[Torouto Globe 17th May.] Without denying the proverbial wisdom which warns us of the uncertainty of elections, it may safely be said that the Liberals have in their hands the opportunity of winning in the next Dominion contest, and that they can make the result reasonably certain by good organization. A four years' trial has amply demonstrated the ability of Sir Wilfrid Laurier to form a strong and harmonious Adminis ration, contrasting vividly with that which, after a year of weakness and vacillation, fell to pieces in January 1896. In a very few months the new Government settled the Manitoba school question, which had been troubling the country for five or six years. They carried forward vigorously the work of deepening the canals ; they extended the Intercolonial Railway to Montreal ; they arranged for the construction of the Crow's Nest Pass Rulway on terms more favorable to the public than had ever before been obtained. Confronted with the task of governing a new mining community in the Yukon, they performed the duty so well that criticism his now almost entire-
