Rev. D. Henderson, in preaching to young men last Sabbath evening, dealt with the question of ideal manhood, which, he said. never could be reached without religion. He exhorted the young men to an harmonious and concurrent developement of all the parts of their triplex nature, and cautioned them against narrowness-trade and professional narrowness. We all need mixing and the more we mixed the better. It was possible to meet with mear, sordid and unmanly Christians who loved self supremely and whose religion seemed to be all in the tongue, but never got down to the pocket. That however was not true christianity. Where he saw the open forehead, the beaming countenance, the chivalrous a'r, the large and generous heart, he was more ready to think of Christ's ileal. Gentlemen: Your committee duly mot and appointed George Watt chairman, and have examined the accounts of the different departments and find $575.00 at credit of fire, $130 at credit of light, $148 at credit of police, $277 at credit of interest, $71 at credit of sinking tund, $532 at credit of schools; total, $1733, and we find an overexpenditure of $276 on contingent account and $745 on Board of Works, making total over expenditure of $1021, which would leave a balance on hand of $712. We have consulted with the various committees in reference to their requirements for the present year, and would respectfully submit the following estimate as necessary to properly carry on the business of the var ous departments:

This will give say $16,600 as revenue for present year, as some $1200 will probably be collected from censes, dog tax, etc. Your committee recommend a donation of two nundred and fifty dollars to the Hull fire sufferers, eeling that their necessities call for our assistance, We would also recommend payment of the following accounts:
