously hurt. The men in the second engine came off without a scratch. Only two or three cars were derailed and about fifty feet of track torn up. As soon as possible special with auxiliary car with District J. A. Johnson repaired to the scene of the accident. An Awful Calamity

MONTREAL, May 6th, :-- One of the most appaling disasters of the century place ten miles below this city toand, now a long line of gaunt towers and smoking debris are all that remain of Longue Pointe Lunatic Asylum building. Taking it all in all nothing could exceed the horror attending this terrible calamity, considering the number of victims, the terrible nature of their death and the manner in which the helpless creatures met their fate. What to the spectators was a scene of horror was to the lunatics a moment of supreme glee, and in their delight they sported themselves in the flames and WAVED THEIR BLAZING LIMBS in turbulent satisfction at the ruin that was about them, and not till the walls tumbled over their heads were their maniacal screams silenced. There were incarcerated in Longue Point 1,300 lunatics, for that asylum was a prison more than a hospital, and now not more than 1.100 are accounted for, but many escaped into the fields and the woods, and the dead are ashes amongst the ashes. What the number of dead is is purely a matter of conjecture, and can never be ascertained, since no other record is kept than that in the asylum books, which are also destroyed- Taking into consideration the whole evidence from firemen, half-sane inmates, the Sisters in charge, bystanders and personal observation it is a conservative estimate to say that 100 victims met their death, though some assert that the number is double that stated and others place it below this figure. This fact remains, that no such calamity has fallen upon Quebec Province since the

that the asylum was on fire, and imploring assistance. This could not be given without consulting Mayor Grenier, who was found at the Banque du Peuple, and he at once ordered the engines to be dis. patched. One engine and two reels started on their ten mile run and were quickly on the spot, but they might as well have remained at home, for in five minutes they exhausted the water supply. The only thing that could save the building was the St. Lawrence River, and It was a half mile distant. Ten miles below Montreal a point of land juts into the river. Here is the Village of Longue Point, and here was the famous lunatic asylum, Fifteen minutes before noon the cry or fire was given. It originated in the cupboard, and was apparently the work of a patient. The building was conrunning back from the river half the distance. The main building occupied the centre, and on each side extended four wings six storeys in height. To the east were the men's wards and to the west the women's, making sixty in all. In the rear was the engine house, laundry and store rooms, all of which were saved. women's side, in an upper storey, and as the ventilation was carried on by a longfor a very brief space; and then the hor-

DOOMED THEMSELVES. When the firemen found they were powerless to save the building, they turned their attention to the inmates, and burst in the doors with axes. Iuside Chief Benoit says it was such a sight as no fireman ever witnessed. In one ward he entered were twenty-five patients, and at his approach they huddled together like a pack of beasts, entwining their arms into one mass of humanity. "But," said the Chief, "I could no more separate the crowd than I could the parts of your house." He tugged at them till the fire darted into their garments and enfolded them like a shroud of flame, and then he escaped with his life. In another ward three firemen were nearly trapped to death-Messrs. Doolan, Lambert and Cyr. They entered, and the door closed behind them by a spring lock. As is customary there was no handle on the inside, the Be it enacted by the Lieutenant-Gover- doors resisted their axes, and they rushed to the windows, but were driven back by the flames. The Chief, suspecting their peril, sent to the other side, and the men attempt to catch with dogs, or shoot or were carried down on ladders- The engineer of the building, O'Rourke, did good work in saving nine patients, and every fireman made a record of which he may feel proud. On the first alarm the engineer turned on the hose, but it was utterly useless, as the fire leaped along the ventilating shaft to the towers and burned in a dozen places at once.

BRAVE SISTERS BURNED. And here a melancholy event occurred. One of the Tertiary Nuns, Sister Marie, lay sick in the infirmary on the fifth floor, two physicians, making a grand total 242. The Sisters worked with the persistency of heroines, by turns imploring beseeching and commanding the patients, and finally saving an enormous number in view of the inadequate facilities at hand. Sister Therese, the Super-51st Victoria, chapter 12, is hereby reioress, is broken hearted, and being at present in ill-health her name may be added to the already long list. Doctors Bourque and Baralet were carried from the building unconscious, and whatever can be said of the management as a whole, the individuals exercised every power to lessen the calamity they neglected to avert. THE COLLAPSE.

A loud explosion was followed by a crash of beams. The interior was giving way. Wild faces sank from the windows, and the shrieks of the maniac were lost in the general uproar. One by one the walls toppled inward, and a fierce blaze burst up from the newly added fuel that rose to the dark sky and shot its glare over the St. Lawrence to the southern shore, and even tinged the crest of Mount Royal, ten miles distant. Then it died down into blackness and nothing but a few brok en towers remained, bounding a seething mass of metal and debris, under which are now, not the bodies, but the ashes of 100 victims. By this time it was six o'clock and growing dark and very cold. The spring rains had converted the place into a quagmire and only horsemen could get from place to place. The poor Sisters, nost of them young and delicate, stood ankle deep in mind, securing and superintending the removal of such furniture as had been saved. The patients wandered about aimlessly, clad in scant garments, many of them veritable Ophelias in their fantastic dress. When released many of them leapt for joy, and bounded like deers across the fields to the woods. Patients of both sexes escaped, and, though a cordon of police was thrown round, not all were included, and a horribly suggestive tale was borne in by a habitant who was coming through the woods to the schene of the disaster. A new dread has come upon the inhabitants from the presence of so many escaped lunatics, and they will count themselves fortunate if they are not visited by a series of such crimes as only madmen can devise. All the time every high house top in Montreal had its curious sightseers, for the news seemed to spread in some mysterious way and this disaster has been foretold for many years. The long road was thronged by carriages, The Mayor and Aldermen drove out in At five minutes to twelve a telegraph pairs, ladies were there in their dog-carts message was received in Montreal saving and a few rode on horseback. It was a strange procession they met. The transport service of Montreal was pressed into the service, and cabs, busses and hacks were returning, filled with vacant-eyed | Fourth Capital prize of $25,000. It was women, wearing blankets over their shoulders, and in front a pair of weeping nuns clad in their black robes- Many were taken to the neighboring convents of St. Isidore, St. Joseph de Benoit, St. Laurent and Point aux Trembles. Hon. Premier Mercier has placed the Dauphin, New Orleans La-Montreal Exhibition Buildings at the disposal of the nuns and to morrow they will be stocked with provisions. Universal sympathy is felt for Sister Therese, the energetic Lady Superior of the Lounge Point Asylum. This Lady's family name is Teto, and she belongs to the Quebec district. She was seriously ill during the winter with inflammation of the lungs, and it was feared for some time that she was dying. During the last month she has been slowly recovering, but is still in a very weak state of health. Sister Therese's two principal assistants in the management of the Asylum were Sisters Charles and Madelaine, the former a sister of Dr. Goulet, of Joliette. the latter a sister of Dr. Desjardine, of St. Sauvier. With the exception of the medical department, consisting of the doctors, the Sisiers retained complete control of all the departments of the Asylum even the dispensng of the necessary medicines being done by trained Sisters. The staff was composed as follows: -Sisters 72, lay sisters 92, total 164, of whom three were in the office, two in the parlor and others in the wards, kitcren and working departments watching over the patients; lay keepers female) 14; keepers, 28; night guardians male), 4; night guardians (female), 2. Barrel Churns. the United States and six years in Canada, and has steadily grown in favor wherever its merits have become known. It has given more solid and unit receives from the revolution of the barrel, instead of whipping a part of it at a time with a dash or paddle, as in the old style of churns. It is washed from side to end and from end to side, and is thoroughly changed and mixed through at every

Those who have used the Revolving Barrel Churn say their buttermilk looks poorer and thinner than when they used the old dash or paddle churns, corroborating our statement that with this principle of churning there is an increase of the quality, as well as the quantity, of the butter. As every particle of cream is subjected to the same agitation, the globules are all freed at the same time, converted into butter, and saved by a much larger percentage than by the old method. The grain of the butter is better preserved, as there are no dashers or paddles to pound and destroy the globules, thereby making the butter soft and sticky, like lard, such as is often seen in butter

Butter made with the Revolving Barrel Churn is not streaked or salvey, because the cream is all churned alike, the buttermilk thoroughly washed away while the butter is in a granular form, and is all of a uniform color and quality. Having bought a car-load of these churns at low figures we offer them much below the manufacturer's list price as follows No. 1-Nine Gallon Churn, churns from 1 to 4 gallons

No. 2-Fifteen Gallon Churn, churns from 2 to 7 gallons No. 3-Twenty Gallon Churn, churns from 3 to 9 gallons No. 4—Twenty-five Gallon Churn, churns from 7 to 12
