S.) (Freeman.) They were now the supporters of a tariff that at once raised the price of the food of the poor and protected the traffic in strong drink. Their old followers in the prohibition cause would know now how to value their pretensions.

Mr. Foster replied that while he be lieved the question of temperance was closely allied to the consumption of alcoholic spirits, he did not think that it had much to do with the manufacture of spirits. Sir Richard Cartwright pointed out that this increased tax would greatly increase the value of liquor manufac turing plant in the Dominion.
