Chatham's Venerable Bishop.

On Wednesday next, August 15.h. His Lordship the Right Reverend James Rogers, D. D., Bishop of Chatham, will have completed forty years service in the Episcopacy. Dr. Rogers was consecrated at St. Dunstan's Cathedral, Charlottetown, on the feast of the Assumption, 1860, at the same time with Bishop McIntyre, by the late Archbishop Connolly. The other prelates attending were Bishop Sweeney of this city, who was consecrated just four months earlier, April 15th, 1860, and Drs. Mullock and Dilton, of Newfoundland, and McKinnon, of Arichat, They have all, with the exception of the venerable Ordinary of St. John, passed away to their reward. - Monitor.

CHATHAM'S PROPOSED NEW

PULP MILL!

A meeting of the ratepayers of Chatham

Town Meeting Votes Bonus of $15,000

was held in Masonic Hall on Tuesday evening for the purpose of considering the subject of giving aid to the new pulp mill proposed to be established on the Morrison mi property, near the upper end of the town. Mayor Loggie explained the object of meeting and called for the election of chairman. He was duly elected to th position and fully explained the meeting' object with which he was in sympathy He said that several places were auxious to secure the new enterprise : it necessary that it should be located and if Chatham wished to secure it it mu be prepared to offer some inducement that end to the promoters. The encouragement could take the form of a bonus, or exemption from taxation. At the conclusion of his remarks he called upon Alderma

Murdoch to place the subject more fully before the meeting. Ald. Murdoch submitted some figures, etc He said it would be necessary, if the town granted aid to the proposed sulphite pu mill, to extend the town limits. If the m were built as proposed it would be the mean of creating a new town in the territory to b taken in. The contemplated undertaking was a sulphite pulp mill of 50 tons capacity per day of twenty-four hours, to be increased afterwards to one hundred tons. It would employ two hundred men and its fortnightly pay roll would be $3,500, not including those indirectly employed. As the enterprise might be located in many places, there were bids for it from other towns. Woodstock had offered the promoters a bonus of $50,000; Newcastle had indirectly offered $30,000 Bathurst would give aid in the way of supply of wood and other encouragement Freight rates were against Woodstock. None of the other places offered as good facilities as Chatham, whose interest it was to show the stockholders that this was the place for the mil and Morrison's the site The promoters are asked what bonus would secure the mill for Chatham. He would show the meeting the advantage that would be to Chatham and leave the decision as to the aid to be given, to the meeting. If the mill proposed to be erected wer assessed at a valuation of $100,000 it would pay a tax directly to the town of $1,100 year, or $16,500 in fifteen years, The town would take in the territory up to the Harper Road which is now valued at $23,400. The additional income value which would b given to it by those connected with the mill would be say $20,000, a total of $43,400, which would bring an assessment income of $550 a year That would bring the total t x income for the town in a period of fifteen years up to $30,000. Supposing a bonus of $15,000 were given by the town. It would pay $600 a year for interest at four per cent. and $150 for sinking fund, or $750 in all, which would leave a net balance of $1,240 a year from the taxes collected, as the direct benefit of having the pu'p mill. Besides this there would be the taxes to be collected from stores and other property which would spring up in the mill's locality and to supply its people. There would also be an increase in the value of existing properties in the locality and that would mean more income for the town. [Applause.] After a few remarks from Chairman Loggie as to the desirability of having a resolution before the meeting-Mr. W. C. Winslow took the platform, and after referring to the importance of the proposes new industry to the workingmen and to the interests of Chatham generally, said the town should not miss the chance of securing i He referred to the necessity of extending the town limits in the event of the mill being built at Morrison's cove in order secure to the town the binefit of the assessable value to be created. He was opposed to the principle of tax-exemption, but it was right to compete with other places for such industries a this, and he proposed to move that a bonu of $15,000 be granted by the Town Chatham to the proposed pulp mill and exemption from taxes. [Applause.] was assured that $15,000 would secure the enterprise for Chatham. Mr. Winslow then moved the resolution in favor of the town applying for the necessary legislative authority, as follows :-Whereas it is proposed to form a company with a fully paid up capital stock of $200,-000, to establish works for the manufacture of sulphite fibre at a cost of $170,000 or thereabouts on the site of what is know as Morrison's mill property, Clark's Cove. Chatham and the promoters of the said company have requested the Mayor of the said Town of Chatham pursuant to section 15 of 59th Victoria, chapter 46 of the act of the General Assembly to call a publi meeting of the ratepayers of the town to be held in the Masonic Hall ou Tuesday evening, August 14th, 1900, at 7.30 p.m. for the and began the work of rescuing those purpose of taking a vote of the ratepayers imprisoned in the badly battered cars. to approve of a grant or bonus to be given by the town to aid said enterprise and to extend the town limits so as to include said pulp mill works and property.

Property Rights in Photographic Negatives.

That a photographer has no right to use the negatives of sitters without their sent was again established one day last week. At the Westminister County Court the Taber Bas-Relief Photo Company were sued for damages by two actresses (sisters) for selling their portraits without mission. According to the reports in the press the ladies had their portraits taken in the ordinary way of business. Later, when touring in the country, they found them sale everywhere. The portraits appeared on Christmas cards and on handkerehief and glove boxes, etc. For the defendants it was said that the ladies paid reduced prices, it being usual for professional ladies to do this; also that there was nothing on the photographs to indicate the names of tho ladies. In the end the judge found for the ladies with 10 guiceas costs each, and granted lajunctions restraining further sales. It has been established over and over again that the negative is the property of the photographer. It has also been established that he has no right to use it for any purpose of his own without the con ent the sitter. That point was first decided in a law court, if we remember rightly, in the case of Pollard versus The Photographic Company, many years ago. We call special attention to this case, because we know that some photographers imagine that, as the negatives are their property, they have the right to do as they like with them. They have not, however, even to the extent of exhibiting them in their showcases, without permission of the sitters.-British Journal of Photography.

Your correspondent had a short talk with R. V. Barker, traveller for T. B. Barker & Sone, St. John, who had boarded the train at Cody's. He was sitting in the baggage car with Bernard. Conducter Ryan was breaking the car, the train crew being one man short. A sudden jolt threw Barker from his chair. He instantly caught hold of something and bung to it tightly until the crash came. He new instantly when the first jolt came what had happened, and area would have to be exempted from town knowing the road, realized the awfulness of the situation. When the car struck he was those living in the east end of the town are, brought up standing. Mr. Caldwell had little to tell. He said there were only four people in the passenger car, Mrs. Hetherington and child, he and his son. Caldwell and his son were sitting side by side, the lad looking out the window, when the cars fell. He was thrown to the noor, but the lad remained on the seat. After a little he saw the young fellow disappear

He was much relieved in a few moments when a head was poked through the window and he was told he would be taken out in a few minutes. To the Editor of the Daily Echo. Dear Sir, - In hopes that someone may be benefited by my experience, I wish to tel you what Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills have done for me. For years I suffered with a weak back, which at times was almost un bearable. To lift anything of any weight meant to be laid up for a week or two. Having been treated by several doctors without success, I was quite despondent, when a friend drew my attention to Clarke's Little Red Pille, and I decided to give them a trial. I now feel like a new man, having taken only four boxes, and have no trouble whatever with my back.

I can heartily recommend this for all cases of lumbago, rheumatism, &c., S. W. Cleary, Sault Ste. Marie.
