Indigestion or dyspepsia is the bane of thousands, and is one of the most depressing of afflictions. It arises from an impure or impoverished condition of the blood, which weakens the digestive and assimilative organs, rendering them incapable of performing their natural func-tions, and if neglected, the sufferer loses flesh, complains of exhaustion after slight exertion, and becomes rapidly debilitated. Mr. Wm. W. Thompson, a prominent resident of Zephyr, Ont., in a letter dated Aug 12th, 1895, says: "It gives me great pleasure to testify to the fact that Scott's Sarsaparilla has caused a most remarkable change in my condition. I was so much run down I had to give up work and felt as if life were not worth living. Mr. Dafoe induced me to try Scott's Sarsaparilla, and after taking four bottles I am now feeling as I formerly did years ago, and I want to say for the benefit of those suffering from indigestion and feel-ing, to use slang phrase, 'completely knocked out,' don't despair until you give Scott's Sarsaparilla a fair trial."

Scott's Sarsaparilla is a blood food, i stimulates all vital organs to healthy normal action, enabling them to throw off all poisonous and debilitating humors. Sold by druggists at $1, but there is only one Scott's. The kind that cures.

The Senior Tupper.

The fact that Sir Charles Tupper, the elder, is coming to Canada is utilized for party purposes in setting afloat the usual rumors respecting the object of his visit. The reasons assigned by his opponents, range all the way from his coming to help the government candidate in Montreal Centre by addressing a meeting in his behalf against "Jimmy" McShane, to the arrangement of a deal whereby he is to become premier; while those stated from government sources cover the ground lying between the intended celebration of the bi-centennial of his marriage, arrangement of details for the proposed fast Atlantic service and the laying of a telegraphic cable across the Pacific to Australia. Sir Charles has come over to Canada on several occasions since he became High Commissioner, and as the liberal newspapers invariably proclaimed that his object was to assume the premiership of the Dominion, the reiteration of that old story ought not to be taken very seriously. As to his addressing any campaign meeting in the ment seems to be so absurd as to carry seems reasonable to believe that the important considerations involved in the establishment of the proposed fast line of steamships between Great Britain and Canada are the principal motives for Sir Charles' visit, which, in any case, ought not to be thought a very unusual occurrence in view of his old-time associations with this country and a natural desire to keep in touch with its affairs and be informed of its progress by personal observation and Lord Salisbury has, in diplomatic enquiry. A Yankee Jingo.

Admiral Belknap of the United States navy is a representative of the element in the active politics of that country which encourages the bluster of jingoism by which its more judicious public men are made to grieve. A Detroit press despatch says he has written a letter to a prominent man in that city-a Mr. Richard P. Joycommenting on an article by the latter in the Cleveland Marine Review, in which the abrogation of the treaty with Great Britain, prohibiting the building of war ships on the great lakes, is advocated. Admiral Belknap says a good deal more than we have space to publish or than he would have said had he less "wheels in his head." Here are extracts from his

"If shipbuilding at our ports in the great lakes canno; be allowed to compete with shipbuilding in other parts of the country in the building of vessels for our navy, by reason of the treaty with Great Britain, it is high time such treaty were so amended, that our shipbuilding plants, wherever located may have an equal chance in matter of government work. Independently of what Canada may be doing in the construction of steam vessels for her lake marine, readily convertible into effective gunboats, Great Britain of war with the United States.

"With a well digested policy, indomitable oush and sleepless foresight, ever looking towards future contingencies and the expansion of the empire, British statesmen when they do not play the part of a bully after the methods of Lord Palmerston, mask their designs under the cover of a velvet handed diplomacy as seductive as it is dangerous. No press announcement indicating that the language of this Bombastes Furiosio of the United States navy has been made the subject of diplomatic correspondence between Westminster and Washington has yet appeared. It is possible, however, that England, in its habit of ignoring trifles, may let it pass with other windy indications of the upper lake region. It may be remembered, too. that when the Belknap stock get into official trouble over their idiocyncrasies. they have a trick of resigning their offices. A distinguished relative of the Admiral did so when he was impeached as Secretary of War under President Grant's administration nearly twenty years ago, in connection with taking some $24,000 as a bribe for promoting the fortunes o political friends at the expense of his country. man by the name of Nathaniel Clark Wallace has for some years represented West York in the house of commons. Of political capacity he has very little; of states. manship absolutely none. He possesses a certain instinct of low cunning and some capacity as an organizer of certain classes

Mr. Wallace is not a statesman, it is true : nor does he owe his political advancement so much to his merits as a patriot, gentleman or scholar, as to as close a following as possible of methods of other public men who have advanced their political fortunes by taking advantage of other people's temperance sentiments or religious prejudices. yet that is no excuse for the Chronicle's in the year 1895 and is, in some degree, bound to do its share in sleva ing the tone of provincial journalism.

The Cleveland Doctrine.

Congress on 3rd inst. President Cleveland

"It being apparent that the boundary dispute between Great Britain and the Republic of Venezuela concerning the limits of British Guiana was approaching an acute stage, a definite statement of the interest and policy of the United States as regards the controversy seemed to be required both on its own account and in view of its relations with the friendly powers directly concerned. In July last, therefore, a despatch was addressed to our Ambassador at London for communication to the British government, in which the attitude of the United States was fully and distinctly set

"The general conclusions therein reached and formulated are in substance that the traditional and established policy of this government is firmly opposed to a foreible ncrease by any European Power of its territorial possessions on this continent: that this policy is as well founded in principle as it is strongly supported by numerous precedents; that as a consequence the United States is bound to protest against the enlargement of the area of British Guiana in derogation of the rights and against the will of Venezuela; that, onsidering the disparity in strength Great Britain and Venezuela, the territorial lispute between them can be reasonably settled only by friendly and impartial arbitration, and that the resort to such arbitration should include the whole controversy, and is not satisfied if one of the Powers concerned is permitted to draw an arbitrary line through the territory in debate and to declare that it will submit to arbitration only the possion lying on one

"In view of these conclusions the de the question whether it would or would not submit the territorial controversy be tween itself and Venezuela in its entirety to impartial arbitration. The answer of the British government has not yet been received, but it is expected shortly, when further communication on the subject will probably be made to Congress.'

Referring to the spruce market the London Timber Trades Journal of the 30th November, says :--

"Everything depends for the future of deals at the last moment. We hear of two or three steamers having been chartered market from being stronger than it is stated, are very light for the year, but all the same several large steamer shipments would alter the aspect of affairs and soon give a sufficient supply to carry the trade is, we believe, fully able to supply the demand, consequently the low state of the building season was most active."

Though there was not a single vessel discharging in either the Brocklebank, Canada, or Carrier's Dock at the end of the present week, it was quite apparent that some vessels had only just completed their uloading. The removal of these was proceeding apace, and numerous gangs of men were busily employed in loading carts and waggons with spruce deals. These were surriedly despatched to the various railway depots and to the wharves of the carriers by water. The upward movement in the spruce market still continues to manifest tself and some of the merchants' stocks will soon begin to wear a depleted appearance and their specifications a ragged look. We hear of a large cargo of West Bay spruce deals having been sold at £6 10s. per standard, clean c. i. f. terms: and another cargo, with a proportion of rotarycut deals in it, at half-a-crown less. Of three steamers recently chartered to load at painless ! St. John, N. B, we learn one goes to the Bristol Channel, one to Fleetwood, and one may possibly come to this port. So these are pretty widely distributed. Upon the point of distribution of these goods the Manchester Ship Canal below the bridges. i. e., below Runcorn, has been largely used by the importers of the Canada Dock, On the subject of freights the Journal

"Canadian chartering is just moving, but nothing more. It is yet too early to deal in this business, and what is being done is quite of a speculative kind. Vessels are quite at satisfactory rates, about 40s. at present, from the lower ports, being equal to 42s. 6d. from Quebec.

There is no reason to assume that there will be any abatement in business done by regular liners, and as considerably less can be accepted to advantage by these, it follows that merchants are glad to make use of them wherever possible.'

Too Much Advertised.

A gentleman named McRie, recently a priest of the Roman Catholic church, has abandoned his former faith 'and been received into the Church of England by the bishop of Fredericton. The man's changed church relationships and the ircumstances preceding the step he took have been very much discussed in the newspapers and, in some cases, with anything but the charity taught, but not always practised by both clerical and lay christians. It is claimed by certain adherents of the church Mr. McRae left that he was a "black sheep," while leaders of the flock into whose fold he has entered are contending that he is an angel. It seems evident, from all that has been published, that while Mr. McRae was not always in the best possible position which a clergyman should occupy in his former church he was, until he left it; not so bad as to prevent his being recommended In his message to the United States by his religious superiors as a fit person to discharge the duties of his priestly sistent for any to cast stones at him after and, apparently because he has joined another communion. He, or those im mediately interested with him in 'conversion," appear to have made the mistake of advertising the event through the press to an extent hardly warranted by its importance, which, no doubt, suggested to his late co-religionists the idea of giving the public an intimation that "the other fellows" had not secured so great a prize as they thought they had. The much alvertised gentleman is probably not much tetter, or worse, than others who have changed their faith and
