HEIRS TO A FORTUNE:-Mr. Joseph DeGrasse, of St. Louis, is excited over report that he is one of the heirs to an mense fortune in France. The Count DeGrasse, an old French Admiral, died u Paris in 1788, leaving an estate valued at $32,000,000. His brother had emigrated to this country and settled near Bay Chaleur Rival claimants to the estate appeared, and for nearly a hundred years it has been in litt gation. Word has been received that a final settlement of the matter has been reached and that the estate will be divided among the heirs in the course of a few weeks. There are about forty claimants in New Brunswick, most of whom live in Gloucester

Last Friday's Moncton Times says: 'Although the fishermen say that the smel tishing was a failure on the Miramichi this year during the month of December. fortyfive car loads of fresh fish left Chatham station per the Canada Eastern railway for points in western Canada and the United States. Each car contained about ten tons of smelts, which would show that 450 tons were shipped from here during December, their value being between $20,000 and $25,000. The well known and enterprising firm, A & R. Loggie of Black Brook, shipped some twenty-one carloads, or 210 tons the other shipments being made by F. Russell, Loggie & Burr and W. S. Loggie. Your con respondent is informed the company has contracted for 4,000 cords of wood to delivered by rail from points along the Canada Estern and Intercolonial railways and 3,000,000 superficial feet to be delivered during the next summer by water."

A Great Storm.

Thursday night last brought a fall of very light snow that lay from six to eight inches deep upon that which had already covered the ground to a depth of between two and three feet. On Friday evening the wind began to blow from the north and soon increased to a gale, causing one of the mos blinding and heavy snow drifts ever experienced on the North Shore. In Chatham and Nelson, it was, perhaps, worse than anywhere else in this section of the country, as the wind blew directly across the river, giving an uninterrupted irift upon both, of about a mile, the result being such a piling up of snow in streets and yards as no resident ever witnessed before in those places, at least, for nearly all our Miramichi suow-drifts are from a southerly or southeasterly direction. The Intercolonial railway trains were considerably delayed, but as the wind blew along in the general direction of that road. instead of across it, its train-workers had not such serious difficulties to contend with as had those of the Canada Eastern and other lines running east and west. The mails per Intercolonial, which should have reached Chatham post office on Friday night for delivery on Saturday morning came only at about half past four on Saturday after noon. The St. John mail got along to Chat ham Junction only a few hours late, but i was thought best by the Chatham railway people to wait there for the train from the north, on the arrival of which all the mails were brought in together. Saturday's I. C. R. trains were moved on fairly good time considering the severity of the storm. A Matter of Taste.

We observe, by the Courier that some good ladies in St. Stephen have sent circulars to merchants in that town, requesting them to close the blinds of their stores on Sunhelped in the direction of a better observance of that day. Persons with an eye for the beautiful might be led to higher and nobler thoughts by contemplating a tastefully arranged collection of fabrics in a shop window than if only a blind with the namand business of the proprietor of the store advertised upon it met their view. These things are only matters of taste. The blind would, undeniably, be a direct advertisement of the person owning the store, while the leading thought connected with the fabrics would suggest the progress of manufacturing art in web and woof, design, coloring and texture. The request respecting the blindclosing might be followed with one to the local clergy enjoining upon them the duty of praying for clouds or fog on Sunday nights, so that the man in the moon might not smile on street promenaders, or, in contem plating the Pleiades or Orion, the Milky way or Venus the people might not be so sinful as to forget that it is a day on which nothing of brighter color than a drab window blind with the owner's name on it should be looked at.

Corbett-Mitchell Fight

THE PROBABILITIES OF ITS TAKING PLACE IN JACKSON VILLE. JACKSONVILLE, Fla., January 9.-The managers of the Duval Athletic club have set a snare for its enemy, Governor Mitchell into which they hope he will fall and thereby give him an opportunity to test the Florida law in regard to prize fights. The snare in question is the arranging of a contest between two negro sluggers to take place at

The men are to fight for a purse of $500, and have signed articles of agreement identical cerity of Governor Mitchell's opposition to regulating prize fights in this state. [Canadian Gazette.] In the December number of the United Servie Magazine General Sir Frederick Middleton gives the second instalment of his account of the suppression of the Riel rising Harvey Doak has erected a new building of 1885. The instalment is chiefly concerned with the first brush with the enemy at Fish Creek on April 20, 1885, and is full of in timations of the bravery of Canada's inexperienced citizen soldiers when brought under the fire of their wily and expert business and has more orders than he can adversaries. How sure Riel himself was of victory may be judged by the fact that he only once cut the telegraph wire, because, says the General, "he thought he might, machinery for rushing through any orders, after defeating me, require to use the wire to communicate with Ottawa and make terms with the Government. The preliminaries leading up to the battle General and his troops had to do, "I'm Wilson tariff bill coming into force in the afraid," he says, "the dress of my aide-decamp and myself would have astonished, if not horrified, an Aldershot General and his aide-de-camp. We were both clad in short buffalo skin coats, staff pantaloons, fur service caps, and long English shooting boots with jack spurs. Swords were worn under and revolvers over our coats. The men and officers were in regular British uniform, supplemented with snow boots, fur caps, and gloves and most of them with hideous red comforters round their necks." A motley gathering they must have been, but they showed of what stuff they were made. An especial word of praise is given by the General to "one of the best regiments in the

Personally (says the general) I was fairly satisfied with the affair. My men had borne their baptism of fire well, and if they had not, as was only to be expected, displayed the dash and rapidity of movement of regular troops in their first essay of war, they had clearly evinced great staying power and dogged courage. In fact they had held their own against an attempt at surprise, and had driven the enemy, little inferior in numbers to themselves and better skilled in the mode of fighting required, out of a position carefully selected and prepared beforehand. We had under 400 men actually engaged, and the enemy had about 300. Our casualties amounted to fifty, including five officers: of these, ten. including one officer were killed or died of their wounds. and eighteen wounded, beides three Indians left dead on the field. It was in this engagement that General Middleton had himself a narrow escape :-In passing some open ground we were fired at from the rifle-pits in the centre of the enemy's line, one bullet passing through and seriously damaging my fur service cap, another grazing my horse "Sam," to his great surprise and disgust, and another wounding Capt. Wise's fresh horse, which fell, throwing its rider right under my horse's feet. Needless to say we did not linger on that spot. This was not the first time I had been saluted from this same spot, and I was afterwards informed by Riel that I owed those delicate attentions to his Commanderin-Chief, Gabriel Dumont, who had been good enough to swear he would shoot me. I found the enemy still keeping up a fire from their centre, now become their right. Observing that a good many heads were being bobbed to the ping of bullets, I explained to those near me that this bobbing looked undignified, and was perfectly useless, as the ping was only heard when the bullet had passed. This remark was transmogrified into the fellowing delicious "bull" in the newspaper accounts. "The General told the boys not to bob at the ping of the bullets, and pointing to his fur cap, which had just been shot through, he exclaimed, "why, boys, if I had bobbed just now I should have had my brains knocked out !"

General Middleton could not well avoid reference to the unpleasantness that arose between himself and Colonel Irvine, an unpleasantness which determined the General. to use his own words, to "leave the Prince Albert force out of my calculations in forming the plans for attacking Batoche."
