DAINTY SUMMER GOWNS.

Being Made for the Season. Recent warm days have tended to focus the attention of women of fashion upon their summer muslins. Easter suits are things of the past, evening gowns are dropping for the present into the background, and the most bewitching products of the modiste's art are the diaphanous affairs that suggest tropical midsummer and delicious leisure by seaside or mountain. Probably the dressmaker would say that the most important point of these airy summer gowns is the silk foundation, but this is not so apparent to the uninitiated. Silk foundation, however, there certainly must be, and these would often make very effective gowns by themselves. The only exception is in the case of a tulle foundation, which was recently used with a dainty lace gown. The skirt, of finest muslin, richly trimmed with ecru lace insertion, was rather scanty, but was cut block fashion at the bottom, to allow the flutings of canary colored plisse tulle to peep through. At the bottom the yellow tulle flew out gaily below the lace, while still more went to form the front of the bod-

Yellow is a favorite color among the daintiest summer gowns, possibly from the fact that discerning costumers have at last discovered that yellow is almost the only color equally becoming to women of fair and dark complexions. It is often used, however, in peculiarly odd combinations. Yellow, violet and rose is a not altogether unhappy combination affected in some of the Parisian costumes, the effect being very novel.

Persian designs are very commonly seen among the thin as among the heavial of a gown. Persian embroideries or ribbons brighten up a gown wonderfully, while a soft clinging white gown is given an air of its own by a deep Persian border to the skirt and a wide belt to match. Skirts of the summer gowns are much trimmed. The sight of a plain, unadorned muslin skirt has proved rather too much for the feminine love of decoration to endure, and what the woman of fashion has suffered through her plain winter skirts she is compensating for by her elaborate summer ones. Some of the dainty organdies are given the overskirt effect by the curving lace flounces which parallel flounces are not so new, they are often seen. Lace is scattered broadcast over the summer gowns. All the filmy patterns that women have been hoarding for years have been brought out this spring to meet the demands of organdies and linens and lawns. No one can deny that the result is exceedingly pretty. Lace was used most effectively on one of the new summer taffetas in shaded greens. There were falls of deep lace from the collar and from beneath the shoulder epaulets, while the front panel of the skirt, which was exquisitely embroidered in apple blossoms, was outlined by jabots extending the entire length. The final touch was given this dainty costnme by the sprays of apple blossoms which were embroidered here and there upon the

Where lace is considered too extravagant, it is gratifying to know that simple ribbon trimming is as much in vogue as ever. And whatever the age of the wearer, the style of ribbon trimming is much the same. A wide taffeta sash, bows on the shoulder, stock collar and bows on the skirt, are about all that is necessary. Madras linen gowns, which are too dull in color to be becoming to many complexions, almost require trimming of this sort of a color to match the silk lining. Some very pretty fancies in sleeves are being shown. Muslin sleeves are puffed endlessly with very charming effect. A new style is very long, with coarse shirring on the outside, alternated with lace. The plain full sleeve is not so much

A GARDEN HAT Large black leghorn, trimmed with black and white illusion and black ostrich feathers.

A Holy Oil, The love of the marvelous in the thirteeenth century was not less remarkable in this age than in those which had preceded it. In the old French account we read of new wonders in Palestine not mentioned before, and of the Sinai convent we learn that"there lies St. Catherine, virgin and martyr, in a very fair marble tomb, which tomb is so holy that a sort of oil from it heals many ills, and the grace of God is shown, in that many wild beasts, which are on that mountain, live on nothing save by licking the tomb of my lady St. Catherine and by the manna which falls on the mountain." At Tortosa also was now shown St. Luke's portrait of Our Lady, and at Sardenai a Syriac monastery on a rock north of Damascus was the miraculous image of the Virgin, which distilled oil from its breast. By special treaty the Templars were allowed to visit the shrine and collect the oil, which was in high repute and sold for a great price in Europe. It is often mentioned in the inventories

Knowledge of Grammar Not Necessary, One is sorry to see that English literature is to be introduced by English grammar, a certain method of rendering it unpopular. The grammar should be learned through the literature, and indeed in its technical and gerund grinding sense does not require to be learned at all. Useful Petticoats, Light-weight moreen, if cut to flare at the bottom, will extend the dress skirt in the fashionable way. Inexpensive mohair in black and colors makes a light and durable petticoat. Sateen and gingham petticoats are used for wash dresses.

Too Much Luxury. A Lewiston woman who felt dangers of the cola snap put four hot bricks in the bed Wednesday, and then Going out of the Business. opening the sheets, introduced the perishable provisions, such as potatoes, onions, apples, etc. The bricks were too hot, set the bed afire, roasted the potatoes, stewed the onions, baked the apples, called out the Fire Department and frizzled the everyone.

Superfluous Hair. Some women are annoyed with hair growing on their faces. I can hardly dame a woman for using every mean possible for rectifying this trouble. Have on ever heard of the old fashioned mode getting rid of superfluous hairs? This ould hardly be used upon the face, although there are women venturesome enough to try it. It consists of singeing cover the entire skirt. While the plain them off. Once this process has been used, it is said, "they never return." I saw a plump pair of arms singed a week ago. An overgrowth of hair spoiled their prettiness and compelled the fair stomach and blood troubles. For sale one to cling to long sleeves in all her by all dealers. Price 25 cents. A slight irritation was quickly removed by an application of cold cream. Avoid all fat and greasy feed if you wish to obtain a clear complexion, and take plenty of exercise. Gargle the throat night and morning to ward off disease and have the blood in a pure state, and last, but not least, do away with all cos metics, such as rouge, paint, etc. The refined women of to-day do not make up their faces. The girl stamped with a refined beauty all her own is the one who wears her pretty hair in a nat- la Jewelery and Watch repairing establishment on ural style and does not rouge her cheeks. or about the India ink her brows and lashes or paint her lips. Now, when it is said that "she does not use any of these artificial aids to beauty," it does not mean that she makes no effort to help nature by every means in her power, but she does it in nature's own way.
