One of the most serious operations in surgery, that of "Abdominal section and Colotomy," was performed at Hotel Dieu, by Dr. John S. Benson, on a patient between 60 and 76 years of age. The patient, who could not have survived more than 24 hours without surgical interference, is now convalescing rapidly. Considering the ad vanced age and general weak condition, the operation has been most successful.

It was performed four weeks ago, and was the first of that kind ever undertaken on the North Shore.

The case of Rev. Mr. Thompson of Bathurst.

The meeting of the Presbytery of Mirami ini at Bathurst, to reopen the matter of the charges against Rev. A. F. Thompson, the pastor of St. Luke's Church at that place. was held on Tuesday, and was a very stormy and unpleasant one. The charges were the same as those preferred before the committee of presbytery which investigated them last month and-as before-they were read by Dr. G. M. Duncan. Both sides were heard, and not much that was new was developed, although the accused minister was very unmanly in a certain portion of his defence, in which a lady was involved. and it was a comment of many that a horsewhip was about the only argument that should be put forward to meet his contemptible statements.

The whole matter will, we understand, be fully and officially reported, so that it is sufficient to say the decision of the Presbytery was to unanimously sustain the report of the committee, the justice of which Mr. Thomson had challenged. The report was "Your committee met according to appointment in St. Luke's Church, Bathurst, on the 12th day of April, 1898, with Rev. A. F. Thomson and petitioners and others in relation to the unsatisfactory condition of matters existing in the congregation.

After a careful and thorough investigation into the state of affairs, we found matters in a very unsatisfactory condition indeed, and it seemed to us, that the investigation, instead of healing had rather a tendency to widen the breach. A good deal of recriminations passed between the parties concerned and taunts of untruthfulness passed between pastor and people. After hearing all parties we gave what advice we deemed necessary in the circumstances and did our utmost to effect christian reconciliation between pastor and petitioners; we failed entirely in our efforts, for com plainants declared they could on no account back to the congregation, while Mr. Thomson continued pastor.

After long and mature deliberation, the ommittee unanimously came to the conclusion to advise Mr. Thomson to tender his resignation of the charge. Mr. Thomson being called before the committee and informed of this resolution stated that he was not prepared to acquiesce in this decision Therefore, your committee now ask the Presbytery to receive their report and take what action they may deem essential in the

It may be added that the Presbytery advises the reverend gentleman to resign at once.

At Point du Chene to-day Jas. Owen Hamill, according to the general opinion of those who knew him personally, was a quiet inoffensive man about 45 years It will be remembered that he was ound dead in a box car on the wharf which had been utilized for a coal shed. The unfortunate man left his home at the head was furnished by the company's orchestra of the wharf about eight o'clock in the morning saying to his sister that he was going down to the wharf to fish smelts. Ex-Governor Garcelon of Maine, 86 years old, is auxious to meet the Spaniards on a battleship, where he has volunteered to serve his country as a surgeon, and Mr. Thomas Allen, 106 years old, of Flemington, West Virginia, has enlisted in a regiment that is to be sent to Cuba. Mr. Allen is of English birth and fought in the Crimean and Mexican wars and the war of the rebellion. These circumstances are not mentioned to show how patriotic Mr. Garcelon and Mr. Allen are, but to illustrate the possibilities of human life. They are as vigorous and active as the average man of forty or fifty, yet they have never drank of the fountain of youth. Doubtless they came of good stock, have lived cleanly lives, have been moderate in their desires and appetites, and so bid fair to die of old age unless they are struck down by a Spanish bullet.

Last fall forty sea trout were secured and stripped at the Dominion government hatchery on North Shore. The yield was over 30,000 ova, of which about 25,000 survived. Mr Smith took to Loch Lomond 20,000 of the fry and deposited one half in the little brook that empties into the first lake near Alex. Johnston's. The other half was put in Duck Creek, near James Kane's, on the second lake. Screens have been placed on both streams, so that the fish cannot get nto the lakes until fall. Soon after I first came here I picked up a paper from my state and saw it asserted in a letter from Washington that my colleague and myself had met and arranged a slate, and that all the patronage for the state would be distributed according to that arrangement. "There was no warrant for the statement, and I made inquiries for the correspondent. He came to see me and proved to be a bright and most agreeable young man. I asked him for his authority, and he pleasantly refused to give it, but said that he had every faith in his informant. To that I replied that all I would ask, then, would be the privilege of denying the story-of putting my statement against the other. He said that was only fair and that he would attend to the matter. "When the correction appeared. read something like this: 'Your correspondent's story about the deal between Senator -- and his colleague, by which the patronage of the state is to be divided between them, has raised quite a stir here. A lady living in an unfashionable street invited a gentleman of leisurely life to her home, because in her simplicity she thought he seemed lonely. He came, and at the close of the evening remarked to her. "I had no idea l should meet so many distinguished people at your house," his voice unconsciously emphasizing the pronoun. In a little book, "About People," Mrs. Kate Gannett Wells gives the following instance of a lack of good manners: Snobbishness is not confined to one set of people. Emphasized by fashion or literary pretensions, it spreads from village to city. It exists in sardine factories and in palatial mansions; it is met with at picnics and dances as well as at dinner or conversation parties. The links are close. One of Boston's oldest families gave a reception. Two scions of other old said, "I'll introduce you to those ladies opposite," and he moved toward them. "Excuse us," said one of the men: "the ladies are of a peasant style of beauty; it is hardly worth while." The host bowed low in recognition of their farseeing power, adding, "Yes, they are my nieces from the country, but I will not trouble you." No apology would be receive, though one was eagerly offered.

LAW OF SELF DEFENSE.

The English Theory of Where Protection Ends and Revenge Begins. The right of self defense is by some It is rumored that the D. & R. steamers eld writers declared to be inherent in these "natural rights" are all very well, but they are not recognized by the law of Great Britain. It is the law that a man may defend himself, his wife, child or servant from physical aggression. He may also repel by force a forcible attack upon his property. When you, or your wife, child, or servant is attacked, or threatened with violence in such a manner as reasonably to lead you to believe that violence is about to be used, you may resist the aggressor. And as the best mode of resistance is very often to attack, you may lawfully follow the advice given by an old prizefighter to a pupil-i. e., "get in the first whack. But self defense must be moderate. It must not be totally disproportioned to the attack. For instance, if a hulking ruffian runs at me with a knife. I may shoot him. But if he runs at me merely with his fists clinched, and I shoot him dead with a revolver. I shall probably be hanged by the neck. Not that the law expects a man to be calm and cool and collected in all circum stances. By no means. For instance, if the said burly ruffian rushes at me with clinched fists, evidently meaning mischief, and I his him with a heavy stick on the back of the ear, I may kill him. But I shall not be hanged for that. I had a right to use the stick, and in the circumstances I am not to be supposed to be cool enough to aim for a spot not likely to be fatal. Again, self defense must not develop into revenge. Thus, if I am threatened with a knife, and by the timely display of a pistol I frighten my assailant so that he runs away, I must not shoot after him. If I do, I am just as liable as though he had never threatened me, because I shoot at him not in self defense, but by way of punishment or revenge.—Family Lawyer.
