Mr. Baird had put himself in a position and was entitled to strike off votes from Mr. King, but Mr. King had neglected to serve his particulars, and clearly was not entitled to strike off votes from Mr. Baird. The clear duty of the court, was, therefore, to decide that Mr. Baird should have the seat. An Extension of Smelt-Fishing Season

The smelt tishermen of Kent and Northumberland are petitioning for an extension of the smelt-fishing season. As the Miramichi fishermen are in about the same position as those of Kent, and as Kent cannot be refused, it seems probable that the extension will be granted. The grounds on which the extension is asked questions to the court en banc at Frederic- by the Miramichi petitioners are undeniably strong. They are about as foladmitted the respondent had 1 233 and the lows:-That the portion of the river where fishing is allowed by the departmental regulations did not close by ice until the usual time for the greatest catch of the year had passed; that the season, after the ice had become sufficiently strong to admit of nets being placed has been so short as to admit of only about fifty per cent of the usual catch being made; that unless an extension is given so as to afford pointed for the trial, a list of the votes | an opportunity for a greater catch, a loss will be made on account of the returns being insufficient, in many cases, to cover the cost of nets and other ou fit; that the fishery is the main dependence of a large number of poor people, who have no other means of providing for themselves and their families during the winter, so that if an extension is not given much privation were to be answered-First, whether will result. Dancing.

(Halifax Critic.) The citizens of a town nos a hundred miles from Halifax must have been highly edified by the opinions of a reverend lecturer on the subject of lancing, who "gave his sorrow words" a short time ago. He is reported to have denounced all forms of dancing with one no able exception-that form practiced as a religious ceremony in Bible times! If dancing before the Lord was expedient then, why not now, pray, and why do not the ministers of the present day encourage it? The frequenters of the ball-room came in who drew the most unflattering comparisons between balt-room young ladies and artificial flies and such things, saying they were good enough for the foolish fish that bit. The town in which this remarkable, wise lecture was delivered has the reputation of being a gay and festive place, a good deal given to having a pleasant time, and to think of the crushed feelings of so many young people is sad.
