Mr. Morrissey's Aids and Position.

It seemed to government supporters and sav :who attended the meeting of last Wednesday night in Masonic Hall a most extraordinary and inconsistent thing that Mayor Loggie and Mr. Watt of Chatham who were the principal speakers in support of Mr. Morrissey, should think it worth while to antagonise the leading Liberals of the County by the unfriendly references they made to Hon. A. G. Blair. Mr. Blair is the recognised leader of the Liberals of New Brunswick and Mr. Loggie fails to understand his position as a Liberal when he propounds the doctrine that Mr. Blair should have nothing to say We Cannot Replace Them. on the subject of candidates in the different constituencies. Mr. Blair has never attempted to dictate who the candidates should be or who electors should vote for, but if he has made suggestions to members of the party they should be respected. We fear that Mr. Loggie is one of the class of Liberals who have done so much towards the disintegration of the party who are guided by the party leaders only when it suits their views of the time, and who reserve to themselves the right to rebel against party authority and the party's chiefs as the whim may seize them.

As to Mr. Watthe was a Tory of the tories up to 1887, when he joined the Liberals. He has ever been an opponent of Mr. Blair and of all liberals or conservatives who have supported him That he should continue to rail at that gentleman and the people of Northumberland who acknowledge him as their leader is not, therefore, a matter of surprise, but political friends of Mr. Blair can hardly be expected to range themselves with any candidate who has such people as his chief aids.

Friends of Mr. Blair cannot forget that Mr. Morrissey was one of the most bitter tories in Northumberland and an abusive opponent of that gentleman until he became Minister of Railways in 1896. Then, Mr. Morrissey, who had opposed the Liberal candidate in that year, joined one of the Liberal factions which was struggling with the others to secure for themselves the patronage which Mr. Blair had at his disposal in this county. Life-long friends and supporters of Mr. Blair cannot therefore have any confidence in Mr. Morrissey in this election, especially when they saw that he looked at the time of his nomin ation for his chief support to men who showed that they were not only not in accord with Mr. Blair, but were, in heart, his opponents.

The general committee of the Con servative party campaign organization is sending posters and placards through Neguse, calling at Escuminac on Mondays, and Wednesdays and Bay du vin on Tuesdays, Thurs days and Saturdays returning to Chatham same day. and are causing certain of their agents here to circulate this campaign literature in Northumberland, ostensibly in Mr. Robinson's interest. It is a part of the World office scheme and of a piece with the printing of the Robinson card at a late hour on Saturday night and without the sanction of the great body of Mr. Robinson's friends and supporters.

A noticeable thing in connection with the placards sent here from the Conservative general headquarters is the fact that although Mr. Foster's friends claim that he is the leader of the party for New Brunswick and Sir Charles' first lieutenant, they ignore him and place Hugh John Macdonald's party. They know that Mr. Foster is to be beaten in St. John and that he is the most unpopular of all the federal politicians, hence, they have deposed Excursion Rates on Steamer him without waiting for the undoubted defeat which awaits him at Mr. Blair's hands on Wednesday next. As for Hugh John Macdonald, his being placed in a prominent position reminds the people that the Tuppers are simply appealing to the country on the prestige of the young man's dead father. They have no merits of their own and Hugh was represented. Mr. Newcombe, Q. C., John, himself, although but a mediocral deputy minis er of justice, represented John Robinson, er. Newcasile lawr st, is simply made use of because the Dominion.

forth the facts connected with the reference and the proceedings of their court.

"We find and report that the section of railway in question, in or about the year 1869, was taken over by the government of Canada and adopted as part of the Intercolonial railway, the government paying for the road the sum of $894,000, of which $250,000 was carried to the credit of the province on debt account and the balance was paid to the contractors who had constructed the road under the contract with the government of New

"That up to the time the road was so taken over the government of New Brunswick had paid through the Dominion government subsidy for the construction of the road $400,000 and there was therefore a balance of $150,000 of this total expenditure by the province unpaid to them at

"That the sum of $894,000 was much less than the amount which the road had actually cost, but that sum appears to have been arrived at by taking as a basis the estimated cost of what were considered similar sections on other portions of the Intercolonial railway.

"That at various times between 1869 and 1884 the government of the province claimed from the Dominion government to be reimbursed in full for the outlay which the province had made and of which the Dominion was getting the benefit and accordingly the Canadian government directed a further investigation of the cost of the road to be made by their own engineer, from whose report it appears that the estimated cost which formed the basis of the original payment of $894,000 was altogether too low.

"That in 1884 the government of Canada, under these facts as to the cost by their engineer, obtained from parliament a vote of $150,000 to reimburse the government of New Brunswick for money expended by them in the construction of this section of railway; and under the authority of that vote the sum of $150,000 was on the first of July, 1884, carried to the credit of the province on debt account.

"That previous to 1884 the government of the province not only claimed to be reimbursed this sum of $150,000, but in addition the various amounts which they would have obtained semi-annually as interest on that sum, if it had been carried to the credit of that province in 1869 when they contended it should have been and it is for this sum so retained and interest thereon since 1869 that the present claim is made.

"We find and report that the contention made on the part of the Dominion that the $150,000 voted in 1884 was in full of all claims by the province in connection with this road is not sustained by the evidence, but that the fects and circumstances are altogether the other way.

"We, the said arbit tors, having duly considered all the matter upon equitable principles do award and determine as our opinion that it would be a just and equitable disposition of the claim that the Dominion government should pay to the province of New Brunswick the various semi-annual payments of $3,750 to which it would have been entitled if this $150 .-000 had been carried to the credit of the province in 1869 instead of 1884 as we think it equitably should have been; with interest at 5 per cent. on the several semi-annual payments from the time they would have been payable up to the first of July, 1884, when the $150,000 was credited. This sum we find to amount to $145,218 75, and we also award and state as our opinion that on this sum the province is entitled to be paid by the Dominion government interest at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum.

The amount of the award, therefore, is in round numbers $286.812. It is a fortunate thing that Mr. Blair is to be returned to parliament and sustained in his position as a minister of the Crown, as he will thereby be in a position to have the awa.d paid to New Brunswick. Involved in Mr. Blair's election is Jas, Brown, the defeat of Mr. Foster, and he will not, therefore, be in parliament to again use his influence in having payment witheld. E. P. Political Notes.

The correspondent of Montreal La Presse, the great Liberal-Conservative daily, who was sent to Toronto on the occasion Premier Laurier's recent visit to that city. thus wrote of what he observed :

Geo. S. Stothart, Newcastle, "At the present moment Toronto, the Thos. Dunn. old Tory city, is entirely changed. It is as well to tell it and not let friends deceive themselves with unavailing hopes. From what I can see, there will be no change of figures in Outario. The Liberals w.ll keep a majority of between ten and eleven. Such the position and it is useless to beat about the bush.' Howard Richards,

A Carleton Junction, Ont., despatch last Thursday shows that Sir MacKenzie Bowell, ex-Conservative Premier, and at present the leader in the Senate of the Conservative party, is determined to get even with the "nest of traitors" of which Messrs. Foster and Haggart were leaders. The despatch says :-

Sir Mackenz e Bowell, spoke to-night favor of the Independent Conservative, Dr. Preston, against Hon. John Haggart, exminister of railways, and declared that the names of Haggart and others whom he would mention in their presence stank in

On the other hand, Sir Thomas A. Arbo, Upper Blackville, Charles Tupper supports the whole "Nest Jas. C. Weaver, Blisefield, of Traitors." "This," the Toronto Giobe says, "means that in the event of the government being defeated, the affairs of the country will not be handed over to the Fenton Burgon, Blackville, Conservative party, but to warring factions, with the result that muddling and turmoil bordering on a state of anarchy would ensue," but the Globe considers that these Thomas Weaver, Blackville, factions, travelling under the guise of Conservatives, have no chance to regain made the usual declaration as to the two candidates nominated, stated that polling would take place on 7th inst., and that the court would adjourn until Saturday, 10th farmer November at 11 o'clock, when the result of the polling etc., would be declared.

A few minutes before two o'clock, the candidates appeared on the band stand at the west end of the town park and there were several hundred electors on hand to hear the nomination speeches.

W. A. Hickson, Esq., was unanimously chosen chairman and first introduced Mr Robinson who was received with enthusiasm Mr. Robinson said he had much pleasure in appearing again before the electors as a candidate and felt satisfied that the support he had had received from them in the past would be accorded to him in the present election. During his term as a representative he had endeavored to serve their interests faithfully and to promote the welfare of his native county.

Although not altogether in accord with the present Government, he had not ceased to press upon them the requirements of this County and he was pleased to say that many of his recommendations and requests had been carried out by the Government. He had tried in all things to adhere to the principles upon which he was elected. Many of the public works that have lately been commenced in this County had been undertaken

Many changes had taken place since he appeared before them four years ago. At that election he was running against one of the best known and most popular men the County of Northumberland had ever had, and he regretted-and they all must regret -that death has taken him from them. He referred to the late Hon. Peter Mitchell. No one can take away or disparage the strong position which he held in the County of Northumberland or the great benefits that resulted from his efforts as a representative. It was a matter of sincere regret to many of his friends that at the election to which he referred and some time previously, he had got out of touch with his oldtime supporters, but all knew how changes are ever going ou and taking place in the political areua. Mr Mitchell had passed away from them, but his work would still live.

Since the time of his last election another prominent man, and a strong personal friend. had also passed away-the late Senator Adams. He might say that he was Mr. Adams' political pupil. It was at his instance that he (Robinson) first placed himself as a candidate before the people of this County, and from that time up to the day of his death they had remained fast friends. He was a man who deserved well at the hands of his County and he knew that his memory would ever be cherished. In every way he upheld its honor and battled for its stevedore | rights, and he trusted that the politicians of the future would be as energetic, self-sacrificing and independent in their views as those two gentlemen whom he had named.

In local politics, too, changes had taken place, and the County of Northumberland | good feeling all round. is now in the position to claim the Premier of the Province as one of its representatives. It is an honor that does not fall to every County and he thought that after being many years in the background the people of the County should feel proud to have representatives able to take the front rank. The policy of the local government and the views so often expressed by its leader, that the rights and interests of the Province are of more importance to the people than party politics, have been endorsed by the people of the country.

the opposition was got up against him in order that he might be placed on record. Ever since he had been elected in 1890 to the Local House, and since 1896 in the Dominion Parliament, he had been on record, and his record was that at all times he had been ready and willing to promote, and had promoted the interests of the Province & Co. Mr. Morrissey, being next introduced, was well received, especially by two enthusiastic and irrepressible friends, who seemed determined to share in the speaking. He declared that Robinson was the candidate of four or five lumbermen, while he was the man chosen by the Liberal party and the rest of the people whom these lumbermen had tried to deprive of their right to vote by putting Mr. Robinson up and saying there should be no opposition to him. He named Mr. Bu chill and referred to other Liberals who were supporting Mr. Robinson, to show that Mr. Robinson could not be a good Conservative and said there must be something behind it. "That something," said Mr. Morrissey "is stumpage." He said they wanted to continue to pay 30 cents, instead of the dollar they ought to pay. He had been opposed to these men in every election and was going to down them now. He said Robinson had done nothing in four years. He had been at home attending to his business when the House was in session. He had made no speeches in parliament; why didu't he discuss the Liberal policy? He had been forced on Saturday night and put out his card as a Conservative. This was in the Conservative rooms and amongst others present were D. G. Smith. Being told at once by Mr. Smith that he was not at the meeting, Mr. Morrissey said he had been told so, and he, proceeded t have a fling at that gentleman, but was only laughed at for his spiteful remarks.

He proceeded to praise Mr. Blair's management of the I. C. R. and said he, himself, was the Liberal government candidate. Then he went at some length into the results of the Laurier administration, quoting some of the returns of customs, etc., already given in the ADVANCE.

He reverted to the lumbermen and said they were in league with the local government. The Northumberland deal had made the county a bye word and caused it to stink in people's nostrile.

Premier Tweedie had declared that he intended to support Mr. Blair and the Laurier policy and that showed that he was opposed to the Conservatives In closing, Mr. Morrissey expressed the hope that the election would be run with Mr. Robinson replied briefly to Mr.

Did anybody ever hear of any speech Mr. Morrissy made there?
