

and young men set an example to other congregations which they should follow, and he only regretted that his own congregation did not present the same satisfactory spiritual aspect. This was slightly different from the statements that had been made today. He had invited and pressed the elders to assist in the prayer meeting or a Christian endeavor meeting. Mr. Baird, after deal. ing with other points in dispute, answering readily, promptly and clearly all questions put to him, sat down by giving it as his opinion that if he had been left alone with his congregation, all would have been well.

After a short conversational discussion Rev. E. Grant moved, seconded by Rev. Mr. Morrison, that the matter be referred to a select committee to report at the afternoon sedurent.

Rev. McGregor McKay and Rev. Dr. McKnight thought that the matter might be disposed of at once. The latter thought the synod had information enough in respect to the matter in dispute to act with discretion. He moved to the effect that the synod having heard the explanations of Mr. Baird, the Presbytery be instructed to give Mr. Baird his certificate. He did not agree altogether with Mr. Baird. He held that it was perfectly competent for the Presbytery to accept the resignation of his pastorate and put off the granting of the certificate to a more convenient season. He did not think that Mr. Baird had done right in bringing the matter before the Synod. He should have gone before the Presbytery and answered the questions as he had done here. Rev, McGregor McKay did not agree with

Mr. Baird's methods of preaching as stated. but he had seen a reviving evangelist fire a pistol and throw himself down on a platform | The publication is a neat pamphlet, from the as a means of rousing spiritual interest. It press of Messrs. J. & A. McMillan, and, wasn't his method, but it was the spirit of the age.

Rev. Thomas Sedgwick spoke from the standpoint of an ecclesiastical lawyer, nicely balancing the arguments on either side and criticising the procedure. He concluded by moving the following amendment to Dr. McKnight's motion :

That without sustaining or rejecting the Hon. J. D. Lewin and Messrs C. W Weldon. complaint, and without casting any reflections on the motives of the Presbytery, direct them to grant Mr. Baird a Presbyterial certificate.

This amendment was seconded by Rev. J. B. Logan, who spoke at considerable of 13th. length reviewing the case.

but much of it was doubtless owing to his ardour, promptitude and method. He was full of vital power -- a man of marked ability. Of Mr. Hutchison, I believe it might be said that he feared the Lord from his youth. His piety, however, was not demonstrative. It was simple and natural, and embodied itself in the uprightness and straightforward. ness of Christian consistency. Doubtless he had his failings. Placed in a prominent position and with difficult and onerous duties to perform, it could not be otherwise. The matter of wonder is, not that he should have had failings, but that those failings should have been so trivial. It would be well if those, who spare no condemnatory language when they speak of him who is gone, wou'd but think that if they had stood in his place, their failings would have been more glaring and more disastrous. But we need not enlarge on defects which exist no longer. We rather dwell on excellencies which he so strikingly exhibited. We rather think of that love to ordinances which found God's house so amiable. Few were more regular in attendance on its services than he. He was kind and genial in his own house.
