"As if any young girl in the world could be to me what my own darling little mother is!" replied Emery, smiling acress the table to

"Then I shall be so delighted to go," said Mrs. Emery. And her voice and eyes bore happy witness to the truth of her

But now a regular party had been organized, and Kate Marcy had promised to join in, things looked very different to the young man. For a moment he almost regretted that he had engaged himself to take his mother.

"She would be as well pleased with any concert," he said to himself, "and I should have the opportunity of sitting all the evening next to Kate Marcy. "I'll ask her to let me off this time. She won't

When he went into the little sitting-room of their humble domain and saw his mother, with her silver-grey hair rolled, into puffs on either side of her almost unwrinkled brow, her best black silk donned, and the one opal brooch which she owned pinned into the white lace folds at her bosom, his heart misgave him.

"I have been trimming my bonnet over with some violet-velvet flowers, said she, smiling, "so as to do you no discredit, Charley; and I have a new pair of violet kid gloves. And now you must drink your tea. I've made some of your tion. favorite cream biscuit, and the kettle is nearly at the boil. Oh, Charley, you'll laugh at me, I'm afraid, but I feel exactly like a little girl going to her first children's party. It's so seldom, you while for coughs and colds it gives complete satisfaction, acting promptly even in in my way!"

And then Charles Emery made Six persons were killed by an avalanche up his mind that his mother was in a gorge in the Vale del Blois, Venetia, on more to him, in her helpless old Thursday last. age and sweet, affectionate dependence, than any blooming damsel whose eyes shone like stars and whose cheeks rivaled the September peach.

"Going with some one else!" said Kate Marcy, rather surprised and not exactly pleased. She was a tall, beautiful maiden, the belle of Crystalton, and rather an heiress in her own right, with all the rest. She certainly liked Charles Emery and the country of Northumberiand and Province of New Brunswick, being part of the lot formerly owned by the Chatham Joint Stock Company and known and distinguished in Plan B. of said Joint Stock Company's landsas a part of Lot number sixty three, on the west side of Queen Street, commencing at the north easterly angle of the piece of land former ely owned and occupied by James Leggatt theree Charles Emery, and she rather surmised that he liked her also. And when she had been studying up her toilet for the opera, she had selected a blue corn flower for her conveyed to Allan A Davidson by C. C. Watt by hair and ornaments of turquoise, because she had once heard Mr. Sy virtue of an execution issued out of the Supreme Emery say that blue was his said John O'Keeffe, Junior favorite color.

"Going with some one else?' she repeated. "Well, of course he has a right to suit himself."

And she kept within her own soul the fevered fire of girlish rejealousy that disturbed her all the while that she was sitting waiting for the great green curtain to be drawn up.

Until, of a sudden, there was a BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS, slight bustle on the row of seats beyond, and Mr. Emery entered with his mother.

And then Kate's overgloomed gas lights had all of a sudden been of the opera house had grown raditurned up; as if all the mimic world

"It was Kate Marcy, mother." "She has a face like an angel," said Mrs. Emery, softly.

The next day the foreman of the rolling mills went boldly to the old Marcy homestead, whose red-brick gables, sheeted over with ivy, rose up out of the leafless elms and other lady,' Emery replied, after a beeches, just beyond the noise and stir of busy Crystalton.

The first is because many patrons who have been given credit, have abused the privilege to such an extent as to make the business of publishing the paper a non-paying one, and it is necessary, in my own interest and that of those who do pay, that I should no longer continue to furnish the AD/ANCE to those non-paying subscribers.

Having published the ADVANCE for sixteen years, and endeavored to make it a creditable representative of Miramichi and North Shore enterprise - a paper which may be taken into any household without fear that it has catered to sensationalism at the sacrifice of that cleanliness of matter, which is too often neglected by the press of the day-I have reason to hope the foregoing announcement will meet with general approval and be the means of largely increasing the circulation and influence of the paper.
