but he was free to say it might have dene a good deal worse than return the hon. member. He (Blair) wished, therefore, though not regarding him as a supporter, to treat the hon. member in a more kindly manne than his leader had done.

There was always one occasion in session when the leader of the opposition was ex | Perley-9 ceedingly happy in his remarks, and that was when the address was being moved in reply to the speech of his honor. To house coald not fail to remember, however, that on all previous occasions when these ghastly disclosures to which the hon. gentleman reterred had been exposed to the ligh of day, it had been found that what he has assumed to be the case had not been the case in any one particular. He had proposed this amendment as he stated by reason of his keen sense of public duty.

He (Biair) could have heard the hop member move his amendment with grea composure if he had done so without professing to believe what he did not believe: in other words if he had treated the house with some sught show of sincerity and fainess. The leider of the opposition had stated that the motion did not mean any want of confidence in the government Sure v the hon member did not regard to business of legislation as child's play, no. think it was the duty of hon members to act as c owas in a circus. Why should he venture to declare that a motion of this character did not involve a want of contidence in the government?

Dr. Stockton-Do you say if the motion is carried it means the deteat of the Adjourned. government?

Hon. Mr. Blair-I say the amendment the hon. member has moved means a wast of confidence in the government? Of course there could be a motion made which would not mean that, but no government with a particle of sels respect would remain in office after such a motion as this was pas ed. All the anxiety and solicitude displayed by the non, member was not to secure an adequase and sufficient remedy but was tu product of his desire to gain some slight political auvautage. He (Biair) thereto e asked the members of the house, wh thought they ought to see the material and the fasts upon which the hon. member had based the conclusion at which he had arrived, to assent to the adoption of the addiess as it stood.

Hon Mr. Blair said that he did place himself second to any gentieman in the house in his regard for the mantenance, in all their purity and integrity. of the free institutions of this country. It was not always those who professed the most who valued them the most highly When he atcributed to the government remissness of duty in respect to the Carleton election he was travelling beyond the legitimate limits of criticism and basing his conclusions upon visionary foundations. The honorable member had stated that the late member for Carleton, Mr. Conneil, had resigned his seat before the legislatur last year. He (Biair) was not aware of it and now heard it for the first time. The government were not aware of it and that was when the resigning member took means to place his resignation in the hands of the government or of the proper officer ; unril that took place there could be no recognition.

Carleton might have done a good deal better. that the address ought to have contained omething about immigration, that York nissed some of its by road money, that he was getting the hayseed out of his hair, etc. Messrs Shaw, Atkinson, Emmerson, Smith (St. John,) Howe and Wellis mane peeches and the amendment was lost, the vote being :--Yeas-Stockton, Painney, Smith, (S.

Ernest Haviland; (lower dist,) Andrew Shanty, Campand Boat Stove.

[From Miramichi Advance of Oct 11.]

Mr George Marquis of Chatham will be looked upon as a benefactor of smelt fishermen, sportsmen and others who may have the good fortune to pro cure stoves of the new pattern designed by him the first sample of which was put together at his well known shop at Chatham on Tuesday afternoon and shipped yesterday to Neguac It is to be used a goose-shooter's camp at Tabusintac and for at purpose as well as for heating and cooking in melt-fishermen's shanties it is just the thing is about 20 inches long, 14 inches from front to back and the same from bottom to top The bottom, top, door and dampers, etc are of cast iron and the sides and ends are composed of a sheet of 16 gauge sheet steel It will hold nearly twice as much wood as a star stove while owing to a new and peculiar orm adopted in the bottom, it will burn either a small or large quantity of fuel, as may be desured It may also be fitted to burn coal There is a draft for forcing the tire and a damper for lessening the heat at will The top has two pot-holes and these may, by the removal of the dividing centre-piece, which is of the usual form, be converted into an oblong hole for a big beiler or oblong pan Altogether, the new shanty-stove seems to meet a requirement that is more than local, and the cost, $5, places it within almost everbody's ability to buy Mr Marquis has just begun to fill orders, and it will te well for those who intend to fish smelts during the coming winter, as well as sportsmen and gunners who want to be comfortable and, at the same time, have a stove on which they can do quite a range of cooking to place their orders with him, as early as possible. OFFINS & CASKETS

Dr. Stockton-Oh, you might hide yourself behind a technicality. Mr. Blair-Well, I say if the hon. gentleman whose knowledge of constitutional law is so vast that he does not hesitate to instruct the rising generati n, thinks that the production of a written resignation certified in the way the law requires and properly filed, is not an essential but is a mere technicality, then I confess I should not like to sit under my hon, triend's instruction as a Gamaliel in the reaim of constitutional law. In my case it would be a case of the blind leading the blind. If that was a mere technicality he (Blair) yearned to be enlightened as to what could properly he termed a substantial condition The hon, member's reasoning ou this subject was about as profound as could be expected, perhaps, from a gentleman who declared that, when two counties returned government supporters and one county returned an opposition supporter, the trend of public opinion was against the govern- of the province. ment. Under all the circumstances he (Blair) would ask the hon. members opposite whether it would not be well for them to withdraw this very juveoile amendment. Mr. Phinney next addressed the house, his remarks taking a very wide range. He dwelt on woman sufferage, prohibition, the lunatic asylum, the Carleton election, etc.
