Death of Rev Father Bannon.

Died after a protracted illness of nearly year at the Hotel Dieu, Chatham. N.B. surrounded by loving and mourning friends, the Rev. Thomas J. Bannon: Rector of the R C. Pro Cathedral, and Chance llor of the Diosese of Chatham, in the forty-ninth year of his age, and the twenty fourth year of his priesthood.

Father Bannon's loss will be keenly felt not only by the members of his ow family, to whom he was endeared, but by all with whom the duties of his brought him into intimate relations, his bishop, his fellow priests, the religious sisters of the Hotel Dieu, but especially by the Catholic people of Chatham, young and old, over whom he has presided as parish priest for the last twenty years.

Modest, unassuming, unobtrusive, his genial and amiable disposition won him the esteem of all his fellow citizens. Faithful and pious, he labored with earnest but prudent zeal in the cause of his Divine Master so that his pastoral work was most successful, his word being a law to every member of his loving flock The eldest of four children-two sons fostered by worthy parents, bore fruit in him, as in the younger members of their family. Both sons felt called to serve God in the priesthood: the oldest daugh er became a Religious of the Congregation of Notre Dame, and died some years ago in the odour of sanctity; the youngest is the wife of Doctor John McDonald, of Chatham, who so kindly attended his Rev. brother-in-law during the course of his illness, and so effectually soothed the inevitable pain and suffering thereof Indeed, the death scene of the good Father B nnon afforded a lesson of edification and filial piety rarely surpassed. "As a man lives so shall he die"; this adage was illustrated in the long illness, duly borne with patience and in the spirit of union with the sufferings of our crucified leemer, and frequent reception of the sacraments. When the end came, half an hour after receiving from Father Joyner the Holy Viaticum, the Bishop assisted by Father Knight and by Father Edward Bannon, was reciting the Litany, and prayers in the Ritual for a soul departing, of the dying priest, and his sister, Mrs McDonald with her husband, the worthy doctor, and other family friends, cousins, etc., and nearly all the Sisters of the Hotel Dieu to whom Father Bannon had been the director, and kind, wise, spiritual father, were answering the responses as well as their irrepressible sobbing would allow. Finally the end came, "Depart Christian Soul", when the pent up feelings of natural sorrow and christian fraternal affection claimed their rights. 'Eternal rest grant him, O Lord, and let perpetual light shine on him !" The body of the deceased was removed from the room in the Hotel Dien where he died to the large parlor of the Episcopal Residence yesterday afternoon, and will there remain until to mrrow. Friday morning, when it will be solemnly brought into the church by the clergy at 10 o clock and the solemn requiem mass will be chanted by the Bishop after which the cortege will form (about 11 o'clock) and proceed to the cemetery for the interment in the family plot where his father and sister alrea y repose.

A Singular Suit. The Fredericton Gleaner says that interesting and rather unique suit in equity is promised in the near future. About the vear 1880 Mr. Geo Wilson, brother of Mr. Wm Wilson, ex-M. P. He continued the injunction with respect to the real estate, which he would order to be sold before the hearing of matter if parties agreed, or on application made to him upon sufficient grounds. The terms under which the injunction is continued are that plaintiff undertakes to abide the order of court as damages sustained by defendants by reason of such injunction.

It is probable that Judge Palmer will ho sitting of the Equity Court in Chatham or Newcastle, should the law proceedings in this case continue.

On the War Path.

Mr. Stewart of the World appears to again in full war paint, flourishing his gory the course of his ravings he also says Mr. omahawk and making the Miramichi ring with his choicest and most vituperative vells over an error in dates made by Mr. Smith of the ADVANCE in reference to the time of Mr. Stewart's engagement as night editor of the St. John Telegraph, more than and two daughters-the sentiment of religious and virtuous devotedness to duty,

Mr, Stewart, in an article on the death the late John Livingston, which appeared in the World of 14th ult., stated that Mr. Livingston bought the Journal and established the 'Telegraph and Journal' in 1871." And he further said :-

Mr. Livings'on organized a regular staff and, instead of the paper going to press early in the evening, the forms were kept open till daylight and the paper had the latest despatches and the latest local news to be got. Mr. J. L. Stewart, who was night the subjects on which the sermons in at editor of the paper, rarely left the office before 4 in the morning.

As the editor of the ADVANCE was en gaged on the Telegraph and Journal on its being established in 1869, and he knew that Mr. Stewart was neither in St. John por s member of its staff for about two years thereafter, we felt that an error of two years in the date of founding the paper Mr. Stewart's intimation that he was a member of its editorial staff when he was not ought to be corrected. Writing from memory, after a period of more than twenty years between us and the events referred to, we stated that Mr. Stewart was not a member of the Telegraph staff until while, Mrs. Bannon, the venerable mother after Mr. Livingston had severed his connection with it, and that, consequently, Mr. Stewart's account of the wonderful things he did when (according to his own version of it) he and Mr. Livingston were running the Telegraph must be approphal. A sample statement by Mr. Stewart of his prowess on praise of curing Rupture entirely is echoing the Telegraph was, it will be remembered. that Mr. Livingston was one night unable to write an editorial because he had been kept from his editorial duties by the requirements of the counting room, and he went to Mr. Stewart, his great night editor, and directed him to write a leader on the common council. Mr. Stewart continuing the parrative said:

"When Mr. Stewart entered the office the next afternoon he found Mr. Livingston case should be sought for, which rewith the paper in his hand, reading the eading article. There have been six alderman here to-day, he said serenely. wanting to horsewhip me and six more threatening libel suits.' Then, after a short pause, he resumed-'Can't you write a leader for to-morrow on the same subject

We knew the foregoing story to be "made of whole cloth," and the whole World article being a tissue of misrepresentations -Mr. Stewart changing the date of the paper's founding from 1869 to 1871 to make it correspond with the year on which he was first employed on it, representing himself as being assigned the position of night editor when Mr. Livingston organised the paper's staff, and inventing the absurdity that six aldermen had appeared to thrash Mr. Livingston and six more had threatened ibel suits over an article within Mr. Smith's legartment and which must, in the ordinary course of the office work, have, if written at all been written by Mr. Smith caused the latter, in referring to it in last week's ADVANCE to puncture it. We had, a week before the ADVANCE article appeared -and knowing that one's memory of events autecedent by more than twenty years could not always be relied upon-written to a gentleman whom we believed to be in a position to furnish correct data for the exact late on which the Telegraph and Journal was established in 1869, the date on which Mr. Stewart was first engaged on it and the date on which Mr. Livingston ceased to be its proprietor, as well as the date on which he left the Tribune and Mr. Stewart became that paper's editor, with the result that it ceased to exist in about three months thereafter. The information was not forth coming, so we wrote entirely from memory. The reckless statements of Mr. Stewart, in which he took occasion to beglorify himself over the corpse of the late Mr. Livingston perhaps justified our trusting to memory. In doing invention of Gailileo's telescope, what that would end there. William's attention, organised the staff, he (Mr. Stewart), was added to the water for washing the hands before or made night editor. Such being the case, he and face is very agreeable and refreshing. There is nothing so cleansing and strengthening for the hair as an occasional washing in one part liquid ammonia, two parts alcohol and four parts water, washing off the hair in clear water afterwards. Strong ammonia water will also remove the oily deposits from hair brushes, and when well rinsed, and dried in the sun with the bristles down, will be found as "good as new." In the laundry there is nothing so harmless and helpful as ammonia. A few spoonfuls in the washing water make the labor light and the clothes white, and there is no danger of injury to the fabrics, as in the use of soda, lime or javelle water. A very superior and simple washing fluid is salary was greater than Mr. Stewart's, and made of equal parts of ammonia and spirits of turpentine. It makes rubbing almost unnecessary, while it whitens the clothes without injury. A few spoonfuls should be added to the clothes in boiling as well as in
