

NORTHBERLAND MUNICIPAL COUNCIL.

Coun. Morrison submitted Inspector Menzies' report and vouchers, and the justice returns on Scott Act cases. The report shows that 81 prosecutions were instituted during the year, in which there were 58 convictions for first offences and three for second offences. The report concludes as follows:—
'The violations of the Act continue to decrease, and the results of the past year, as well as of the preceding years, show that notwithstanding the violent opposition to it on the part of some, the Act can be made a success and be enforced in this county as successfully as the majority of the acts on the statute book.'
Coun. Betts moved that the committee's report be adopted.
Coun. Cunningham thought it best to know more about it than they did now. There was a very small dividend for the county and nothing at all after paying the salary.
Coun. Morrison explained the account in detail.
Coun. Cunningham replied that as far as he could see the county was getting no return. He would like to know how much was received under the license law, and compare it with the results of this one.
Coun. J. Sullivan said it was not necessary to procure that information. That whole matter had been threshed out in Council before. The Scott Act was not for revenue but sobriety, and it was well enforced. He had been here when $2,400 a year was received for liquor licenses, and the taxation was higher than now. He received money with one hand for license and paid it out with the other for criminal prosecutions and the support of paupers. The people felt better satisfied to be as clear of liquor as possible.
Coun. Morrison said it was the privilege of every councillor to ask for information in regard to each and every item, and he would be pleased to answer all questions to the best of his ability and give all the information in his possession.
Coun. Mersereau asked how much better the account was than last year.
Coun. Morrison said it was $130 better, besides the reduction of $250 in the assessment.
Report adopted.
The Inspector's report was filed and the returns of Justices McCulley, Fraser, and Niven passed. Sec-Treasurer with Scott Act fund, $2,022.08, passed; also Inspector Menzies' account, $1,390.90.
Coun. Morrison moved to pay the Inspector half year salary due $250.
Coun. Cunningham said it ought to have been included in his account. This would lessen the balance and leave nothing to the credit of the county. Coun. Morrison explained that in the statement he had read, and the balance was as already given.
Passed.
Coun. Kerr moved that the account of the secretary of Chatham Fire and Street Commission pass.
Carried.
Coun. Kerr moved that Inspector Menzies be reappointed for one year.
Coun. Cunningham—At what salary?
Coun. Kerr—I'm not saying anything about salary just now.
Carried.
Coun. Morrison—I move that the Inspector's salary be $500.
Coun. Cunningham said it would be well to take this into serious consideration. A large amount of money was annually collected and given to three or four, the county getting no benefit. He would give the whole business to the Inspector, to collect the fines and pay the lawyers, and make all he could out of it. We waste two to three days over the accounts every year, and make nothing out of it for the county.
Coun. Cunningham said it would be well to take this into serious consideration. A large amount of money was annually collected and given to three or four, the county getting no benefit. He would give the whole business to the Inspector, to collect the fines and pay the lawyers, and make all he could out of it. We waste two to three days over the accounts every year, and make nothing out of it for the county.
Coun. Robertson said if they acted on Coun. Cunningham's idea the Inspector would not make much. Mr. Menzies was a credit to the county, his work had been done faithfully and he was entitled to his salary and expenses.
Coun. J. Sullivan said fines were taken only from violators of the law. It was of no use to kick against the law. Kicking against a law was not the way to get it repealed, even though it were a bad law. It was not the sign of a good citizen to kick against and obstruct the laws of his country. If the men who pay the fines did not violate the law they could keep the money in their pockets. This tax is not on the county but on those who sell liquor illegally. Let them look out and not violate the law if they did not want to pay the fines.
Coun. Cunningham said the gentleman from Hardwick had gone further than he ought to have gone, and had virtually accused him (Coun. C.) of wanting to violate the laws of his country. He begged to inform that gentleman that he had not been drunk in the 18 years of his residence on the Miramichi, nor on the defaulters' list, nor in the lockup, nor had he been convicted of any violation of law. He believed the Scott Act to be wrong, though it might do a certain amount of good. All he wanted was fair play. He did not believe Mr. Sullivan or any other man should take the right to say what another man should eat or drink. If he wanted to have a luxury, and could pay for it, he had a perfect right to it. He wanted to know this—Would the Inspector come here and swear that he did not drink liquor?
The Warden—That is not the resolution. Please speak to the resolution.
Coun. Cunningham—I think I'm in order, Mr. Warden. I think it is in the resolution. The resolution covers everything relating to drinking (laughter.) Coun. Cunningham proceeded to say that he denied that the law had lessened crime. There had been more perjury, and more criminal prosecutions since the act was passed than before, and he could prove it. It was hard when he couldn't get a glass of ale or Salvador and the gentleman in charge of the Scott Act get as much drunk of any kind as he liked.

Coun. J. Sullivan said he was more than sorry that Coun. Cunningham thought he had accused him of anything wrong. He was surprised that the Chatham Coun. had drifted away so far. He had never said that Coun. Cunningham had been intoxicated and had never been himself.
Passed.
Coun. Hayes moved that the inspector's salary be paid out of the fines collected for 1896 and there be no assessment.
Coun. Flett moved that an assessment of $250 be ordered.
Coun. Ryan said if there was money enough on hand, with what was to be collected, an assessment would not be needed.
The Council divided on the motion to order the assessment, as follows: Yes—Whitney, Brown, Tozer, Russell, Mersereau, Betts, Scofield, Lyons, Morrison, Kerr, Flett, Williston, Gaudet, Richard, J. Sullivan, Robertson—16; Nays: D. P. Sullivan, Cunningham, Cameron, Ullock, Hays, Johnston—6.
On motion of Coun. Morrison the following Newcastle returns passed: David Clark, dis. clerk, $4; Alex. Jessamin, do. do.; James Fox, bye-road com'r (no vouchers); John Delaney and Timothy Conolly, collectors of rates; John Hutchison and John Lyons, highway com'rs.
On motion of Coun. Ullock the list of Glenelg officers passed.
Coun. Kerr moved that Hon. L. J. Tweedie be heard at the bar on the claim of D. Crimmen to a lease of part of the public wharf property, Chatham. Carried.
Mr. Tweedie gave a history of the property, and summed up by saying that it had been leased at public auction by a committee of the Council appointed for that purpose; that Mr. Crimmen bought a lot and paid the purchase money; that he had applied for his lease and had not received it. He now applied for it once more. On what grounds would the Council refuse to grant it?
Coun. Morrison said he agreed with Mr. Tweedie up to a certain point. He argued that the committee had exceeded its powers and that the Council should not be bound by its acts. No upset price had been put on the lots. He went quite fully into the case and held that it was in the interest of Chatham to withhold the lease.
Mr. Tweedie said the purchaser was not affected by anything that had been alleged. He made a bona fide purchase and asked that it be ratified. No attempt was made to say that the committee had no authority to sell. He could compel the Council to issue the lease, but he did not want litigation, his client wanted his rights. He would tell them as a lease to issue to Mr. Crimmen his client had a legal remedy. The Council could be compelled by mandamus to issue it and to pay damages.
Coun. Kerr explained that he had been one of a committee to lay out the property in lots and lease it. It was the road-commissioner who laid out the street through it, not the committee. This Council had appointed a committee to sell the leases illegally. On account of the action so taken, ignorantly, costs of $278 had been incurred, which had been made a first lien on the revenue from the property. The firewards wanted the lease of the lot they had purchased as much as Mr. Crimmen wanted his, and he was sure that Chatham would pay such costs as auctioneer's fee and advertising.
Coun. Cunningham said he had a few remarks to make. The wharf should belong to the public. It had been left to the public. Was it legal to either sell or lease it? If public property it should not belong to three or four individuals.
The Sec-Treasurer on being appealed to, said if the sale was bona fide, and carried out legally by the committee, Mr. Crimmen was entitled to his lease. But if it could be shown that the committee had exceeded its powers, or that all the necessary conditions had not been complied with, this would be an answer to a mandamus.
Mr. Tweedie said the Clerk of the Peace should go further and advise the Council whether the sale had been conducted properly and legally or not.
Coun. Morrison reminded the Council that the committee had sold the property for $2 a year only, though it had sold for a respectable sum the previous year. The committee had laid out a road which they had no authority to do.
Coun. Kerr—It was the road com'r not the committee who did that.
Coun. Morrison—What right had the commissioner to do that without complying with the form as prescribed by law?
Mr. Tweedie—There is a public slip there, and it carries with it the right of way. The committee sold a portion of the property to my client, and he wants it, we are entitled to it. No matter how the property was divided. What's that to do with it? My client bought one of the lots and paid for it. Is it not better to grant him his rights than to compel him to take legal proceedings to secure them?
Coun. Flett agreed with Mr. Tweedie. It seemed to be a bona fide sale, and the Council should grant the leases and be done with it. If anyone makes a sale and accepts money on it he must abide by it. It was no use carrying on this discussion year after year.
Coun. Scofield—I move the lease be granted.
Coun. Mersereau—I second it.
Coun. Betts carried a committee had been appointed by the last Council to defend a threatened suit for this lease. It would not be treating the committee properly to take the matter off their hands in this way without a report from them. The property should pay the expenses that had been incurred on account of it. If it were held on to while longer it would reimburse all the expenses that had been incurred. Coun. Kerr had offered to assume part of the expenses. Let him alone awhile and he might offer to assume the whole.

Mr. Tweedie argued that there was nothing in Coun. Betts' point about the committee. It had no power now. The committee died with the Council that had appointed it.
Coun. Ryan asked if the land would belong to the town of Chatham under incorporation.
Mr. Tweedie said not necessarily, but if the town took the land he thought it only fair that it pay all charges against it and he would ask the Legislature to so enact.
Coun. Morrison said Mr. Crimmen had given notice of legal proceedings, and the Council had appointed a committee to take legal advice and defend the suit. When the Council did this it had all the facts before it. That committee had still full power to act. If Mr. Tweedie could assure the Council of the reimbursements of all costs that had been incurred—not by the Council's fault only, as the Chatham Councillors were the ones who were most at fault—the lease would be issued. His contention was that the committee that had sold the property did not carry out instructions. Why should Coun. Kerr offer to pay part of the expenses if not all? The expenses that had been incurred should be paid back as required by the act.
Mr. Tweedie said there were two things to be considered—first, Is Mr. Crimmen entitled to his lease? second, Where is the money to come from for the payment of expenses already incurred? Mr. Crimmen was interested only in the first proposition, and not in the second.
Coun. Ryan moved to postpone till July session.
Coun. Flett—What's the object of laying it over from January to July and from July to January?
The division on the motion to postpone was as follows: Yes—Ryan, Whitney, Pond, Brown, Tozer, Johnston, Russell, Betts, Gaudet, Richard, Cunningham, Morrison, J. Sullivan, Williston, Ullock—15. Nays—Hays, Flett, Mersereau, N. Scofield, Lyons, Kerr, Cameron, Robertson—8.
On motion of Coun. Kerr the Chatham list of officers (with the exception of one of the police committee) passed.
Coun. Kerr moved that J. D. B. F. Mackenzie be the third member of the police committee.
Coun. Cunningham said he was sorry he couldn't agree with Mr. Kerr. Mr. Mackenzie was a licensed vendor under the Scott Act, and also implicated in the lighting of the town—a service that cost $1100 a year. He had offered his colleague the choice of W. C. Winslow, John McDonald or W. T. Harris, three good men. He nominated W. C. Winslow.
Coun. Kerr said he had thought to avoid this unpleasantness. He and Mr. Cunningham shook hands on Mr. Mackenzie, and subsequently Mr. C. had told him that Mr. M. was disqualified as a liquor vendor. He had ascertained that that was no disqualification. Coun. Cunningham had also asserted that Mr. Mackenzie was interested in the lighting contract, but he was assured that this was incorrect. He (Coun. Kerr) had suggested Robt. Anderson, but he wouldn't suit Coun. Cunningham. He (Coun. K.) wanted a man who would be just and right in the enforcement of the Scott Act. So as to avoid any wrangle or doubt on the matter of qualification, he would withdraw the name of Mr. Mackenzie and substitute that of Robert H. Anderson.
Coun. Cunningham spoke in support of his nominee and of the other two gentlemen he had proposed, and claimed that there was no better temperance man in the county than himself.
The names were put to the Council and R. H. Anderson was elected.
On motion of Coun. Hayes the returns of Thos. Ambrose, col. justice, passed.
On motion of Coun. Betts it was ordered that Councillors be paid the usual mileage.
On motion of Coun. Morrison the list of parish officers for Newcastle, as agreed to by himself and his colleague, passed.
It was ordered that Inspector Menzies be heard at the bar, and he advanced to the railing and addressed the Council on the difficulty he got into with Constable Hill, who had trumped up illegal charges against the county, sued him on them, and put him to the expense of defending the suit. He had thought it right to defend the county from the illegal charges. A verdict had been given against him (Mr. Menzies) through its not having been shown to the jury that the charges were illegal. He had carried the case to the Supreme Court, and the plaintiff had abandoned the suit, paid his own costs and signed a document confessing that the charges had been trumped up. He felt that the Municipality should remunerate him for the expenses he had been put to, and was perfectly satisfied that the good sense and honesty of the Council would give it to him. The amount was $187.55.
Coun. Scofield moved that the amount be paid out of the Scott Act fund.
Coun. Cunningham remarked that this should have gone into the other expenses of the Inspector. He had as much right to take this as he had to take all the rest.
Coun. J. Sullivan asked if they were justified in paying this. Hill had made a claim against Menzies, SAFETY FOR OUR GIRLS.

Paine's Celery Compound makes New and Pure Blood, Gives Strong Nerves, and Builds up the Body.

Medical men everywhere admit that Paine's Celery Compound is the best medicine for pale, weak, and sickly girls. It builds up wasted tissues, makes pure blood, and produces strong nerves, enabling girls to reach healthy and perfect womanhood.
Mrs. Boulanger, of St. Henry, Montreal, saved her daughter's life by having her use Paine's Celery Compound at a most critical time. The young lady is now one of the healthiest, brightest and most attractive girls of the town. Her mother writes thus about the wonderful cure:
'My daughter, aged 17 years, has for a long time been in a weak state of health, so much so that she was not able to do any work about the house, and often was unable to comb her own hair; this has been the case for some years, and I feared she would never be strong.
'I was induced to have her use Paine's Celery Compound. She has used two bottles, and is now a different girl. She is not only able to wait on herself, but often does the whole of the housework, and promises to be as strong as a girl of her age should be.'

not against the county. He was in Menzies' employment.
Coun. Scofield said they needed only to consider whether the Council had a right to pay the costs incurred in defending the suit.
Coun. Cameron argued that as the court had sustained the plaintiff, the Council should not over-ride it by practically sustaining the defendant. It should be left to the court had decided it. The fact that the plaintiff was too poor to prosecute the case in the Supreme Court did not alter the fact that a judicial tribunal had tried the case, considered the law and evidence fully and found for the plaintiff. The Council should not act in disregard of that judgment.
Coun. Kerr moved to refer it to a committee of five, to report in July. Carried. The following committee was chosen—Cunningham, Kerr, Tozer, Hayes, Morrison.
Coun. Betts submitted the report of the committee on the Rogersville protest, declaring the election void, in consequence of irregularities on the part of the parish clerk.
Adopted, on motion of Coun. Tozer.
Coun. Flett tendered his resignation as a member of the Jail committee, and a new Jail committee was chosen, as follows—John Shireff, John Morrissey and Coun. Morrison.
On motion of Coun. Ryan, John Niven, col. justice, 1894, Northesk was ordered to make returns in July.
Coun. Ryan and Coun. Morrison moved that constables Smallwood and Irvine be paid $6 each for attendance. Carried.
Coun. Morrison said it would be well to direct the Jail committee to repair the walls of the Council Chamber.
Coun. Kerr moved that the committee be ordered to have the walls painted.
Coun. Betts suggested that it would be cheaper to paper them.
Coun. Kerr changed his resolution, so that it ordered the committee to repair the Council Chamber and committee rooms according to the wisdom of the committee.
Coun. Betts, from the contingent com., reported in favor of assessing $3,500, and moved that the assessment be ordered. There was $900 less to the credit of the fund this year than last, but he thought this would be sufficient. Carried.
Coun. Betts said there had been no valuation of the county in ten years, and many changes had occurred in that period, some parishes having increased and some decreased. If the Sec-Treasurer would make a comparative statement, based on assessment list, the next Council would have something to guide it in adjusting the scale of assessment on the several parishes. Other counties had valuations made every five or ten years.
Coun. Morrison asked if it would be legal, if the Council could agree to it, to make a new scale of assessment. It was time that something should be done.
The Sec-Treasurer said they had better follow the law, make an official valuation, and do justice to all parties.
Coun. Morrison said if the Sec-Treasurer would provide a list of parish valuations the Council would have something to work on.
Coun. J. Sullivan thought it would be well to talk the matter over at present but not incur any additional expense this year.
Coun. Betts moved that a committee of three be appointed to have access to the assessment valuations for 1895 and report at the July session. Carried.
The reporter's bill of $240 passed.
Coun. Kerr was called to the chair, and Coun. Morrison moved a vote of thanks to the Warden for the able and efficient manner in which he had discharged his duties. Carried by acclamation.
The Warden thanked the Council heartily for the vote of thanks, and said he felt he had more reason to thank the Councillors for the courteous and considerate way in which they had used him. The business of the session had been carried on in an harmonious manner, and each was ready to warmly shake hands with all, there being no ill-feeling among the members in consequence of anything that had been said or done during the session. Again he thanked them.
The Warden resumed the chair.
Coun. Kerr moved a vote of thanks to the Sec-Treasurer for his uniform and unflinching kindness and courtesy to members, no matter how much or how often they interrupted his labors by asking questions, two or three of them at a time.
Carried unanimously.
Mr. Thompson said he could assure them he duly appreciated the vote of thanks he had received as their officer. It had been the desire and ambition of his life to perform his duties efficiently, and he had done so to the best of his ability. After having served them
