Perhaps if he had a virtue at all it was in his steadfastness in his party Everybody knew that he was a Liberal in Dominion politics. He trusted he had been equally consistent in respect of his attitude in local politics. From his Tuesday evening Dickens proved an alibi and earliest connection with provincial affairs it had been his contention that Dominion party lines should not govern. A question of tariff, or as to the fiscal policy of the Dominion surely had no relevancy in questions involved under the management of our Crown Lands and the maintenance of our roads and bridges. That had been the doctrine preached by him ever since he was in local politics and his conduct had corresponded therewith. Where he then stood he stood to-day in that respect. He was willing to admit that it was possible for questions to arise which might involve principles affecting men from the standpoint of liberalism or conservatism. If they ever should arise, then it might be necessary for our Assembly representatives to divide on those Such a question, however, never had arisen and was not likely to do a) and he saw no reason to-day, any more than in the past, why there should be a division in local politics on Dominion lines, hood of such necessity. Some newspapers claimed that a Conservative leader-even with Liberal colleagues -made a Conservative administration. The same papers had not held that a Liberal leader, with Conservative colleagues made a Liberal administration. Such a contention was absurd on its face.

In the selection of their present leader the members composing the local Government were unanimous. Fitted by ability. perience and long service Mr. Mitchell was position and entitled to have it. They proposed to stand loyally by him and their hope -a hope in which he believed members of the Legislature and their conatituents shared—was that he might long be spared to fill the high office to which he had been called by unanimous consent and for which he was eminently qualified.

If anyone, said Mr. Emmerson, is concerned with respect to my humble opinion on this question, let there be no misunderstanding-I am not in sympathy with the proposition that local politics should governed by Dominion issues or prejudices and my political conduct will be governed accordingly. I am willing to support any man who may be the selection of the representatives of the people, no matter whether he be called Liberal or Conservative. The toasts were loudly cheered, 'For He's a Jolly Good Fellow' was sung after every one of them except The Queen, and the party was as jolly and merry a one as ever picnicked on a Miramichi steamer.

On parting at Call's wharf the Chatham men assembled on the upper deck and sang "Auld Lang Syne" and the Newcastle men gave three cheers for Messrs. #### A Boiestown Assault Case.

An interesting assault case was tried before Police Magistrate Niven of Newcastle on Friday, 29th ult. Henry Bloodsworth was the complainant and William Campbell the defendant. Both parties reside in Boies. town, the complainant being engaged at Duffy's Hotel, and the defendant being a well known merchant and assistant postmaster. It appeared that defendant had engaged the Foresters' Hall from Mr. H. H. Gunter for a concert troupe and the first performance was to be held on Wednesday evening, 24th, June. On the afternoon of that day Mr. Campbell assisted by Mr. Walter Irvine, was making the Hall ready for the evening. As they were carrying out a deal table from the hall Mr. Bloodsworth appeared on the scene and them to put the table back in the hall. Bloodsworth claimed that angry words then passed between him and Campbell and that the latter produced a hammer and attempted to hit him with it, and that he had to get out of the way to avoid being hit. Both Mr. Campbell and Mr. Irvine denied that either of them had a hammer outside of the hall on that occasion and, further stated that Mr. Campbell declined to have any conversation with Bloodsworth.

The magistrate was unable to place any credence in the story of complainant and dismissed the case with costs against Bloodsworth, who will probably not come so far for law again with such a poor case.

The matter of sewerage was brought up and caused considerable discussion. Ald Loggie advocates a general sewerage system but this would involve a large expenditure of money. The idea was not entertained. Ald. Nicol moved as follows :- Resolved that the public works committee be authorized to construct a sewer on Water Street if the owners or occupiers of land fronting thereon shal first deposit in the hands of the treasurer of the town an amount equal to half of the estimated cost to be fixed by the public works committee, and any excess of one half of the cost to be paid back pro rata to such owners and occupiers when

Ald. Nicol moved, seconded by Ald. Bennett, that Mr. Ronald's letter be ferred to the Town Firewards and for them to make some recommendation in the matter and report at next meeting of the Council. Carried.

Ald. #### The Reason Why Some Dealers Sel Poor Dyes.

Many ladies have been deceived by the imitation dyes so often sold by some dealers and druggists, ask the question : "Why will Ald. Bennett said Mr. Fish, the surveyor, these merchants persist in selling us dyes

This question is easily answered. The dealers who sell these common dyes do so much less than the celebrated Diamond Dyes cost, and they are sold to the ladies at the same price, ten cents per packet. The dealers in this way make long, big profits, while the deceived consumer must suffer loss at every time of using.

Dealers know well that the Diamond Dyes are the only true and warranted colors, but the love of gain is too great to allow them to treat the public honestly. The ladies can soon compel dealers to do what is honest and right if they insist every time upon getting the Diamond Dyes. You can always find one dealer in your town that is anxious to sell dyes that will give entire satisfaction.

A Fearful Hanging.

A despatch to the New York World from London says there is some stir there over ar accident which occurred at the recent execution of three murderers. Fowler. Seaman and Millsom, at Newgate. Billington was the hangman, having as his assistant Wilk. inson, of Bolton. Fowler was the first to undergo the process of pinioning, and to be They imported one of the greatest Indian placed upon the drop, Seaman coming next, and Millsom last. The chaplain, reading and that individual has been performing the the burlal service, reached the solemn words, "In the midst of life we are in death," at the exact moment that the assistant was strapping the legs of Millsom. The words quoted are usually the notification of the sheriff to give the signal of death, and they gave it. Wilkinson's hands were still busy with the straps about Millsom's feet as Billington pulled the lever, and convict and assistant hangman fell through the trap together. Then ensued a horrible scene. Shooting head foremost down. Wilkinson, to save his own neck, for the dull depth of the pit is over 20 feet, clung to the legs of the unhappy culprit, and swung there with him, until Millsom was

Lost in the Woods.

Mrs. Marshall King, who lives on the Hanwell road about 9 miles from town, was the cause of much alarm to her husband and friends on Friday last. Quite early on the morning of that day she took her five months old child and started off to the blueberry plain, about three miles distant, for a pail of berries. She had the pail full by noon and started for home. But she had completely lost her bearings and was forced to sleep in the woods all night. She reached a clearing next day about noon, where she met friends in search of her. There was great rejoicing Her friends were afraid they would never find her aiive, and she, herself, was about giving up in despair. [Gleaner.
