CHATHAM, THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 1 1877.
Official Reasons and Real Reasons.
Referring to the decrease in the catch of Salmon in 1875, as compared with 1874, the Fishery Commissioner, in his report, says the reason is because "the young fish have been smothered or choked by the saw-dust from the lumber mills, by pollution of the rivers, by the refuse of the manufactories, by weirs which bar the upward progress of breeding fish, by the incessant depredations of the poacher and by reckless and avaricious fishing."
The Commissioner might have gone on in something after this fashion--
"The Department comes down on the reckless and avaricious fishermen as soon as advised to do so by the Inspector, and it is prompt in suppressing bag-nets,
