By action of the Governor-General in regard to recommendations of the late Government should be so generally approved as they are by Liberal papers, simply, it seems, because His Excellency displayed his party bias in stating his reasons for the course he took. The mistake he made was not in refusing to sanction the recommendations of his ministry. That .ought to be clearly understood. It was undoubtedly within the scope of his powers to exercise the perogative of the Crown as he thought best, and few will question the correctness of his action in reference to quite a large number of the appointments he refused to sanction. But no diplomat would would have made such a bad break as the proposed improvements for which we Lord Aberdeen did in assigning purely party reasons for his action as the Crown's representative. To test the supposed advantages of a nap after dinner, Dr. Schule, of Fribourg, has made a series of experiments on two normal subjects. The contents of the stomach were analyzed a few hours after meals, some of which were followed by sleep and some were not, and the results indicate that sleep weakens the stomach's movements, while the acidity of the gastric juice is increased. On the other hand, simple repose in a horizontal position stimulates the motion of the stomach without increasing the acidity of the gastric juice. It is concluded, therefore, that one should stretch himself out for a rest after a hearty meal, but should not go to sleep, especially if the stomach is in a dilated condition or its juices very acid.

It may be used for wainscoting and other architectural purposes, as well as for flooring. A still more curious use for paper is announced in the form of a bathing towel,

Execution at Digby

Wheeler, the Man who murdered Annie Kempton at Bear River, N. S. hanged on Tuesday Morning.

He retained his Nerve unti the last.

[SPECIAL TO THE ST. JOHN GLOBE.]

DIGBY, Sept. 8. tragedy took place within the walls of the county jail about two o'clock this morning. Probably fifty persons, more or less, for despatching Wheeler at such an unseemly hour, there seems to be wisdom in his doing so, because before noon yesterday the iail officials had received information that | the sitting-room. an organized band of about 500 persons equipped with iron hooks and other utensils would leave Bear River about daylight and were determined on arrival at Digby to BREAK THEIR WAY INTO JAIL.

regardless of the consequences. Happily for all concerned, the disturbances so greatly feared were avoided by the sheriff, who late course before daybreak.

Coroner Daley was apprised of this fac and notified the jury to meet him at the prison about 12 o'clock last night. The Globe reporter, who was the only member of the St. John press at the execution, got a hint of what was contemplated shortly after midnight. The night was intensely dark, the electric lights being out and the town enshrouded in a dense fog. Providing himself with a farmer's lantern he hastened distant from the hotel. The deputy sheriff cheerfully admitted the visitors and ushered where were assembled the coroner's jury.

In the meantime Chief of Police Bowles,

HE DIED A REPENTANT SINNER. About 1.30 the deputy sheriff took down a lunch consisting of cold meat, biscuits and tea, and Wheeler ate heartily of the meat. But a few minutes sufficed for the unfortunate man to make his meal and immediately afterwards he resumed his

Up to this time Sheriff Van Blarcom, who is a very old man, was resting in his own room, but when told that everything was in readiness for him he promptly appeared on the scene prepared to perform his duty in a fearless manner. He, however, was not more cool or collected than the man whom he was soon to send into

The arrangement of the gallows was somewhat changed during the day. Instead of it being up in the cell in the eastern corner of the jail it was erected under the platform of the main entrance to the prison. The side walls, built of stone, and the stairway leading to the platform completely obscured the condemned man, and it was one of the dreariest looking places that I ever had my foot in. The scene was ren-

MOST WEIRD AND DISTRESSING, especially when Wheeler stepped into it. A lantern and a lamp were used to lighten up the gloom.

Wheeler's cell was within a few feet of the death chamber, and of course he was conscious of all the movements of the officials during yesterday afternoon. When the arrangement of the scaffold were being perfected he was amazingly cool, but not any more so than when he stood on the threshold of death.

Just before leaving his cell and as the door was swung open, Wheeler announced that he had taken one life for the devil, and he was now offering his own up to Jesus, and was willing to pay the penalty.

WHEELER'S LAST WORDS. The noose was adjusted on his neck, and the unfortunate man was asked by Chief of Police Bowles if he desired to say any thing else. Wheeler responded :

"Well; gentlemen, I have a few things to say. The confession which is to be putlished in the Digby Courier is the only correct one. I killed Annie Kempton between 12 and 1 o'clock at night, and it is also true that the cow had been milked the evening before between 5 and 6 o'clock These are my last words and if I am lying before men I am not lying before God. Good by, friends. I hope you will all for-THE DEATH SCENE.

A second later the sheriff with his mallet and chisel severed the rope overhead and with a terrible jerk the body of the unfortunate criminal bounded upwards and his neck was heard to crack by those outside the prison walls. When the body rebound ed it began to revolve, but the deputy sheriff steadied it. There was then visible for a few moments only the convulsive twitching of the arms and legs and then Within twenty minutes after the drop the lifeless body was cut down and carried man had spent his last momento. THE CORONER'S JURY

then viewed the body and returned the Subsequently the deputy sheriff appeared outside and announced to the crowd that the body would be placed in the upper hall and anyone who desired to view it would be given an opportunity between and 10 o'clock this morning. Hundreds satisfied their morbid curiosity.

The remains were interred about noon in the grave which had been dug for them behind the jail. The town is full of country people, who seem to be wandering aimlessly about. Sheriff Van Blarcom has been served with papers demanding an autopsy o Wheeler's body on the grounds that he was under an opiate at the time of the exe-

There is nothing new in Wheeler's confession. He admits his guilt, and says he committed the crime after midnight on Jan. 27. He says he is 27 years old, and was born at Port Louis, Mauritius.
