THE BEEKEEPER.

In working among bees be careful not to jar the hive. It almost invariably makes When bees swarm and are hived, do not leave them until night, but move them to their permanent position. When drones are driven from the hive it shows that the food is getting scarce and that the luxury of supporting them cannot be afforded. When there is a rush of honey coming in, the bees build store or drone comb, because they can take care of the honey faster than with smaller work cells. Bees do not depend upon stores for rearing the young, as they do upon new honey chard.

If a swarm is hived in a clean, cool and well ventilated hive and placed in the shade, the bees will seldom desert it. But if left exposed to the hot sun too long they may conclude to seek more pleasant quar-

Where honey is to be shipped to market the use of a full sheet of foundation is an advantage, as the comb is stronger and not so liable to break from the wood. The honey has also a finer appearance, and this, of course, pleases the customer.

People who keep bees and have no running water near should keep a supply near the apiary. One vessel should be a little salty, putting about a teaspoonful of salt to a pail of water. While rearing, brood bees will carry a great deal of water. Foul brood is a highly infectious disease among bees. Spraying with a solution of salicylic acid, if done in the early stages of the disease, will sometimes afford relief, but if it has made a good start it will be better to destroy the whole hive, bees and all, as completely as possible.

THE ACTOR.

Eugen D'Albert has written and composed a tragic opera. Edmund E. Price is writing for John L. Sullivan a three act play to be called "The True American."

The "continuous performance" craze is spreading and is now in full swing in at least a score of cities in this country. Sadie Martinot and Max Figman have gone to Europe to get plays in which the former will star next season under the latter's management.

M. Antoine, the founder of the Theatre Libre in Paris, proposes to found a similar institution where the works of young musicians will be given. William Terriss leaves Irving's company next autumn to play the leading part in a new melodrama at the London Adelphi, supported by Miss Millward.

GASTRIC JUICE

Stewed prunes with whipped cream make a delicious dessert. The pits should be removed before serving.

Daintly prepared fried cucumbers are immeasurably superior to fried eggplant and are especially nice with boiled chicken. The seeds of dates may be removed and replaced by freshly roasted peanuts, shelled and skinned. The date should then be dusted with pulverized sugar. Meat muffins may be made from cold mutton. The cold meat should be finely chopped, seasoned well, made into balls, and over it a cream sauce should be Apricots, a half served on a round piece of pastry, the fruit garnished with whipped cream, look surprisingly like poached eggs, but are not-merely an appetizing and fashionable sweet.

THE ODDITY.

In South America rain frequently falls in torrents from a clear sky. The Chinese have a god for every disease and a god for every accident. There is a restaurant in Berlin where horseflesh is the only meat served. "Unsold Locks and Locksmithing"

"Fairy rings," dead patches of grass usually in a circular form, are now known to be caused by a fungus which grows in the grass and kills it from the roots up.

THE MOVING WORLD.

A Philadelphian has invented a four winged flying machine. A steam plant for shearing sheep is reported to be in operation at Casper, Wy. Among recent inventions is an opera glass which can instantly be converted into a photographic camera.

NERVOUS DISEASES. As a cure for every class of Nervous Diseases, no remedy has been able to compare with the Nervine Tonic, which is very pleasant and harmless in all its effects upon the youngest child or the oldest and most delicate individual. Nine-tenths of all the ailments to which the human family is heir are dependent on nervous exhaustion and impaired digestion. When there is an insufficient supply of nerve food in the blood, a general state of debility of the brain, spinal marrow, and nerves is the result. Starved nerves, like starved muscles, become strong when the right kind of food is supplied; and a thousand weaknesses and ailments disappear as the nerves recover. As the nervous system must supply all the power by which the vital forces of the body are carried on, it is the first to suffer for want of perfect nutrition. Ordinary food does not contain a sufficient quantity of the kind of nutriment necessary to repair the wear our present mode of living and labor imposes upon the nerves. For this reason it becomes necessary that a nerve food be supplied. This South American Nervine has been found by analysis to contain the essential elements out of which nerve tissue is formed. This accounts for its universal adaptability to the cure of all forms of nervous de-To the Great South American Medicine Co.: DEAR GENTS:-I desire to say to you that I have suffered for many years with a very serious disease of the somach and nerves.
