THE GRAND DIVISION of the Sons Temperance of New Brunswick will meet in the Temperance Hall, Newcastle, on Wednesday evening, October 25th. A large attendance is expected. A public temperance meeting will be held in the Masonic Hall, Newcastle, on Thursday evening, 26th, at which leading visiting members are ex pected to deliver addresses.

DR. ARTHUR F. ABBOTT, 50 Main St., Waterville, Me., U. S. A., says:-"I have received great benefit on several occasions from the use of Hawker's Nerve and Stomach Tonic, and can heartily recommend its Invigorating Tonic.

THE CYPRESS CLUB enjoyed a very pleasant time on Tuesday evening, their room being visited by a number of lady friends who tested their new piano, procured from Messrs. Miller of Moncton and were recipients of hospitalities, which cannot but make them anxious for another such oc casion to drop in upon their young friends, whose gallantry is equal to their other manly qualities.

OBITUARY:-The many friends of Miss Eliza Hickey who, up to three years ago, was one of the most efficient teachers i Northumberland, will regret to hear of her death, which is announced in another column. At the time mentioned she was attacked by grippe, from which she never physically unable to perform them. The funeral is to take place at 3 p. m. to-day from the residence of her brother-in-law, Mr. Jas. Hickey, Chatham.

NEWCASTLE'S NEW ACADEMY:-Mr. Mc Donald and his men are making good progress with the erection of the stone building for the new Harkins' Academy here, and with tine weather the work would proceed more rapidly than of late. It will make a handsome appearance when finished, there being no better freestone for such purposes than that from French Fort Cove Quarry. By the time winter sets in the walls of the building will show up considerably. The building is to be completed and ready fo occupation by the first of September next:-[Advocate.

DEATH OF A SEA-CAPTAIN: - Capt. Crillich, of the Austrian barque Sofia B, owned in Cardiff by Brailli, which arrived here on Tuesday, 3rd was in Mr. George Watt's ship chandlery store on Wednesday afternoon, when he was observed by Mr. Watt to be very weak and was prevented from falling to the floor by that gentleman. Dr. J. S. Benson was summoned, and sent Crillich to the Hotel Dieu hospital. He was quite conscious until five o'clock Thursday morning, when one side became paralyzed, and he died on Friday morning at 3 o'clock. He Laves a wife and four children who live at Orebic. Austria. The funeral was quite largely attended by representative citizens and mariners from the ships inport.

NEW MILL. The Advocate says that the firm of Messrs. Clark, Skillings & Co., Lt'd, of Glasgow and Boston, dealers in wood supplies, have decided to erect a mill at Newcastle for the sawing of spool wood. They have purchased a piece of land near the deep water terminus and intend erecting a large mill to be roofed with iron, thoroughly equipped by the best machinery and driven by an engine of one hundred horse power. The mill at Ox Brook will be torn down and the sawing of spool wood after next winter will be done in Newcastle. This will be good news to many, as the mill is expected to run winter and summer. Mr. Charles D. Manny is the representative of the firm here.

THIEVES ABROAD: -Mr. Roger Flanagan's St. John Street store was burglarised last Thursday night, an entrance being effected by means of a small window in the north wall of the office, which was hinged to swing inwards and secured by a button on the inside. The thief broke a pane of glass from the sash which enabled him to reach and turn the batton, after which he had no difficulty in entering. A quantity of ready made clothing, cloth and other articles were taken, together with between two and three dollars in cash from one drawer, although two others were undisturbed. An exit was made through one of the side doors in the warehouse at the rear of and connected with the store. Paper wrappings which were on a part of the stolen goods were found in a certain quarter of the town infested by toughs and it is hoped that the guilty parties may yet be run down.

NORTHUMBERLAND DIVISION No. 37 Sons of Temperance was recently reorganized by Rev. J. D. Murray, G. W. A. The following officers were installed into office by acting D.G. W.P. W. J. Miller, assisted by acting D.G.C. John Menzies on Friday evening last:-

The Rustler Accident.

The preliminary examination of Capt. John Russell before police magistrate John Niven, Esq., was concluded on Saturday last, the evidence being substantially the same as was taken at the inquest. Hon. L. J. Tweedie, Q C., counsel for Capt.

Russell, first addressed the court, followed by S. Thomson, Esq., Q. C. Mr. Nevin said he considered there was sufficient evidence given to put Capt. Russell on trial, and he gathered from the evidence, particularly from the latter part of that of J. R. Lawlor's, that the captain was guilty of negligence, although it was an accident. Captain John Russell was then committed for trial before the County Court which opens here on Tuesday next, October in regard to the decision of the police magistrate, and was released on his own bonds to the amount of $400 to appear at the next sitting of the County Court. - [Advocate.

Toughs on the Rampage.

A telling example will soon have to l made of some of the young toughs belonging to Chatham, whose lawlessness has be come so bold and dangerous as to require drastic treatment. They are emboldened to take charge, almost, of certain corners of the public streets with their heads full of gir and their mouths of tobacco and profanity. often forcing cleanly citizens, and especially ladies to either jostle against them or go off purchasers being Messrs. F. E. Neale, Allan the sidewalks, in order to enjoy the right of way which the law gives them. And, yet, such a thing as a complaint against or arrest of one of these loafers for loitering upon or obstructing the sidewalks is un known in Chatham, Our people have grown quite used to the absence of protection in this respect.

They are not, however, yet accustomed to put up with such exhibitions of blackguardism as that displayed in the suburbs o Chatham on Tuesday afternoon, when three voung toughs-Michl. Jardine, Danl. Murphy and Michael Conway started out to enjoy themselves. Between three and four o'clock as Mr. Joseph Travers, of Douglasfield, accompanied by his wife, who is in writes: poor health, and his young son, was driving home from Chatham, he saw three youngsters on the road ahead of him near the Noonan homestead. He observed them picking up stones, but thought little of it until two of them, Jardine and Murphy, began to throw them at his horse and buggy. One large stone was hurled with such force that Capt. Russell said he had nothing to say it smashed the glass in the buggy-top passed the heads of the occupants of the vehicle and fell upon the horse.

Mr. Travers jumped out and grabbed the two young scoundrels who had thrown the stones and says he vainly called upon John Irving of Chatham, who, with another man was standing near, to assist him. The last of the Miramichi Yacht Club's races for the season of 1893 was sailed on Monday in a fluctuating S. W. wind. The course was from a line off the Muirhead wharf, Chatham, with a free sheet, to a turning-point off the Snowball mill wharf, thence to windward to a turning point nearly off the Sargeant mill above Newcastle, thence down-river to the first turning point and to a finish at the starting line-about twelve miles. Oriana's owners and crew were effusively congratulated on their reaching the rendezvous at the Muirhead wharf, for they won the race fairly and no one grudged them the good luck which came to them between Caradian Marsh and Douglastown. Oriana has unquestionably improved in her sailing, and it is due to improvements made in her mast, sails and trim and the industry of her crew in cleaning and fitting her for the several races-commendable attentions, which contrasted very favorably with the carelessness and comparative neglect of the other yachts. men towards their craft.

The Lat: Storm at Richibucto.

RICHIBUCTO, Oct. 4. - An eye-witness gives the following account of the late storm as seen from the South Beach. A terrific northeast wind had raged all day Saturday and by night the seas were running mountains high. About dark the barque McLeod began to drag and was soon carried into the breakers on the reef, where she stranded and where she has since been pounding, with the seas washing her fore and aft and the men suffering terribly from the cold. On Sunday morning about 8 o'clock the barque Valona started her anchors and came over the reel on the beach like a race horse and is now embedded in the sand on the shore. The wildest sight was when the barque Konoma broke her cables and was driven into the breakers on the reef about 10 o'clock Sunday morning, breaking her foretopmast and particulars relating to the Harris hop farm tearing away her royals, the seas amashing near Bathurst Village: - "About 12 years ago all her boats except the smallest one. ## The Edgar Murder.

As the time for the hearing of the trial of Bela Noyes for the murder of John Edgar of St. Marys, N. B., has arrived, there is considerable talk as to the outcome of the case. It will come up at the present term of the Machias court. The following respecting it comes from Bangor Robert Leger of Chatham, N. B., who is a witness for the government in the case of State ve. Bela Noyes, was in Bangor Tuesday on his way to Machias, where the trial will occur at the present term of court. Noves is accused of the murder of John Edgar in the stable of a hotel keeper and liquor dealer named Foss, at Danforth, last spring, an account of which bloody affair appeared in the press at the time. It is charged that Noyes beat Edgar to death with a whiffl-tree during a fight in the stable of the hotel. Edgar belonged to St. Marys, N. B, and had the reputation of being extremely ugly and quarrelsome, especially when drunk. The defence claimed at the preliminary hearing that Edgar himself, but used no such weapons as the prosecution claimed. Mr. Leger who was in Bangor Tuesday was in a wing of the stable when the fight took place, but did not see it very clearly, his view being somewhat obstructed. He does not think that any such weapon as a whiffletree was used by Noyes, and suggests the horses in the stable. He says that Edgar appeared to be alive when picked up and brought into the hotel, and thinks that an immediate application of suitable restoratives might have revived him. Edgar lav on the floor of the stable, apparently smothering, for some minutes before being picked up.

Hugh Edgar brother of the murdered man will go to look after his brothers' interests. He has secured an important witness from Aroostocd who says that while stand. ing in one of the stalls of the stable where the murder was committed taking a drink out of a bottle, he saw Noves strike Edgar with the whiffletree, once with both hands and once with one hand .- [F'ton Herald.]

A Question of "Ballast"

The following from Forest and Stream, the highest yachting authority in America, shows that Oriana is entitled to the race

Please reply to the following question: A vacht which has been meas red claims a race on time allowance against a larger yacht which has not been measured. The measurer postpones the measurement, and the regatta committee lawfully give her race on the basis of such measurement?

FOREST AND STREAM'S DECISION. A measurement must be taken with the exact weight on board, and as nearly as possible in the same trim as in the race. A yacht deliberately reducing her ballast after she will, at least, have that one to her

The foregoing is from the World of last Saturday, and is misleading. The sport of yachting is spoiled when those who participate in it seek for unearned credit for their performances or to improperly secure the little prizes that may be offered. A true statement of the case to Forest and Stream would have been that, practically, neither of the yachts had been measurfor the particular race referred The Oriana had measured, but after that her ballast and trim were changed. It is not claimed or believed that the owner of either yacht changed his ballasting with any improper intention, but it ought to be known that the "measured" yacht-Oriana-was, reason of the changing of trim atter was measured, several inches longer on the water-line than 23.10 ft., at which officially stands on the club's books. When these changes were made for the season her owners should have reported that they had made an addition to her racing length, and had her re-measured, for she has sailed several of the late races out of her class and that to the knowledge of the gentleman who wrote to Forest and Stream on the subject. . The ballast put into Learig on 16th ult.,

weighed 567 lbs. and it would not add more than one and a half inches to her racing length, so that if Oriana had not-as more than that by her changes of trim it is composed of substances solely vegetable after measurement, she would still be considerably short of winning on time allowprompt, certain, and pleasant pain remedy ance. Learig would have to add more than in the world. Try Nerviline for toothache, twelve inches to her racing length before neuralgia, cramps, &c., always safe and Oriana could have won on 16th ult. by time allowance. The implied charge of the managing owner of Oriana that Learing deliberately reduced her ballast after the race to lessen her measurements in an unworthy one. The ballast referred to con-Miss Maude Frazee to Mr. W. G.
