to be opened to-day by Lt.-Governor in the recently-elected representatives of the different constituencies, a larger number of supporters than any administration since confederation has donea fact that speaks well for its management of provincial affairs. Mr. George Robertson, of St. John, is to move the address in reply to His Honor's speech, and those who know him anticipate an effort second to none that has been made on any former occasion of the kind. The indications are that the session will not be one of great length. The Latest Senatorial Appointment.

The choice of a Dominion Senator! for New Brunswick, to fill the vacancy created by the death of the late Hon. M. Adams, of Northumberland, has fallen upon Mr. Peter McSweeney of who know Mr. McSweeney will congratulate Westmorland on having been have received

While saving this, however, we would fail in our duty to the four northern counties of New Brunswick if we did not express their prevailing sentiment, that the ignoring of their claim to have this Senatorship held by a resident of one of them is evidence that the government is willing to sacrifice their rights to political exigencies. It cannot be denied that when a certain number of Senators were allotted to each province by the British North America Act, it was understood that in selecting them due regard should be had to equitable representation of the different sections. This understanding was carried out in this province at the time of confederation and ever since. until now. It has remained for the present administration at Ottawa set up the principle that the rights of the people of the North Shore of New Brunswick to proper representation in the Senate are to be ignored, and although they comprise more than quarter of the population of the province they must be contented with senator out of the ten to which New Brunswick is entitled

The government organ at Moncton says that "the position belongs by courtesy to the Irish Catholic minority." With that proposition the ADVANCE agrees. But, is it possible that the Irish Catholics of the North Shore are to be told that they haven't a man for the position, and that it was necessarv to go down to the county of Westmorland which had already two senators, to fill this vacancy? That seems to be the position of affairs, and it is a very humilisting one to our people.

A Hotel Horrer

Flames which originated from the gniting of a lace curtain upon which a cigarette smoker had thrown a lighted match burst forth from the second floor of the Windsor Hotel, at corner of Forty-seventh street and Fifth avenue, New York, shortly after and in a few minutes they had leaped up to the roof and enveloped the entire Fifth avenue and Forty-seventh st. fronts of the structure. Ten minutes later the flames were roaring through the interior of the hotel, and all means of escape by the stairways and elevators were cut off, and there was the wildest scene of excitement within of guests and employees were in the hotel when the fire broke out, and for many of them escape with safety was impossible. Probably from fifty to sixty lives were lost within a half-hour, and thirty or forty persons were injured in jumping from windows and in rushing through the roaring flames in the corridors and on the stairways. Many who were injured died later at near-by residences and at the hospitals. and others who made wild leaps to the stone sidewalk were so badly injured Excellency read the following speech that they are still hovering between life and death. From Ottawa.

The opening of Parliament on Thursday last was no less brilliant a function than on any former occasion of the kind in the history of Canada. The political features were, of course, about the same as usual, but there seemed to be an un usual social awakening which indicated popular desire to give eclat to Lord Minto's first official appearance on Parlia ment Hill. An onlooker not versed in the doings of opening day and happening to come upon the great assemblage which crowded the Senate chamber and galleries, would conclude that it was a great Easter millinery opening for the whole Dominion. although he would, of course, be soon undeceived by the booming of the guns outside and the appearance of His Excellency and the attending escorts in their smart uniforms and the other decided evidences that men were directing the pageant, while the ladies, who far outnumbered them, were there-to be admired. They merited all the attention that could be bestowed upon them, for they represented three o'clock last Friday afternoon, the best elements of Canadian society and much of its loveliness, bedecked in credit to the country, the opening of whose with their presence.

adjourned until Monday. On Monday Mr. Bell of East Prince, P. E. I., moved the address in reply to the speech from the throne. He took up the paragraph in the speech which referred to the prosperity of the country. he said, was shown in the increased volume of trade and also the increase revenue. From $239,000,000 of aggre gate trade in 1896 it increased to $324. 000,000 in 1898 or $65,000,000 in tw years. If comparisons were justifiable at that stage of the discussion he would inst say that while the trace of the dominion had only increased $67,000,000 during the 18 years of Conservative rule, it had increased $65,000,000 in the two short years of Liberal administration.

During the past eight months Canada, he said, had kept pace with the extraordinary trade of last year, and already there was an increase of $12,000,000. that at the end of three years there would be an increase of $80,000,000.

Turning to the United States he point ed out that the increase in the trade that country was only 30 per cent in 10 years, while in Canada it was 51 per cent He cited this to show the tremendous strides Canada had taken, and to illustrate, as far as the increased trade serves to do so, that the prosperity of Canada during the last year was 20 times as great as that of the United States. That led him to put to parliament the question, how much more prosperity could Canada obtain from the United States that it did not now enjoy? He said that in the way of an answer to those who hugged the delusion that the prosperity of Canada the most brilliant toilettes and doing depended upon the prosperity of the United States. (Hear! Hear!) In regard to immigration he said that the imperial returns, which he had seen lately, showed that while immigration last year had decreased 10 per cent. with must be preceded by and based upon a cent, with Canada compared with the that 23 per cent, is not that sort of epoch-

Sir Charles Tupper, who followed, declared that the prosperity of the country. which was so fully dealt with in the speech from the throne, was entirely due to the national policy. Referring to the joint high commission, he held that Canada would not obtain anything from hasten slowly, continuing the education, the United States. He said the action of the United States in regard to the Alaskan the uplooking, and do all that wisely as well boundary was such as that the commission as sturdily and the never-tiring toil and should not only be adjourned, but should be terminated. expressing "its strong dissatisfaction at the refusal of the Government to carry out the promise to take such steps as would give effect to the expressed will of the people. I desire to express dissent, as I did on that occasion, but to a still larger constituency. It seems to be assumed that because majority of the vote polled on the 29th of September last was in favor of prohibition that the will of the people was so sufficiently and clearly expressed that legislative action should at once follow, and that if the Government did not apply their strength to it and bring about consequent legislation then they had broken their plighted faith. Nowhere in the Hansard or in the public conferences between the Government and deputations can there be found any promise to introduce legislative action on a simple majority vote. With many other, and humbly believe with most other, prohibitionists, I submit that a vote of 23 per cent, of the whole electorate in favor of prohibition, while 77 per cent, either voted against it or do not care sufficiently about it to vote at all, was not a sufficient expression of the will of the people. In the highest and wisest interests of prohibition we must be fair and reasonable. This great question from every aspect of it invites, nav. mands quiet, thoughtful deliberation from every citizen who favors prohibition or who has his country's best interests at heart During the discussion which preceded the vote the principle was laid down from countless prohibition platforms that a small majority vote would be ineffectual, that there must be a large, sweeping majority, such a majority that expressed in no faltering tone. but clearly and definitely, that Canada demanded-not desired-but demanded prohibition, and when they did that, and until they did that would Parliament speak. No Government or Parliament could, no Government or Farliament would, Government or Parliament should enact present conditions. Prohibition would involve such radical changes in the whole body economic; it would be accompanied by such a cyclonic convulsion in present-day relations and in its effects socially and commercially that it other countries it had increased 20 per cyclonic vote, and I venture the proposition previous year.
