RUNAWAY ACCIDENT of a rather serious nature occurred on Union street, St. John, on Sunday afternoon. A horse, driven by some ladies, in a sleigh, was going quietly along when a detachment of the Salvation Army made its appearance. Frightened by the band the horse bolted. The occupants of the sleigh were thrown out, and the horse, going at a furious rate, ran over one of the women in the Salvation is' rank, Her name is Mary Me G. and she belonged to Moncton. Mr. James Dale, on behalf of the company, read an address ex pressing their h gh esteem and appreciation of Mr. Johnstone's valuable efforts in their behalf and of his general kindness to all. The reverend pastor replied very feelingly, as it was the first party of the kind during his thirty-five years amongst them. The tables were soon filled with good things, with gifts from each one, consisting of a nice large box of selected fruit, money, etc. Tea was served by the ladies. She was married about fourteen years ago and is the second wife of Mr. H. T. Stevens, editor and proprietor of the Moucton Times and a former M. P. P. for Westmorland county. She has a brother residing in London, England, and other relatives in this province. Mrs. Stevens is a woman of fine physique and in her day was a great belle in this city. Masonic Hall, Chatham, presented brilliant and animated scene on Monda ight, the occasion being the dancing part given under the auspices of the recently organized Cypress Club, which is composed of about thirty of the younger of the you men of Chatham, and an honorary member ship of older men.

The hall and stage were very tasteful decorated and, in this respect, exceede anything previously done for the manpalls and parties that have been given there at different times. An efficient committee of members of the Club had charge of the preparations, and the party was under the patronage of ten ladies-their relatives and triends. The committee consisted of Geo. McDonald, Chairman, J. C. McCulley, S cy., J. J. Benson, A. J. Pine, W. A. Loudoun, C. Dickeson, Le B. M. Drury, G. Christie, C. E. McLaggan, J. J. Anderson, F. S. Blair. McEachran's orchestra of six players furnished music that was very much ppreciated by the dancers, who numbered over two hundred, besides about fifty other guests who were quite contented to enjoy the occasion less actively. A "running supper" was furnished by Mrs. Leonard, in the up stairs hall, from eleven o'clock onwards-the plan being very satisfactory indeed. There was an unusually large number of debutantes-beautiful girls who enjoyed their first public ball-which was to be expected at such a gathering, under the anspices of a club whose members are noted for their gallantry, as well as the respect and confidence which they enjoy in the community. It may be said that the youth, beauty and respectability of Chatnam, Newcastle, Douglastown, Nelson and other centres on the Miramichi were well represented on the occasion. It would be a hazardous, if not dangerous thing-considerpresen -to say positively who the "belle" was, but our reporter's view is that if ballot had been taken a handsome west end brunette would have been selected for the honor, although there were many others who attracted the attention of those who were endeavoring to decide this delicate question. It was particularly observed that the costumes of the ladies were above the average of such occasions in the matter of both material and the good taste displayed in their make up. In these and all the other essentials of a thoroughly enjoyable public dancing party, the Cypress Club's undertaking of Monday night was a success,

SHOCKING DISASTER.

Details which are printed in the Boston papers of the burning of the insane asylum at Dover, N. H., last Thursday night, are of the most harrowing kind. When the doors were burst open the imbeciles would not come out, and some of them actually threw each other in the flames, while others shouted, swore, prayed or jabbered according to their insane fancies. Heroic efforts to save life were not wanting on the part of the country people who gathered about, but this availed little. Effective machinery with which to grapple with the fire was wanting; and in parliament to enable them to construct rail- | the heavy state of the roads it took the engines an hour and a half to cover the four miles between the building and the town, and this in a driving snow storm and the condition of the roadway was good time. But, of course, the whole building was then a mass of flame. The Strattord County Almshouse, in which there were about ninety persons was quite near the burned asylum, and for a time it looked as if it would go too. Fair precautions were, how ever, taken to protect the inmates. About twelve years ago the almshouse was burned and with it thirteen inmates. The insane asylum which was burned the other night was then saved with great difficulty. The calamity which occured then and is now repeated, seems to justify the criticism that apply to the provincial legislature for an act institutions like this ought not to be placed requiring the examination of all who take in isolated spots remote from a town fire charge of steam boilers.
