eral days ago, of which even connecting lines were not notified. It is only one of five minutes in the time of the evening express going north, but as it involves departure five minutes earlier than is set down in the official table it makes a good deal of difference, occasionally, to travellers who are not informed of it. Passengers for the north from Chatham will, therefore, remember that the train to connect with the I. C. R. night express leaves Chatham station at 9.20 in stead of 9.25 as formerly.

THE "ADVANCE" IS ALL RIGHT: - The rewision of our mailing list this we-k is some what re-assuring, in view of the reports which some of our friends have brought us as being carrent respecting a falling-off of ·oid subscribers on account of the recent elections. One subscriber called at the office during the campaign, and after reminding the publisher that he had paid for the pape until next November ordered it to be di continued. His name, and those of three others -one who had died and two whose subscriptions were not renewed-have been removed from the list, while, on the other hand, thirty-seven new names have been added. This is about our usual experience each month. We were sorry to lose the rather petulant subscriber, who brought a witnes to help him spread the terrible intelligence that he had "stopped the ADVANCE," es pecially as he had taken the paper for a long time, and he must have been very much i earnest, when he forfeited eight month prepaid subscription.

-----R. WILL C KAINE, whose portrait voreset in this issue, is a native of Danby Rutlans' Co., Vt. Only twenty three year of age, he is a good illustration of the well known fact that true musical instinct an ability are measureable by their inherent strength in a large measure independently either experience or longevity ;- this course is to speak of the matural musicianhowever the years of Mr. Kaine have been full of musical activity, and his biograph discloses the fact bat at the early age of t I he played the piccolo in the princ pal band of his native town. ## Marriage at Douglastown.

A Douglastown correspondent writes :-At the residence of Mr. Wm. Russel, Jr., Douglastown, on the eve of the 16th inst, a number of friends gathered to witness the marriage of his daughter, Miss Mary Jane, to Mr. Andrew A. Lamont, of Somerville, Mass. The bride was dressed in cream cashmere, richly embroidered with silk.

diamond ornaments, the present of the groom. She was attended by Miss Mary J. Dickson and little Ethel Henderson, neice of the groom, the former dressed in white and pink, moonstone ornaments, the latter in white and blue. The groom was supported by Mr. Andrew Burr. All looked very happy, the bride and groom particularly so. The presents were numerous and costly. After partaking of refreshments, various amusements were engaged in, the older ladies entering in with the spirit of the younger, the latter remaining until the "wee sma' hours." The happy pair left for their future home in Somerville, followed by the best wishes of all and amid showers of

At Usual Business.

If the Advocate has any friends capable of directing it out of and above its predominating inclination to slander those whom it envies, they should endeavor to do so. The ADVANCE's aim is to keep its pages clean and as free as possible from personal matters, and it has never yet made adverse reference to any local publisher save when attacked-and seldom then, Per coutra, there are few numbers of the other socal papers which do not contain either open or covert : attacks on the publisher of the ADVANCE. Our reason for allowing these to pass in silence is because it is apparent that such papers seek their principal support from the class who are attracted by brawls, offensive visionalities and scandals, and we have no deg te to assist them in catering to such ele-More than that -we hold that even ments. topseure country paper is a potent the mos force, and if it degrade its columns educative them the schigle of false stateby making tesse which would be condemn. ments, or lan. ed if spoken i stween individuate with any pretentions to e descation or culture, it be trays a very ina dequate conception of its duty and responsibi. ity: Papers which thus forget their duty refle t discredit, also, upon the communities in which they are published, for it is fair to assume that they are in line with the tastes of those who sustain them.

In conversation with a Star reporter, he said that he attributed his defeat to several reasons. In the first place he had been sick for ten days before the nominations, and had no chance of either canvassing or addressing the electors. Then two hundred and fifty employees of the Intercolonial were brought, at the Government's expense, from New Glasgow, Moncton and elsewhere to vote against him. In fact he did not believe he received two of these two hundred and fifty votes. Again every public official in the county seemed to have been turned against him. In fact about two hundred of them altogether, including tide waiters, customs, and inland revenue officers, and postmasters carried on an active canvass against him.
