OHATHAM, N. B., - - APRIL 5, 1894. THE BATHURST SCHOOL QUES-

A 72 page blue book comes to hand from Fredericton containing the report of Judge Fraser of the and upon the non-resident owners Supreme Court on the Bathurst of real estate liable to be assessed school question. It is, of course, too voluminous to publish in the assessed included both Roman ADVANCE, but we present its more | Catholics and Protestants. essential parts, as they appear in the Telegraph of Thursday last. Judge Fraser says:—

In making up a report in this matter I have thought it best to take up each ground of the complaint in the order in which it is placed in the printed statements presented by the Rev. Mr. Thomson, preserving his numbers and divisions, so as to make it more easy of reference. The complaint is dated the 18th day of May, A. D. 1893, and the first ground of complaint which is made is this:

(1) That the Rev. James Rogers. Roman Catholic bishop of the dioceses of Chatham in the province of New Brunswick, with a view to having the common schools in district No. 2 in the town of Bathurst in the county of Gloucester, and in school district No. 16 in the parish of Bathurst in said county of Gloucester, under the control of the religous teachers of the Roman Catholic church and of the said church, did enter into an agreement with and come to an understanding with certain members of the Roman Catholic church of said school districts to bring members of certain religious teaching orders of the Roman Catholic church to said district, and to there establish conventual schools, with a view to having the children of Protestant parents taught within such conventual schools, and pursuant to such agreement and understanding the members of one or more said orders were brought to said district and one or more said conventual schools were established in said districts or one of said districts. As I understand this ground of complaint, it charges substantially that an agreement was entered into and an understanding had between the Right Reverend James Rogers, Roman Catholic Bishop of the diocese of Chatham, and certain members of the Roman Catholic church residing in school district No. 2 in the town of Bathurst and resident in school district No. 16 in the parish of Bathurst, to bring members of certain religious teaching orders of the Roman Catholic church to said districts, and to with a view of having the children of Protestant parents taught within such conventual schools; and that pursuant to such agreement conventual schools were established in said districts, or one of them, and members of the teaching orders of the Roman Catholic church brought to said districts, and that all this was done with a view to the same. having the common schools in the said two districts under the control of religious teachers of the Roman Catholic church.

evidence offered in support of this ground of complaint and to a right inderstanding of the question, it may be well to refer to the state of matters which had existed in Bathurst town and village in regard to the schools in those districts from about the year 1873 down to the month of June 1890.

During all that period, some 17 years and upwards, the Roman Catholic parents of children in those districts had maintained at their own expense one school in Bathurst town and one school n Bathurst village, at which the greater number of Roman Catholic children of the town and village during all these years received their education. These two schools were known as convent schools and the teachers in these schools, down to the year 1890, were sisters of the Congregation of Notre Dame, schools conducted under the common schools act in the said districts Roman Catholic faith, the Sisters Dame not teaching boys.

The number of Roman Catholic children in attendance upon the Convent school in Bathurst town in 1890, just before such school was brought under the operation of the school law would be about 100; and the number of children the common schools in Bathurst the Roman Catholic Church with town about 170.

From 1874 down to 1890, all the sums of money voted for school purposes at the annual meetings under the law in the town and village were assessed and levied upon all the ratepayers resident in in the districts, and the persons so

It will thus be seen that down to the year 1890 the trustees of schools in these two districts had available for the purpose of the schools conducted by them all the rates and taxes assessed upon these districts respectively, as well the rates paid by ratepayers who were Roman Catholics as by ratepayers who were Protestants; and during all these years the Roman Catholics of these two districts kept up and maintained at their own expense convent schools in these two dis-

Several Sisters of Charity duly licensed to teach were engaged as teachers by the trustees of schools of each of these districts, and agreements were duly entered into in accordance with the common schools act teacher. The trustees in the month of September, 1890, opened these school rooms as schools under the law for the reception of pupils and gave permits to pupils to attend

The effect of this, as will be readily understood, was to bring under the operation of the common schools act in the schools of Bath-In dealing with the schools in urst town about some 100 children these two districts, for convenience of Roman Catholic parents, and in sake I shall call the schools in dis- the schools of Bathurst village ROGER FLANAGAN. trict No. 2 as Bathurst town about some 80 children of Roman schools, and the schools in No. 16 Catholic parents, who had hitherto as the village schools, and I do this been attending the convent schools; because in this report I will have which were, as I have already statto refer to matters of complaint ed, supported by the voluntary charged in connection with other subscriptions of the Roman Cathschool districts in the parish of olics of Bathurst town and Bath-Bathurst; and Bathurst town and urst village; and as a consequence Bathurst village are the only two the sums to be raised by rates and districts in the parish of Bathurst taxes would be increased by the in which it is charged that there amount that would be necessary was this alleged agreement and to meet this increased attendance understanding to establish con- of children. I will refer to this hereafter, when I come to deal with Before proceeding to refer to the the question raised as to what is claimed to be the excessive cost of now running the schools in the > town and village. Having, thus shortly stated the condition of school matters in the town and village in the summer of 1890, I will now proceed to deal with the first ground of complaint put forward by the Reverend Mr. Thomson:—

It in effect charges Bishop Rogers with a design to have the common schools of Bathurst town and Bathurst village brought under the control of religious teachers of the Roman Catholic church, and of establishing conventual schools in these two districts with a view to having the children of Protestant parents taught within such conventual schools. I am not aware of any course of proceeding by which any prelate of any church can bring the common schools in any district in the province, which During the same period the by law are placed under the control of the trustees of the district, (sub ject, of course to the law and were attended by the Protestant regulations,) under the control of children of the said districts and religious teachers of his particular by some of the older boys of the church. No one could have heard the evidence of Bishop Rogers, or of the Congregation of Notre that of Father Barry, the priest in Bathurst town, or of Father Varrily, the priest in Bathurst village, and have arrived at the conclusion that the bishop or either of the two priests named for one moment entertained the idea of bringing the common schools in either the town or village under then enrolled as in attendance upon the control of religious teachers of schools and of having the children The number of Roman Catholic of Protestant parents taught within Bishop Rogers and the two schools act of New Brunswick, they yielded to the law, while still entertaining their belief that religious and secular teaching should go hand in hand in daily school
