Death of Mrs. McCurdy.

Mrs. Catharine Thomson McCurdy, widow of the late Rev. John McCurdy, D.D., Chatham, died last Friday morning after an ulness of three weeks, induced by a severe strack of the prevailing influenza. She had enjoyed remarkably good health almost up o her last illness, her bodily vigor enabling her to perform a vast amount of work during her long and useful life. She died in the house which had been her home for sixty-two years. By the death of Mrs. McCurdy anothe link is broken that connected us with the early days of the Miramichi settlement. The deceased lady was born in Perthshire, Scot and, on Ma ch 3rd 1815 and came with he parents to the then village of Chatham in the summer of the following year. He father, the Rev. James Thomson, of th Secession Church of Scotland, bes des being the first permanently settled Presbyterian minister in New Brnaswick, was the founder of St. Andrew's Church in this town, and as it- pastor labored hard and faithfully till hi premature decease in 1830. He was also a magistrate, a school rustee and a pioneer slong many paths of sectal development. When his successor, the Rev. John McCardy, of Jusiow, N S., arrived in Chatham, he round the congregation divided, the ad nerents of the Established Church of Scotland being then in the majority. The representatives of the original congregation, having received a legal indemnity from tnem, erect d in Chatham the edifice known ever since as St Johu's Courch.

In 1835 Miss Thomson was married to Mr. McCurdy. Their happy union was ended by Dr. McCurdy's death in 1868. She had always been an active pastor's wife, and after her husbana's dea h her in erest and labors or the congregation seemed to increase So long was she identified with its affairthat she exercised a remarkable influence over them, which although not asserted by herself was yet yielded as a concession due to time-honored and loving service rendered with christian cheerfulness and self-denial, and an active energy which was tireless. Length of years, indeed, only added to her zeil and devotion, and there was not an enterprise of the church which a woman could take part in which she did not forward with all her resources of hand, mind and heart. In the religious and benevolent work of the community generally she was an eager and unwearied participant. Of the Miramichi Laifes' Bible Society she was, for many years, the central figure and, as was said in the funeral address on Monday, its continued existence was the result of her arder and z-al. She ever gave close attention to its interests, not only contributing personally to its funds and directing the management of its affairs, but influencing others by precept and example to activity in the same direction. She was also associated with the local Women's Christian Temperance Union and was one of its wisest and most efficient members, her long experience The people of St. John, and indeed of the in Christian work and practical acquaintance province, generally, were greatly surprised | with the social conditions of the community on Friday last by the announcement that enabling her to counsel with wisdom, Venerable Archdescou Brigetocke, Rector of although she never assumed nor did she en-
