The "MIRAMICHI ADVANCE" having its large circulation distributed principally in the Counties of Kent, Northumberland, Gloucester and Westchester (New Brunswick), and in Nova Scotia and Gaspe (Quebec), among communities engaged in Lumbering, Fishing and Agriculture...

Miramichi Advance. CHATHAM, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 15, 1877.

Miramichi Lumber Trade.

The last lumber cargo of the year, for the United Kingdom, has left the Miramichi, and, as usual, we give the figures representing the shipments during the Navigation Season.

With regard to the prospects of peace he did not take the desponding views which some invariably did on such subjects.

He was encouraged not to do so by the remembrance that the Czar had solemnly declared that his only aim was the amelioration of the condition of the Christians, while the Sultan had repeatedly expressed his readiness to grant Reforms.

It might be said that there was a difficulty which prevented the Czar and the Sultan, although they entirely agreed upon every subject, from establishing the peace which they both desired.

He concludes as follows: "The Government have both hope and patience with respect to the war, and I trust that the time is not far distant when, with the rest of the Powers, we may contribute to the settlement of the difficulties, which may secure peace and independence to Europe."

Deals and Batters, Deal Ends, Scantling, and Boards are included under the head of Deals in the above table.

The Timber shipments were as follows: Guy, Stewart & Co., 1876, 27,886,210; 1877, 29,000,000.

The totals of Miramichi shipments for the two years are, therefore, as follows: 1876, 116,929,261; 1877, 149,973,593.

The trade of the two seasons was divided between Chatham and Newcastle as follows: Chatham, 1876, 92,578,184; 1877, 116,309,713.

The stocks (round and sawn) held over on the river amount to, perhaps, a little over 30,000,000 feet, as against about 58,000,000 feet last season.

Respecting the operations in the woods during the opening winter it is safe, perhaps, to say that they will be cautiously entered into, notwithstanding the fact that round stocks are low throughout the whole province.

Two parties, forgetful of the historical associations of the names of Conservative and Reformer as respects his own class.

Mr. Kelly (ironically)—"Big as the country is, the American eagle can flap its wings over every acre and scream defiance to all creation."

Thanksgiving. "It having pleased Almighty God in His great mercy to bless the labours of the Husbandman with an abundant Harvest, and to bestow upon the people of this Province manifold and great blessings during the current year."

LORD DEACONSFIELD ON THE WAR.—At the banquet of the Lord Mayor of London, held on the 9th, Lord Deaconsfield, in reply to the toast of Her Majesty's Ministers, said he believed this policy of remaining neutral, except in defence of English interests, was the best policy, not only for England but for Turkey, as it had enabled Turkey to display an amount of vigor and force which had demonstrated her right to be recognised among sovereign powers.

Spread-England. In a discussion on the repeal of the re-emption bill by the United States House of Representatives, on 7th inst., the following debate took place:—

Mr. PRICE (of Iowa)—"I want the country to stand by its promises. I do not want it to give out to the world that we cannot do anything. What have we ever tried to do which we could not do? We stand to-day on the highest pinnacle of honor. We stand the peer of the proudest nation on the globe in point of honor, in point, also, of financial ability."

Mr. KELLEY—"Does the fact that the nation has accomplished that which is possible prove it can accomplish the impossible?"

Mr. PRICE—"I should like to know what sort of a question that is?"

Mr. KELLEY—"It is a very direct one, which can be answered categorically."

Mr. PRICE—"When he shows me anything which is impossible to this nation, I shall be prepared to answer his question."

Mr. KELLEY—"Was it not the argument of Messrs. Peck and Ricardo when the act of 1819 was passed that, as gold and paper were then at less than five per cent difference, it was a mere question of time from three to five per cent diffused over four years?"

Mr. PRICE—"I do not know anything about the elder Peck's opinion, and do not care much about his opinion. I live in the afternoon of the nineteenth century and am legislating for the people who live in the afternoon of the nineteenth century, and while I have the lamp of experience to guide my feet in the path of the future I am pretty safe so long as I keep in it."

Mr. KELLEY—"I have been amused sometimes by the efforts made in England, as well as Canada, to enlist the workmen under the Tory banner by the help of Working-men's Conservative Associations."

Mr. PRICE—"Why, it is a misnomer. The workman who is a Conservative is a man who commits suicide—laughter and applause."

Mr. KELLEY—"The workingman who is a Conservative is a man totally destitute of a due appreciation of the difference in principle of the two parties, forgetful of the historical associations of the names of Conservative and Reformer as respects his own class."

Mr. PRICE—"Who was it that put it in the power of the workingman to form these associations?"

Mr. KELLEY—"I remember, Sir—although I was a young boy at the time when the whole voting power of three million people in my native country was vested in two or three thousand persons. I remember when the city of Glasgow with 200,000 people had the entire voting for Parliamentary representatives centered in the Common Council—a body composed of twenty or thirty men."

Mr. PRICE—"I remember perfectly well when the Conservative party so managed matters that it was impossible for a workingman to obtain a single voice in the Government of the country through the election of those who were to govern the country. We remember when Conservative-made laws prevented workmen from forming an association of any kind. But, Sir, after the Liberal party had accomplished the work of emancipating the working classes, after we have put the voting franchise in the hands of almost every man in the Dominion, and after it has been carried to such an extent in England that every household has a vote except in the counties, now we find the Conservative party carefully cultivating the workingman."

Mr. KELLEY—"They say, 'Gentlemen, we were always the friends of the workingman, and we wish to see the Conservative Association through the ceremony of confirmation, and then is placed by her parents with a country gentleman or in a large family, where she remains one or two years, finishing what may also be termed the post of servant, or doing the work of one. This is looked upon as an apprenticeship to domestic economy. She differs from a servant, however, in this—she receives no wages; on the contrary, her parents often pay for her care taken of her, as well as her clothing. This is the first step in her education as housekeeper. She next passes on to the same conditions, into the kitchen of a rich private family, or into that of a hotel of good repute. Here she has control of the expenditures of the servants employed in it, and assists personally in the cooking, but is always addressed as Miss, and is treated by the family with deference and consideration. Many daughters of rich families receive similar treatment with this difference, however, that they receive it in princely mansion or a royal residence. There is a reigning queen in Germany at the present time who was trained in this way. Consequently the women in Germany are perfect models of economy."

STEAMBOAT COLLISION ON THE ST. JOHN RIVER.—On last Thursday night, as the Steamer Soulanges was on her way to Fredericton, she was run into near Gagetown by the tug Neptune, and the latter vessel was so badly injured that the Soulanges sank immediately and the Neptune sank in a few miles above the spot where the collision took place.
