Lop-sided Criticism.

Mr. Hazen was somewhat illogical as well as unjust in the legislature on Thursday last in denying to the Government the credit of the vantageous loan effected by Provincial Secretary Tweedie last winter. He said the excellent price obtained for the bonds "was due to financial and economic reasons that were broader. deeper and more far reaching than any legislation that could be passed by and at various points exhibit like features. this House. Mr. Hazen will admit, however, we think, that the solvency of individuals or governments seeking loans-their management of the business under their control -has much to do with the terms on which they can borrow. an individual or government were believed to be improvident, reckless or corrupt, money-lenders would either refuse them credit or ask a high rate of interest. This is a proposition which no competent authority will gainsay. If, therefore, it is found that New Brunswick and Nova Scotia were placing their bonds on the open market | confirmed. at the same time, and that New Brunswick obtained money at a lower rate than the sister province, is it not fair to infer that there was some cause for it other than Mr. Hazen's "broad financial and economic reasons?" At So many are the applications and of the Province in the world's money market, taken together with the like judgment displayed in the recent general election by the people of the Province, rather disprove the implied charges made by Mr. Hazen and his friends that the government is reckless. corrupt, incompetent and generally unfit for the responsibilities entrusted to

By the way .- People who read the Government, have active sympathisers meaningless resolution in reference to certain bridges in the province, of which Mr. Hazen gave notice the other day in the legislature, are wondering if that is the course he thinks the public will be satisfied with after his long letter in the press just after that humiliating fizzle known as Moncton Convention. There's an old saying about "hauling in his horns' and Mr. Hazen's course appears to be very much in that line. Why did he not make the same charges in the legislature that he did in the Sun, in a straightforward manner and ask for their investigation in the constitutional way It is to be hoped that he will not make the mistake of resorting hereafter to such transparant evasions as resolution in question. It is an obsolete method of "playing to the

The Chatham World made a characteristic attack upon Lieut. Governor Mc-Clelan, because the speech with which he opened the local legislature contained a reference to the advantageous sale of New Brunswick bonds by Provincial Secretary Tweedie a little more than a year ago. Since the writer of the attack became a school trustee, his head has grown enormously, and he poses as a philosopher, financier and statesman of the first rank. Any man, from Lord Salisbury to a hog reeve, who doesn't act according to his notions of what is correct, may expect no mercy at his hands. The foreign policy of the nation, or the cleaning sidewalk are treated with the same oraeular diction, and while nobody is ever commended, the sneer and "I am Sir Oracle" are predominating features of all the wonderful paper's deliver- the Province has received. ances. The critic of sales of colonial securities who would compare those of the Cape of Good Hope and New Brunswick, and ignore those of Nova Scotia sold contemporaneously, and thus endeavor to make a point against the Provincial Secretary over the shoulders of Lieut. Governor McClelan, is quite fit for the position of editor of the World-and that isn't much of compliment. If the comparison had been made between the Dominion and the Cape of Good Hope it might not appear so absurd, but to single out the wealthy Cape-with its area of 277. 000 square miles, its population of about 2,000,000, its diamond, coal and copper mines, its vineyards, its cattle, sheep and ostrich ranches-and compare it with little New Brunswick, is a display of either gross ignorance or vindictive desire to assail the Province and its administration. Even a school trustee ought to know better than that,

New Brunswick's New Gold Field. There seems to be no doubt that there is a very promising outlook for gold miners in the Cross Creek region in York county, about twenty-five miles from Fredericton on the line of the Canada Eastern Railway, Cross Creek, as many of our readers know, is a tributary of the Nashwaak. A number of men who have recently been there have shown us specimens of gold bearing quartz obtained at Cross Creek, which is richer in appearance than specimens which we have seen from the Nova Scotia gold fields, and they are sanguine over the prospects of mining opportunity is afforded for prospecting.

The Canada Eastern Again

A despatch to the Maritime Conservative papers indicates that the few in Chatham who, for political reasons, oppose the acquisition of the Canada Eastern Railway by the Dominion in the upper provinces of the class who have ever been narrow and sectional. The despatch referred to is as follows The Ontario grits had a grievance caucus to-day. Alex. Smith, organizer, was present and endeavored to smooth matters over. That Senatorial Appointment

The Moncton Transcript suggests that someone ought to start a class in geography for the benefit of the ADVANCE because this paper does not class Westmorland amongst the North Shore counties of New Brunswick. Everybody who s acquainted with the subject knows that when North Shore interests are dealt with in the politics of the Province, those of the four northern counties are alone coasidered. It is a new doctrine that Moncton people-of whom Senator McSweeney is one-belong to a North Shore County. Moncton is a Bay of Fundy port and it is only a mind of the peculiar Transcript type that could so far discount public intelligence as to ask it to classify that region as a North Shore one. absurdity, too, of creating a third senator in any one county of the Province is quite sufficient to demonstrate the utte disregard of the government for the principle on which the British North America Act manifestly contemplates that senatorial appointments should be made. The assumption of the government, also, that there is not an Irish Catholic in any one of the North Shore counties fit to be which all the sophistry of the Transcript cannot gloss over, and the less it deavors to do so the better it will be for those for whom it makes its lame defense of the slight that the Northern section of Long Speeches. Sir Charles Tupper appears to be grow ing as reminiscent in his speeches as our old friend, Hon Peter Mitchell. He talked four hours and a half in replying to the mover of the address at the opening of Parliament and this is what the Montreal Witness said of his effort :- "Sir Charles reviewed the history of the Deminion from the beginning of confederation, in 1867, down to the moment in which ended his speech, and finds on the whole, that all the prosperity of the country was owing to the Conservatives and the want of prosperity to the Liberals; that all the Conservatives did was right and wise and all the Liberals did foolish and wrong-the regular old hackneved, partisan sort of speech that politicians indulge in when they have to make a great show of opposition without much material for criticism. It makes the dullest of reading and the reader is inclined to congratulate himself as well as Sir Charles on the conclusion of the trial of endurance, when he comes to the end of the speech.

Mr. Nicholas Flood Davin, imitating is no abatement of that desire on the Sir Charles, also taiked four and a half | part of the present Legislature and the hours to empty benches.

The usual formalities connected wi the organizing of a newly-elected legislature were observed at Fredericton Thursday last, Chief Justice Tuck swear-

Lieut. Governor McClelan proceeded to the Legislature at 3 p.m. with Sheriff Sterling and Coroner Coulthard as van guard, and was escorted and accompanied by the usual militia officers in uniform. A guard of honor received him in front of the Parliament building and a salute was fired from the canon stationed on the river bank. The galleries were crowded chiefly by ladies, many of whom, however, appeared to have left their good manners at home, for they talked sufficiently loud while the Speech was being services. read and other opening proceedings conducted to cause stangers, at all events, to wonder at their so far forgetting them-

Hon. Geo. F. Hill Charlotte County's veteran representative, was, on motion of Premier Emmerson, seconded Douglas Hazen, leader of the Opposition, unanimously elected Speaker, and having, in his usual felicitous manner expressed his thanks, was heartily congratulated on the honor conterred upon him.

Then, His Honor. Governor McClelan. re-entered the chamber read the following Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the Legislative

It gives me great pleasure to welcome you as the Peoples' Representatives, returned at the recent General Election the many blessings which our people have in the past enjoyed are through the mercies of a kind Providence still continued to us. You are already aware that since the last Session of the Legislature Her Majesty has been pleased to appoint the Earl of Minto. Governor-General of Canada. I am sure that you will join with me and the people of Canada generally, in extending cordial greetings to His Excellency, in whom we shall, I feel assured, find a constitutional representative of our beloved Queen. The expressions of welcome which loyally accord to the new Governor General will not lessen in any degree the regrets which we experienced at the departure of the Earl of Aberdeen, whose untiring zeal and devotion to the general prosperity of the people of Canada, signally characterized his administration and served in a marked degree to cement the bonds which attach our people to the Empire.

The increased prosperity of the Dominion during the past year in Trade and Commerce, and the extent to which the resources of Canada are becoming known throughout the Empire and the World, encourage the trust that there will be not only a continuation of such conditions, but greater activity in all industrial efforts during the current year, over all portions of the Dominion, and that the high hopes of the people as to the future of our country will be abundantly realized.

The interesting character of the exhibit made by this Provinte at the Sportsmen's Show held in Boston in March last, did so much to bring to the notice of the people of this continent the unrivalled opportunities which we offer to the sportsman and tourist, and was in all respects so promotive of good results, that the expectations of my Government in undertaking the display were, I am pleased to announce, more than realized. The awakened interest which I am glad to note is being taken in the Mineral resources of our Province has encouraged my Government to take further steps to secure the prospecting and development of the heretofore dormant wealth of our resources, and a New Brunswick should be." (Great apmeasure having this object in view will be plause.) submitted for your consideration. The efforts already put forth by my Government, to stimulate and advance the Agricultural interests of New Brunswick, have been fraught with such favorable results, that further advances in this same direction are deemed desirable, and there will be presented to you propositions to develop and promote that branch of animal husbandry known as Pork raising, with a view to the promotion of pork packing establishments in our midst, thus enabling us as a Province to more successfully compete with other Provinces and States, in the markets of Great Britain and other countries. The pronounced success which has attended the efforts of my Government to advance the cheese industry, has encouraged them to make additional strenuous efforts to induce the manufacture of creamery butter throughout the Province during the whole year. To this end there has been erected a model creamery and butter-making house and he was repeatedly applauded. establishment at Sussex, which is now in successful operation, and has so fully demonstrated the fact that butter of the best grade can be advantageously made in the Province. at all seasons, that the Government confidently anticipate that similar industries will be established as the result of private enterprise at all suitable points; already one such industry has been started at Woodprovide the very best facilities for a Provincial Dairy School.

The authority given at their last Session has been acted upon, with results that promise favorably, but it is realized that if we are to encourage any appreciable flow of desirable settlers from the old lands, it will be necessary to have more and better information, in succinct form, as to the natural features and varied resources of our whole Province, and of its facilities for every branch of industry, than speedy and satisfactory settlement will be effected in the near future. The recent decision of the Judicial Committee of the Imperial Privy Council, dealing with the subject of the Fisheries, and the respective rights therein of the Provinces Dominion, confirms the claim made by the Provinces to valuable and extensive fishing rights over which the Dominion Governhas hitherto assumed the exclusive property and control, and defines more fully than had before been done the respective jurisdictions of the Federal and Local Governments over the subject matter of the Fisheries, at the same time leaving unimpaired the duty cast upon the Dominion to foster and protect all fisheries. A Committee of my Government, early in the year, held a conference on the matter with Committee of the Federal Government, and their report will be submitted to you, from which it will appear that the Department of Marine and Fisheries claims, that, while the judgment of the Privy Council is explicit upon most points, it still, unfortunately, leaves open to question the claim of the Province to proprietary rights in those shore fisheries located within the three mile limit. and below low water mark. In view of the circumstances and the importance of the interests involved, it is descrable that my Government should be placed in a position to enable it to deal fully, effectively and promptly with the whole subject matter, and with all conditions and phases of the questions which are hable to arise, and to this end, a measure dealing with the subject will be submitted to you. The unprecedentedly high price realized from the sale of Provincial 3 per cent. Bonds issued in February, 1898, to redeem outstanding Debentures then maturing, was most satisfactory, demonstrating, as it did, the very excellent standing of the Province in Finincial circles. Since then my Government has effected the sale of 3 per cent. Bonds at par, thus evidencing the fact that the financial credit of the Province, not only stands very high, but is advancing in a marked degree. A measure will be submitted to you giving authority to redeem, from time to time, as they mature, Bonds bearing a rate of interest above three per cent. by other Bonds to be issued and to bear interest at a rate not exceeding three per cent. I have directed the Accounts of the Income and Expenditure for the past year, as well as a statement of the Receipts and Payments of the current year, up to the opening of the present Session, to be laid Estimates of the probable Income and

His Honor then retired and Mr.

Mr. Robertson then paid a We have great cause for thanksgiving that tribute to the excellent choice of the successor to Lord Aberdeen, and he said, to prove himself a worthy successor to his distinguished predecessors in the office. (Hear, hear.)

All, he said, must endorse His Honor's reference to the increased prosperity of the Dominion during the past year in trade and commerce. The awakening interest in the mineral resources is a feature of an encouraging nature. For instance, the Yukon gold fields, the coal resources of Nova Scotia, also the probable oil and coal resources of New Brunswick. He spoke at considerable length on the success of the flour mill policy and predicted our farmers would raise more wheat this devoted considerable attention to the financial position of the province, which now stood high in the money markets of the world; and after giving the government credit for having done much to aid the many and varied interests in the province, he appealed to the people at large to cooperate with the administration in bringing about the highest attainable stage of development. He closed with these words: "As descendants of the loyalists; as descendants of the Anglo-Saxons; as descendants of the Normans and the Celts, and as descendants of the Acadians, New Brunswick should have all the energy necessary to make this province the great one that nature intended

THE SECONDER. Mr. Lawson, who seconded the address, after complimenting Mr. Hill on his election as speaker, expressed surprise that such an advocate of woman suffrage as the premier had countenanced a speech which contained no word of regret at the departure of Lady Aberdeen. He felt that New Brunswick was taking a prominent to elections to the general assembly. part in the new era of prosperity that had dawned upon Canada and while not a believer in paternalism, he hoped the legislature would do all in its power to assist in the development of the natural resources of the province. This establishment at Sussex has Eastern Extension claim question was incidentally enabled the Government to Mr. Hazen said he thought that reply should be received favorable Referring to the financial question, Mr. Hazen said there was nothing in the statement that the excellent financial position of the province as shown by the sale of bonds was due to the superior management of the government. The bonds of the province deservedly Poirier, Scovil, Russell, Purdy. command a high figure, but this was largely due to the fact that there was in the money centres of the world to-day an enormous amount of money seeking investment, for which no investment could be found. These capitalists were willing to take one half the interest they would have demanded twenty years ago. While he did not wish to decry the credit of the country, which was absolutely good, yet the fact that previncial bonds were selling at 3 per cent was due to financial and economic reasons that were broader. deeper and more far-reaching than any legislation that could possibly be passed by this house. He would allow that the

He hoped that in future all public works would be let by competition. Referring to the recent election, Mr. Hazen contended that while the government had won a sweeping victory, the number of seats carried by the opposition did adequately represent the proportion of votes polled by their candidates. The effect of the Moncton convention was good if for no other reason than that aroused an interest in provincial affairs that had not been taken for many years THE OPPOSITION PLATFORM.

Mr. Hazen said in conclusion that the opposition in the present house would Melanson, Gagnou, Glasier. Hon, Mr. Emmerson, on the order of the day being called, resumed the debate on the address. He complimented the mover and seconder of the address; referred in terms of regret to Dr. Stockton's absence and said that the new opposition leader had been delving around in the graveyard of dead issues. The opposition had been paying compliments to the government's agricultural and wheat policy. It had been suggested to him, however, that inasmuch as these gentlemen had adopted as their ensignia the brand of the Nive Roses, they were thus COMMISSION MERCHANTS. government might have had some legisplacing themselves in open antagonism to occurrence of practices that had prevailed manufactured in this province. (Laughter.)

case of "the survival of the fittest."

AGRICULTURE AND MINES. Proceeding Mr. Emmerson dwelt upon the government's agricultural policy, the favorable position taken now by Canadian products in the markets of the mother land, and the success of the new dairy school and of the winter butter-making experiments.

There were indications that the province was on the eve of great progress in agricultural and mining development. It was true that the government were not in position to expend the people's money in these explorations, but they could offer such inducements in the way of franchises and areas that hundreds of thousands of dollars would be brought into the province, under (L.S.) conditions that the people would receive their fair share of the profits that might be realized. He was satisfied that if the government had not by such a policy met the views of the honorable gentlemen opposite, they would at least meet the views of the people. He felt sure that the measures which were being introduced this session would indicate to the house how very important a matter this was, and he ventured the hope that when the matter was discussed by the house in all its details, there would be a consensus of opinion that the action of the government had been in the best interest of the province. He did not share Mr. Hazen's view that it would be impossible to divert immigration to this province. The geological survey of this province had produced meagre results, and he thought it would be enforced necessary for the province to have a survey such as had not yet been had in order that its natural resources and features might be accurately indicated. If that information could be placed in a succinct form much good would be accomplished. The Premier next adverted to the Eastern Extension claims and the prospect of their settlement and censured Hazen for not having when at Ottawa shown zeal in promoting this matter.

The opposition leader had referred rather flippantly to the financial position of the province. He could not deny, however, that the credit of the province was very high as compared with other provinces, and if so, he must admit that the government by its record had not done anything to injure the credit of the province. If the administration of the province was in weak and incompetent hands, how was it that the very financial institution (the Bank of B. N. A.) which attended to the financial transactions of the government, was the one to come forward and offer the highest rate for provincial bonds? How is it that the province of Nova Scotia to-day is unable in the money markets of the world, even though its bonds were listed in London, to secure anything like the figure that the provincial secretary (Tweedie) had obtained last winter for our 3 per cent bonds? He (Emmerson) had this upon authority of the provincial secretary and premier of Nova Scotia, and the fact could not be disputed.

FEDERAL AND LOCAL POLITICS.

CREDIT OF THE PROVINCE.

One of the strong claims put torward in support of the government's ticket in St. John was that if the action of St. John proved to be hostile to the dominion government and its friends, naturally the strong arm of the minister of railways and canals, our representative in the cabinet, would be paralyzed -not that he would be less anxious to help St. John, but that he would be unable to overcome the prejudice that might be created in consequence of the hostility shown to him and his friends. The hon. member (Hazen) had no right to complain that such an issue had been raised in the provincial arena, because he and his friends had been the aggressors. It was true the honorable minister of railways had taken a hand in the New Brunswick friends had invited, yea even challenged him to come, by meeting at Moncton and ment of Canada. The honorable minister of railways came to the province, not so Beautiful___ much to uphold the provincial administration, though composed of his friends, as in defence of his own position and the position of his government. It was the honorable gentleman and his friends who chose to run the contest on dominion lines and entirely irrespective of the merits or demerits of the government at Fredericton.
